Ford Calls In Top Advisers For Fuel Talks

Conservation Efforts Claimed Not Enough

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, evidently convinced his voluntary approach tofuel conservation is not enough, met today with top domestic advisers to assess the energy situation and its impact on America's ailing economy.

The meeting to discuss "the whole range of the energy problem" followed a White House announcement yesterday that Ford would propose a new national energy policy next month.

There were indications the policy might contain some tough measures to cut fuel consumption, including possible new fuel allocations and some type of increased tax on petroleum products.

The meeting, originally scheduled to include only Ford, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton and energy adviser Frank Zarb, was broadened at the last minute when several other top presidential assistants were invited to the White House Cabinet Room.

Among those also present were White House counsellor Robert Hartmann and three economic chiefs —Treasury Secretary William Simon, presidential adviser L. William Seidman and Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Simon and Seidman arrived shortly after the meeting got underway, as did Hartmann and presidential assistant Richard Cheney. A White House spokesman acknowledged that the meeting was expanded to include them, as well as Brent Scowcroft, deputy assistant to the President for national security, and several other aides.

The spokesman said Ford and his advisers were holding a "discussion of the whole range of the energy problem, including the economic impact."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said earlier the meeting was not likely to result in any immediate major policy decisions.

But Nessen also signalled an apparent shift by Ford away from the exclusive reliance on a voluntary energy saving program, acknowledging that it was not bringing about the kind of reduction in oil imports that Ford had hoped for.

As a result, he said, the President would have to consider a variety of "mandatory" steps, although he declined to go into specifics.

"The decisions he makes ... probably will be announced in the State of the Union message," Nessen said, adding that the address would be delivered shortly after the new Congress convenes Jan. 14.

The President has said repeatedly that he would prefer to avoid mandatory conservation, but many of his advisers have let it be known they saw some stringent new moves as inevitable, and Nessen's comments were seen as a reflection of a changing attitude on Ford's part.

Other officials said several policy options were likely to get consideration.

Among those mentioned were a return to the mandatory allocation program that went into effect last year to counter the Arab oil boycott and some form of increased tax on petroleum products, including an increase in the retail gasoline tax despite Ford's often stated opposition.

Considered less likely was the prospect of gasoline rationing, although that too was bound to come under discussion.

A final package of recommendations will be developed for Ford by the Energy Resources Council and then, between Dec. 17-28, Ford will review the overall picture with his top aides and decide, Nessen said.

By MARY LEYDECKER

Daniel Ellsberg, who moved to Mill Valley "to get away from the Defense Department," yesterday said that if the department isn't actually behind the burglary of his home, it still hopes to profit from it.

"The burglar (who took his documents and notes) may not have been paid in $100 bills," Ellsberg said, referring to the manner in which the Watergate burglars were paid, but "the Defense Department still wants those notes."

Ellsberg described the "four large briefcases and bags" full of papers taken Oct. 1 from his home on West Blithedale Avenue at a press conference in his lawyer's office in San Francisco.

He said the stolen documents are "not another Pentagon Papers" caper but are notes from his court case as well as at least four cables which the Department of Defense "considers classified."

Ellsberg said he thinks the department wants to "get the papers into a burn bag or a shredder as quickly as possible," because some of them contain what Ellsberg termed "history," which might be embarrassing to the department.

The papers in question are ensconced on a shelf in the closet in the Mill Valley Police Department, Ellsberg said, and Chief William A. Walsh has

Plan To Split County Units Is Disclosed

Proposal Would Disband The Housing Authority

By ERIK M. INGRAM

A sweeping plan to divide up the County Planning Department and bring the semi-autonomous Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency under county control was unveiled yesterday by Marin County Administrator John F. Barrows.

The document, to be reviewed Tuesday by county supervisors, lists three possible schemes and recommends one which would vest the administrator's office with new powers over planning, housing and redevelopment.

Barrows has proposed that:

1. The Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency boards of directors be disbanded with supervisors assuming control of what would be a community development commission.

2. A seven-member advisory committee be appointed for the new Community Development Commission.

3. The position of executive director of the redevelopment agency be abolished. The post is now held by Wallace K. Shepherd. Until recently, Shepherd also was executive director of the housing authority, but was fired from that job by the authority board.

4. The County Planning Department be divided up, with the advanced planning section placed under the administrator's wing and the current planning section placed under the authority of the director of environmental services, Thomas Severns.

Supervisors requested the reorganization plan last month after they demoted planning director Werner Von Gundell to acting director because of disenchantment with his administrative abilities.

Von Gundell's future under the reorganization is not clear, although he was promised a "prominent position" by supervisors when he was demoted.

Barrows said the reorganization will place the county in a better position to cope with the administrative requirements of implementing the county general plan and the housing and community development act of 1974.

Basically it gives his office greater authority to oversee, coordinate and plan the programs of various county departments, as recommended by last year's grand jury.

NOW, IT'S GINGERBREAD PERSONS

Jobless Roll Still Climbing; California At 8.7 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. economy lost 790,000 jobs in November, leaving six million workers unemployed — 6.5 per cent of the labor force.

The government predicted higher unemployment in December, pushing the jobless rate near 7 per cent in January.

California's unemployment rate jumped from 8.1 to 8.7 per cent in November, the highest level in more than three years, the state reported yesterday.

State officials also indicated the rate, which far exceeded the national jobless rate of 6.5 per cent for last month, would increase further in the coming months.

The unemployment rate was the highest since the 8.7 per cent recorded in September 1971. The rate in 1971 peaked at 9.3 per cent in April before declining steadily to 6.9 per cent last year.

The statistics, grim as they are, partly obscured the country's dismal job picture because they did not include many auto industry layoffs that occurred after mid-November and some layoffs related to the nationwide coal strike.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that total jobs in the economy declined 790,000 during November, almost the total number of jobs added during the entire year.

During the month 462,000 workers joined the ranks of the unemployed. Another 328,000 persons left the civilian labor force, apparently through retirement or not seeking work.

If these workers had remained in the labor market the unemployment rate would have been even higher.

The White House expressed concern yesterday that Congress had not acted on an extended unemployment benefits program President Ford proposed several weeks ago.

Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan said Congress ought to get to work on the bill. "Help is needed now. An unemployed worker cannot wait long to eat or to pay the rent," he said.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said Congress and the White House should take immediate action to stimulate the economy.

SPECIAL SKI EDITION IN MAGAZINE

Marinites rarely see snow in their own county. But they are, nevertheless, ardent winter sports fans, flocking by the thousands to the nearby ski resorts in the High Sierra.

Those "go to the snow" expeditions are now under way for the 1974-75 season. And to mark the start of the winter fun, today's expanded Marin Magazine section of the Independent-Journal is devoted largely to skiing, snowmobiling and related sports.

Marin City Redevelop Foes Lose

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Opponents of a proposed 138-unit subdivision in Marin City went down to defeat yesterday in federal court here when U.S. District Judge Albert C. Wollenberg denied their request for a preliminary injunction to stop construction of the project.

Some Marin City residents had tried to block construction on the grounds that the development will be a white ghetto of luxurious townhouses on redevelopment land above the black community. They have charged the project will "increase residential segregation by race," in Marin City.

Townhouses in the new 36-acre project would sell for between $47,000 and $57,000.

The opponents want to see low and moderate cost housing included in the development.

Wollenberg said yesterday it is unlikely that plaintiffs in the suit will prevail at a final hearing to be held later for a permanent injunction.

He said there are substantial questions unanswered about the effect of the development on the racial makeup of Southern Marin County and that "under these circumstances preliminary relief is not justified."

Attorney Cecil Poole, speaking for the developer, Mid-City Financial Corp. of Chevy Chase, Md., said the firm can begin building immediately.

The suit was brought by the Marin City Tenants Council, Marin City Council and six residents, against Highlands Associates, Mid-City Financial Corp. and Shire West the county of Marin, its planning commission and the Marin County Redevelopment Agency.

REDEVELOPMENT PLANS

Two More Proposals Discussed

What shape will redevelopment take in the City of San Rafael?

That question will confront the San Rafael City Council when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Monday as the city redevelopment agency to consider the future of local urban renewal.

At issue are four redevelopment "sketch plans" — preliminary redevelopment proposals representing varying degrees of private development and public investment — prepared by teams of San Francisco consulting firms.

City leaders may embrace one of the proposals, or they may elect to fashion a new plan using various elements of the sketch plans provided by consultants.

Plans three and four are examined today by Independent-Journal reporter Nels Johnson in the second of a three-part series on the proposals.

PLAN THREE

A moderate level of new development and public improvements throughout the San Rafael redevelopment area — including a shopping center of up to 400,000 square feet at the foot of Fourth Street — is proposed in Redevelopment Sketch Plan Three.

The plan calls for a revitalized downtown, the shopping center, new kinds of land use along Francisco Boulevard and residential and recreational development on the city's waterfront. The facilities would be geared primarily to the needs of San Rafael area residents, rather than the county as a whole.

"The expected effect is to achieve a moderately high level of tax revenues, and significant and extensive economic and environmental rehabilitation," according to the plan.

The plan seeks to make the San Rafael Canal area a more vital and attractive part of the city life and city scene and to create a downtown area adapted to pedestrian use and pleasure, integrating new shopping facilities and the old in the vicinity of Fourth Street.

The plan would require "considerable long-term fiscal and policy commitments" and would "limit development ... in keeping with the scale and suburban-to-rural atmosphere of the surrounding residential areas."

The plan makes these proposals:

DOWNTOWN

Development proposed downtown includes a subregional shopping complex including two major department stores and parking for up to 2,000 cars. The center would require the city to assemble a 15-to-20-acre site near the foot of Fourth Street.

Up to 200,000 square feet of offices — with parking for up to 600 cars — are proposed for the area adjacent to the shopping

See PLAN THREE, page 6

PLAN FOUR

Improving the appearance of San Rafael with a minimum of major changes in the city is proposed by Redevelopment Sketch Plan Four.

The plan emphasizes environmental concerns and encourages preservation, beautification, restoration and rehabilitation rather than new construction.

"The expected effects are a moderate increase in tax revenues, with economic and environmental rehabilitation limited to some parts of the project area," according to the plan.

The plan proposes some new development along the San Rafael Canal in the vicinity of Highway 101 and around the edges of downtown. But it calls for renovation rather than rebuilding of most other areas of the city.

The proposal would require "moderate to high policy and fiscal commitments to the redevelopment of central San Rafael," according to consultants.

The plan makes these proposals:

DOWNTOWN

It seeks to redesign Fourth Street and adjacent streets to encourage pedestrian rather than automobile traffic along them. It also proposes a facelift for downtown buildings.

Up to 50,000 square feet of

State Bank Condition Reports Not Issued For Past 2 Years

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Department of Banking has failed for two years to issue reports on the financial condition of California banks as required by law, it was learned yesterday.

Donald Pearson, superintendent of banks, said the delays were due to internal problems, staff shortages and computer related foulups.

Pearson said the annual reports on banks for the fiscal years 1972-73 and 1973-74 were sent to the state printer, but a spokesman in that office said it received only one report.

State law directs the department to submit a report annually after the close of each fiscal year June 30. The report concerns the fiscal condition of the state's multi-billion banking industry, information on national banks and operations of the State Banking Department.

Pearson said the reports didn't contain anything "startling" or "new or dramatic" and "it was simply a job" of compiling information which was already public.

But veteran Assemblyman Edwin Z'berg, D-Sacramento, a member of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, disagreed.

"I have written a letter to the department asking for the reports," Z'berg said. "I think it is of the utmost importance, especially in a period of great economic concern, to know the financial conditions of our banks."

The report, Pearson told UPI in an interview, receives wide circulation and is sent to the governor, the legislature, banks and libraries.

A spokesman in the State Printer's Office said the 1972-73 report was received on Nov. 19, and the second report had not been received.

Deputy Superintendent of Banks Fred Hillebrandt said the second report was sent to the printer "a week or 10 days ago from Los Angeles" and that might account for its absence.

"Well, you are talking abouta situation in which we had to feed all this financial information into a computer," said Pearson when asked about the delay. "It required tremendous dealing with tremendous problems as they came up. We got those problems behind us.

"I'm not going to say we didn't have any internal problems over here," he said. "I did do some reassignment of responsibilities just to make sure that we were going to get some of these things out in better shape."

He said assembling the information with the department's "short staff" caused "serious internal problems."

Asked what might happen to him for not complying with the statute, he said, "I'm sure the penalties are whatever the governor or the legislature wants to do."

Price Index Error May Sap Pay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department says it found an error in the Consumer Price Index, and that could mean lower pay for many American workers in future months.

The index is the government's main barometer of the cost of living. Many labor union contracts, including the new one signed by the United Mine Workers, provide for pay adjustments based on the index.

The Labor Department said yesterday it will revise the index downward for last April through October, probably by 0.1 to 0.3 points.

It said the error involved prices of used cars reported to the government by dealers.

"Up to a certain point (April) they quoted a price excluding air conditioning. After that they quoted a price including air conditioning," a department spokesman said.

"We ended up comparing prices of cars without air conditioning to cars with air conditioning."

Cancer Deaths Higher In Plant

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A study of deaths among workers at Bethlehem Steel's Sparrows Point plant here has turned up an unusually high proportion of cancer-related mortalities, according to a state consultant.

The study, conducted by Dr. Edward Radford, a state consultant specializing in industrial health, found cancer deaths among white male steelworkers at the plant to be 50 per cent more frequent than among a random sampling of white residents of the city.

Cancer deaths among black male workers were discovered to be 22 per cent more common than the city's black population as a whole.

Ravi Shankar Hospitalized

CHICAGO (UPI) — Indian sitar player Ravi Shankar, who was midway through a 34-city North American tour when he became ill, was listed in good condition at Henrotin Hospital today. Shankar has been hospitalized since Wednesday for apparent heart trouble, a hospital spokesman said.

The spokesman said Shankar was "resting comfortably," his "vital signs are good." Shankar was stricken following a Tuesday night performance with former Beatle George Harrison in Chicago.

Israeli Search

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli soldiers and navy patrol boats hampered by driving rain searched near the Lebanese border today for comrades of an Arab guerrilla slain in a raid on the Israeli frontier settlement of Rosh Hanikra.

One member of the guerrilla band was slain and two Israeli citizens were wounded in the attack yesterday. Two other commandos escaped.

Pact Expected

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan and the United States are expected to conclude a two-year agreement on fishing in the North Pacific and the Bering Sea Monday, according to the fisheries agency.

A spokesman for the agency said yesterday "We are still divided on several issues but we hope the differences will be straightened out by Monday."

New Taint

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department warned yesterday that a second lot of 24,000 cans of beef stew distributed under store brand labels is suspected of containing potentially deadly botulism contamination.

The new consumer alert said Kroger supermarkets and Winn-Dixie, a southeastern chain with headquarters in Jacksonville, Fla., have begun a recall of the entire suspect production run.

Talks End

PARIS (UPI) — French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev ended three days of talks today, with the French accepting Moscow's demands for a 35-nation conference on European security.

Apparent agreement between the two leaders on a 35-nation spring summit in Helsinki was one of the highlights of the talks.

Delta Battle

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces battled government troops for control of the Mekong Delta's rice crop in the second heaviest wave of assaults since the cease-fire agreement, the Saigon command said today.

Fighting in South Vietnam reached a near-record high when the command reported 273 attacks across the country between dawn yesterday and sunup today.

Strike Ends

NEW YORK (UPI) — Unionized deliverymen and plant workers reached tentative agreement early today with 115 milk companies to end a strike that cut off most milk supplies to the metropolitan area.

A management spokesman said he foresaw no increase in the price of milk as a direct result of the agreement because a two-cent a quart increase on Dec. 1 had taken into account the anticipated cost of the settlement.

Executive Freed

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas have released kidnaped Austrian steel executive Eric Breuss, dropping him out of the back of a pickup truck drugged, gagged, and handcuffed, police said.

The 41-year-old production manager of the Acindar steel plant near Cordoba was kidnaped July 23.

Feuds Put Off

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Democratic party put aside its blood feuds of the last six years and moved today to cement reforms into the first written constitution adopted by a major U.S. political party.

The 2,035 delegates to the first-ever Democratic mid-term convention last night gave a roaring vote of confidence to their congressional leaders' proposals for dealing with inflation and recession.

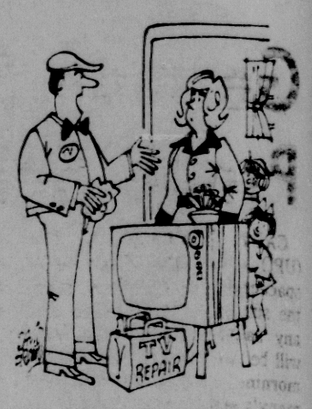
They shouted into adoption a resolution calling for strong controls on wages, prices, profits and rents and urging public service jobs, easier credit, mandatory energy conservation, tax reform, national health insurance and no-fault auto insurance.

Rocky Rests

HARLINGEN, Tex. (UPI) — Saying he needed a rest from his lengthy confirmation hearings in Washington, vice presidential nominee Nelson Rockefeller arrived yesterday for a deer hunting trip in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Asked the purpose of his visit, Rockefeller said, "Well, to take a good rest and just get out into God's country."

TODAY'S WORLD



"It was easy to eliminate the fuzzy picture. I just washed a thin film of peanut butter and jelly off the screen."

Only 18 Jets Defending Pearl Base

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (UPI) — Thirty-three years after the attack on Pearl Harbor Hawaii's key air defense unit has only 18 Air National Guard jet fighters, and they're obsolete, according to one officer.

Maj. Eddie Anderson, public affairs officer for the guard, said today on the anniversary of the Japanese attack that the F102s were "getting old, like an old automobile that doesn't accelerate like it used to."

But, he said, they "can still do the job" and would suffice until they were relaced with F4 Phantoms in 1976.

Despite the fact the F102s were "obsolescent," Anderson said, "we're still much better prepared than we were in 1941."

Lt. Col. Arthur Ishimoto, the guard's chief of staff, pointed out that his state was the only one primarily protected from air attack by the National Guard.

But he added, "A surprise attack would be impossible today."

Perennial Actor Dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Henry Wadsworth, "the perennial juvenile" stage and screen actor, died Thursday in St. Luke's Hospital. He was 72.

Wadsworth made his Broadway debut in 1927 in the title role of Howard Lindsay's "Tommy". His last New York appearance was in Rogers and Hammerstein's "The Happy Time" in 1950 with Leora Dana and Eva Gabor. He later toured with this play.

German Space Probe Scheduled

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The first of two Helios spacecraft, designed to study the sun at a closer range than any satellite has in the past, will be launched here tomorrow morning, kicking off West Germany's most ambitious and expensive space project.

The program —named after the Greek mythological sun god Helios—will provide scientists around the world with information about the sun's influence on Earth, according to Dr. Herbert Porsche, project scientist.

The first spacecraft is scheduled for launch at 5:16 a.m. followed by a second launch in one year.

The project will cost West Germany about $160 million, with the United States putting up an additional $80 million that will include the cost of the two new Titan-Centaur rockets that will be used.

The rockets, which are Titans with the addition of a Centaur stage and a small solid-propellent-fueled Delta stage, are being used for the first time in an operatioal flight. In a flight test earlier this year, the Centaur phase failed to operate and the vehicle had to be destroyed.

However, space agency officials have expressed optimism that all problems have been solved.

The two spacecraft —made by the Messerschmitt-Bolkow Blohm factory, West Germany's largest aerospace firm — will travel at 150,000 miles an hour, faster than any other man-made object has ever travelled, at certain points in the sun's orbit.

During each 192-day orbit, the spacecraft's proximity to the sun will range from 28 to 93 at its closest point —when it will be closer than any other spacecraft has ecer been — temperatures on the craft will reach about 370 degrees, hot enough to melt lead.

Kissinger's Tough Stand On Arms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger warned Congress today the cost of winning a better arms limitation agreement with the Soviets than one hammered out by President Ford last month could approach $10 billion.

Kissinger said failure to approve Ford's arms agreement could imperil the U.S.Soviet detente and result in a more costly arms program paid for by taxpayers.

The secretary fielded a wide range of questions at an unusual this morning news conference and used stern language in pressing for legislative approval of the arms agreement between Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in at Vladivostok.

Kissinger said if the Senate or Congress wants lower numbers in the nuclear weapons stockpile for both countries, "they better send with it an authorization and appropriations bill for $5 to $10 billion to increase our strategic forces."

"It does not make any sense to instruct us to get better numbers without being prepared to pay the price of the arms build-up that will be the only possible incentive by which an agreement for lower numbers can be achieved."

The proposed agreement would limit the Soviets and the United States to 2,400 rockets and 1,320 multiple nuclear warheads.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., circulated a memo yesterday to his colleagues urging them to refuse to approve the agreement on grounds the numbers were too high.

Kissinger said that by forcing a renewed arms race to win a stronger agreement, the 2,400 figure might ultimately represent a reduction in overall forces.

Kissinger also said that unless Congress acts at once to permit further U.S. military aid to Turkey, "the security interests of the West may be irreparably damaged ..."

The Senate has voted to cut off U.S. military aid to Turkey in mid-February unless substantial progress is made on the Cyprus problem between Turkey and Greece.

Kissinger said the U.S. was making some progress with the Turkish government toward negotiations on the Cyprus issue last October but congressional action "setting a terminal date for military assistance, contributed substantially to the difficulties that have prevented the beginning of negotiations ..."

The United States, Kissinger said, would continue its efforts to assist the parties concerned to solve the Cyprus problem "but if we are deprived of the diplomatic flexibility, there is little we will be able to accomplish."

Figures Show Firearm Danger

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Recent statistics released by the Rio de Janeiro police department show that of 741 murders which took place last year in this city, 602 of them were committed with the use of a fire arm.

The statistics also show that during the first three months of this year, 206 persons were the victims of fatal shootings.

State Senate Ends Session

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — With only two members present, the state Senate adjourned yesterday to officially end this week's organizational meeting of the legislature.

Lawmakers planned to reconvene Jan. 6 and begin the working portion of their new two-year session.

ELLSBERG

announced they will remain there until the dispute between Ellsberg and the government is resolved.

(A spokesman for the Marin County District Attorney's office said yesterday Ellsberg has been permitted to make photocopies of all the documents. Ellsberg reportedly assured the D.A.'s office that photocopying does not remove fingerprints, noting that his fingerprints were lifted from the Pentagon Papers which he had photocopied.)

The purloined papers and the arrest of a Mill Valley youth suspected of taking them came to light Thursday.

The story, however, began Oct. 1 when Ellsberg was away from his hilltop home on a speaking tour, and a burglar ransacked his files, taking stacks of papers as well as a camera, stereo equipment and some boots.

Ellsberg yesterday showed reporters a neatly hand-written extortion note which the burglar left, saying, "Sorry Daniel. Not a word of this to anyone — much trouble will be avoided if you negotiate properly. Don't slip. Soon you'll know."

Although he had hoped to hear from the burglar, Ellsberg said he was never contacted. But late in October, Mill Valley police found his papers stashed in a shed with articles taken in other Mill Valley burglaries.

Also in the shed, reportedly, was evidence connected with the bombing of the Mill Valley police chief's unmarked car on Oct. 16.

Police then arrested Kevin Patrick Quinn, of no fixed address, a 21-year-old man with a police record dating back four years, sometime last week in connection with the bombing and other burglary.

But Quinn escaped from the police station before he could be jailed. When he was spotted by a taxi driver on Miller Avenue Wednesday, the cabbie, who said he was looking for Quinn in connection with a burglary at his own residence, called police, and the youth was arrested again.

Quinn, already charged with the bombing and another burglary, will be charged Monday with the Ellsberg affair, "barring unforseen circumstances," according to Ernest C. Zunino, deputy district attorney.

Ellsberg, though, said yesterday that from the outset he "didn't assume it was a regular burglary."

He "sensed a pattern," he said in the ransacking of his house and the celebrated break-in of the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist. (A federal suit against Ellsberg in connection with the leaking of the Pentagon Papers in 1971 was eventually dismissed because of "government misconduct" in the break-in of the office.)

Ellsberg said yesterday he had not been worried about burglars in his new home in Mill Valley prior to the October incident because he "assumed the people who burglarized me in the past were in jail." (Four men were convicted in connection with the psychiatrist office burglary.)

But he believes, Ellsberg said, that Frank A. Bartimo, Department of Defense official who flew to Mill Valley Thursday to try to get the papers, thinks some of the documents "would be embassing to this administration."

Some of them show "patterns of government lying," Ellsberg said, including four 1968 cables involving what was to be told to newsmen at a press conference on Vietnam.

These cables to Gen. William C. Westmoreland are still classified, Ellsberg said, but he doesn't think of any of the other stolen documents still are.

He explained that a document marked "top secret" was what led Chief Walsh to call federal officials, but that particular document has been declassified, Ellsberg said.

Ellsberg's attorney, Allan Brotsky, said yesterday he had met with Bartimo and was attempting to work out the problem of who will get the papers. "We will not seek court action unless we have to," he said.

COUNTY

communication and coordination between county government and other public agencies and among departments such as public works, parks and recreation, environmental services, housing and the transit and open space districts, according to Barrows.

The document does not give the cost of the reorganization.

In discussing his recommendations that a community development commission be created, Barrows said that "the internal difficulties within the redevelopment agency and the housing authority during the past year . . . all strongly suggest a major overhaul aimed at improved service and reduced dissentions."

Additionally, more than $8 million in federal money (over the next six years). Marin's share will depend on how well the county and cities can plan ways to use the housing and development act funds.

The board of supervisors, therefore, should be in the "strongest policy-setting role" possible to make the best use of the funds, he said.

An appointed seven-member committee could advise the proposed community development commission on housing programs and hear complaints from tenants of public and leased housing, the administrator suggested.

The housing authority staff, which numbers 38, should be made a quasi-county department, answerable to the board and directed by the county administrator.

Barrows recommended that supervisors, sitting as the community development commission, hire a new executive director as soon as possible. (Under state law, the county cannot absorb the housing authority staff even if supervisors control the agency. It must be run almost like a special district.)

Barrows said he must be given broad responsibilities for coordinating various county departments to improve county efficiency and carry out the general plan.

The advanced planning section, if placed in his office, would continue its long-range land use and growth planning as well as work on redevelopment matters.

The current planning section, if placed under environmental services, would continue to work on land use and zoning enforcement matters and could be expanded to include community planning.

"This organizational proposal offers the greatest flexibility toward the future without fully committing the county to a major new consolidated department," Barrows said.

The other two organizational schemes offered, but not recommended by Barrows, involve consolidated departments.

The first would lump planning, environmental services, housing redevelopment and the land development and building inspection sections of the Public Works Department into one agency.

It would be headed by a director answerable to the board of supervisors and would be responsible for implementing the general plan.

It also would allow the administrator to retain his present role (as staff to the supervisors) without direct involvement in community development programs and planning.

However, Barrows continued, it would face difficult management problems at the outset and would limit future organizational changes.

The second proposal calls for a similar consolidated department headed by the county administrator head.

This would reduce friction with department heads and would place the new department close to supervisors, he said.

"A major disadvantage of this proposal lies in the altered (relationship) between the county administrator and board of supervisors," Barrows added. The administrator who evaluates programs proposed by department heads would have difficulty evaluating programs he himself had proposed as a department head, Barrows said.

3 More File For Election

Three more persons have filed candidacy papers for school board seats to be filled in the March 4 election.

Barbara A. Hansen, 37, of 117 Cloudview Road, Sausalito, filed yesterday for the Sausalito School District board. Her husband, Dr. Warren K. Hansen, is an incumbent on the board but plans to resign when his four-year term expires in March.

Harold Drob 51, of 559 Marin Avenue, Mill Valley, filed for one of the two seats open on the Mill Valley School District board. Drob, business manager for the Learning Resources Center at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco, made an unsuccessful bid for the board in the April 1973 election.

Joann Walla of 665 Cascade Drive, Fairfax, filed for the Fairfax School District board.

There are 44 seats up for election on Marin school boards. Deadline for filing is Jan. 3.

Discovery Of Oil Was A Surprise

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI) — On Jan. 10, 1901, a group of men working under Anthony Lucas were glumly but determinedly drilling for oil although they were convinced there was none.

Suddenly, the pipe catapulted into the air and oil spouted 200 feet. It covered a lake and caught fire.

This was the Lucas well in the Spindletop field.

Today Beaumont is an important inland port and industrial city. It is the site of Mobil Oil Corp.'s largest refinery.

OBITUARIES

Arnold S. Brownell Dead At 54

Memorial service for Arnold Stanley Brownell of Novato, research physicist at Letterman Army Institute of Research, will be tomorrow at 3 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Brownell, 54, died Thursday at a local hospital.

He had been a researcher with various Army installations since 1955 and had pioneered in studies of the biological processes of microwave radiation exposure. His early research described the interaction of ultraviolet, microwave and radio frequency radiation on human and animal tissues.

More recently, he helped develop ways to quantify radiation associated with lasers. These studies were used to develop current laser safety standards.

Brownell served in the Navy from 1942 to 1946. He received a bachelor's degree in chemistry from the University of Wyoming in 1948 and a doctoral degree in biophysics from the University of California at Berkeley in 1955.

Before coming to Letterman, he worked in research at Fort Knox, Ky., and at Frankford Arsenal in Philadelphia.

Brownell was a native of England. He had lived in the county for six months and resided at 100 San Mateo Way.

Survivors include his wife, Phyllis; a son, Alan J. Brownell of Louisville, Ky.; a daughter, Patricia Brownell of Richmond, Ky.; three stepdaughters, Nicolie Bolster and Deborah Maggy of California, and Sandra Bolster of Louisville; his mother, Mrs. Arthur Brownell, of Idaho Falls, Idaho; four brothers, Al and Kenneth Brownell of Idaho Falls, Arthur Brownell of Ogden, Utah, and Ronald Brownell of Enumclaw, Wash., and a sister, Jeanne Stoker of Burley, Idaho.

The family has asked that memorial contributions be made to the coronary care unit of Marin General Hospital, the Marin County Heart Association or a donor's favorite charity.

J.R. LEONARDI

Funeral for John Raymond Leonardi, superintendent of the L. H. Leonardi Electric Construction Co. in San Rafael, will be at 11 a.m. Monday at Keaton's Mortuary.

He died Thursday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness. He was 42.

Leonardi was born in Oakland and reared in San Rafael. For the past 10 years he had lived in San Francisco.

Leonardi is survived by his wife, Jean Leonardi and a son, Raymond John Leonardi, both of San Francisco, a sister, Janet Wood of Los Angeles and his mother, Isabelle Streett of San Rafael.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

ALBERT HEINRICH SR.

Funeral for Albert Heinrich Sr., former Marin painting contractor, has been held.

Heinrich, 79, died yesterday in Southern California after a long illness.

At the time of his death, he lived at Leisure World, Laguna Hills, in Orange County.

Before moving to Southern California, he lived for 32 years in Marin and also spent time in Petaluma and Lake County.

He was a member of Marin Lodge No. 191, Free and Accepted Masons, and was a past patron of San Rafael Chapter No. 215, Order of the Eastern Star.

Survivors include his wife, Martha, of Laguna Hills; two daughters, Louise Standefer of Newport Beach, and Ruth Lee of Tomales; a son, Albert William Heinrich of Larkspur, and one grandchild.

The family has asked that memorial gifts be sent to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children or a favorite charity.

ALBERT HARRIS

A memorial service for Albert W. Harris Jr. of San Rafael, longtime assistant state attorney general and prosecutor in the Angela Davis case, will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the state Supreme Court chambers, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco.

Harris, 45, died Wednesday after being hospitalized earlier in the day for pneumonia.

MRS. LAVARONI

Charlotte B. (Laura) Lavaroni, a 60-year resident of San Anselmo, died yesterday at a local hospital following a short illness. She was 74.

Mrs. Lavaroni was born in San Francisco and lived in Italy for some eight years as a child. She came to San Anselmo at age of 14.

Mrs. Lavaroni, a homemaker, was the widow of the late James Lavaroni, who operated Lavaroni's Market in San Anselmo from 1917 until 1955. He died in 1966.

She was active in Marin Senior citizens organizations and as a volunteer at the Veterans' Hospital at Yountville.

Mrs. Lavaroni is survived by a son, James J. Lavaroni of Greenbrae, an assistant vice president for Wells Fargo Bank, and four grandchildren.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at Chapel of the Hills Mortuary in San Anselmo.

Memorial gifts to Hanna Boys Center in Sonoma are preferred.

H.L. MARITZEN

Mass of Christian Burial for Herbert L. Maritzen of Greenbrae, a retired watchmaker, will be at 9:45 a.m., Monday at St. Cecilia's Catholic Church, 2555 17th Avenue, San Francisco.

He died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness. He was 82.

Maritzen was born and reared in San Francisco. During World War I he served in the Naval Air Force.

For 50 years he was a watchmaker for Shreve and Co. in San Francisco. He had made his home in San Francisco until moving to Marin six months ago.

He was a member of the American Legion, Parkside Post No. 505.

Maritzen is survived by his wife, Mary I. Maritzen of the home; two sons, Donald B. Maritzen of San Rafael and Stanley H. Maritzen of Stockton, and seven grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Carew and English, Masonic at Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. Entombment will be at Holy Cross Mausoleum, Colma.

Spiritual bouquets would be preferred by the family.

Ads Were Placed In News Stories

ATLANTA (UPI) — Rural newspapers in the South in the 1860s often inserted advertising material into the body of a news story. The Elberton Gazette once interrupted a story on a political debate with the announcement:

"If your kidneys are inactive, you will look and feel wretched even in the most cheerful society, and melancholy on the jolliest occasions. Dr. J.H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will set you right again. $1.00 per bottle."

MAURICE SMITH

Maurice M. Smith of Belvedere, a retired university professor, died yesterday in a local hospital after a short illness. He was 77.

Smith was a native of Oklahoma. He was a graduate of George Washington University in Washington D.C. He received a doctoral degree from the University of California at Berkeley and taught there as professor of educational psychology until his retirement.

He had lived in Marin County for the past 10 years.

Smith is survived by his wife, Gladys C. Smith of the home; a son, Dr. Maurice C. Smith of Belvedere; a daughter, Betty Chapman of Glen Burn, Shasta County and six grandchildren.

Memorial service will be at 2 p.m. Monday at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 3 Bay View Avenue, Belvedere. Private burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Memorial contributions to the Marin County Heart Association would be preferred by the family.

HAROLD ZINK

Harold F. Zink of Santa Rosa, a longtime resident of Marin, died in a local hospital today after a lengthy illness. He was 62.

Zink was a native of Illinois who came to California 27 years ago to work at San Quentin as a rehabilitation counselor. Until his retirement a year and a half ago, he and his family lived at San Quentin.

He was a member of the California State Correctional Officers Association, the California State Employees Association, San Quentin chapter; the California State Correctional Counselors Association and the San Quentin Employees Mutual Benefit Association.

Zink is survived by his wife, Ann P. Zink; four sons, Thomas H. Zink of the Philippines, Theodore C., Laurence P. and Terrance V. Zink, all of Mill Valley, and one grandchild.

Mass of Christian Burial will be at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael, with burial in Mt. Olivet Cemetery. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday at the Williams and Heffernan Mortuary in San Rafael.

ELSIE NIELSEN

Elsie M. Nielsen, a 23-year resident of Marin, died yesterday at a Napa hospital after a short illness. She was 89.

Mrs. Nielson was a native of Australia. She came to Marin from Oakland in 1943, and was active in the Tamalpais Centre Women's Club of Kentfield. On the death of her husband, George T. Nielsen, she moved to Napa to live with her son, George E. Nielsen.

Beside her son, Mrs. Nielsen is also survived by a daughter, Jean E. Vaine of Oakland, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Chapel of Richard Pierce mortuary in Napa. Inurnment will be private.

MRS. SILVA

Angelina O. Silva, 58, of San Rafael, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was born in Napa, but grew up in Petaluma and San Rafael. She had resided in San Rafael for the past 38 years. Mrs. Silva was a homemaker. Her husband, Fred E. Silva, is a former employee of McNear Brick Yard.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Silva is survived by a daughter, Carol Ann of San Rafael; two sons, Ronald E. of San Rafael and Fred E. Silva Jr., of Caldwell, Ida.; her mother, Rosa Bettencourt of San Rafael, a brother, John Bettencourt of Reno, Nev. and four grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial will be offered at 1 p.m. Monday at St. Sylvester's Church San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery. (12/7)

Makarios Back In Cyprus After 5 Months Of Exile

NICOSIA (UPI) — Archbishop Makarios returned to Cyprus from five months of exile today and in an emotional speech to an estimated 130,000 persons offered amnesty to Greek Cypriots who had deposed him as president of this Mediterranean island nation.

Makarios rejected partition of Cyprus, said he was willing to negotiate with Turkish Cypriots and suggested a solution through self-government of the Greek and Turkish communities.

The archbishop, the golden medallion around his neck glistening in the sun, spoke for 45 minutes from the balcony of his palace to a frenzied throng that interrupted him dozens of times with shouts hailing his return from Athens.

But many groaned with dissatifaction when he offered amnesty to those who helped overthrow him in the July 15 coup that brought on the Turkish invasion five days later.

"I give forgiveness and amnesty to all in the hope that the desired unity and concord among the Greek Cypriots will thus come about, said the 61-year-old prelate.

"I do not desire to open old wounds," he said gesturing to the crowd with his arms outspread, palms up. "And because of this I do not intend to prosecute old enemies or opponents or bring to justice those involved in political offenses or who took part in the coup against me."

Makarios spoke bitterly of the invasion of Turkish troops who captured nearly 40 per cent of the island.

"We shall never accept a fait accompli created through military operations," he said. The crowd roared. "We want negotiations with the Turkish Cypriots in order to bridge our differences and find a solution to the Cyprus problem.

"I only say that we shall not accept any solution involving transfer of populatios and amounting to partition of Cyprus.

"It is possible to find a way for the self-government of the two co-habitant elements."

Thrusting their arms to the second story balcony where he stood, the people shouted, "Makarios, march forward and we are with you."

"I will march forward —but on the path of peace," he responded. A roar went up from the crowd.

Makarios called on his opponents to surrender their weapons but did not mention by name Eoka-B, the underground group of several hundred fighters that helped overthrow him. He blamed the coup on the Greek military regime that fell shortly after his overthrow.

Charges Lessened In Man's Death

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Petaluma man arrested this week on suspicion of homicide was arraigned yesterday in Sonoma Municipal Court on a series of lesser charges.

Cotati police arrested Blayne Curtis Blackwood, 20, of 804 Ely Boulevard, in connection with the death of Antone Davi Jr. of Rohnert Park, a Santa Rosa cab driver whose body was found Wednesday behind a Cotati veterinary hospital.

An autopsy, however, determined Idavi died of a heart attack rather than foul play.

Sonoma Dist. Atty. Gene Tunney told the I-J that Blackwood and another man, Donald W. Bailey, 28, of Santa Rosa, are believed to have been passengers in Davi's taxi shortly before his death, which coroner's officers say occurred about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Although police have refused to explain how they believe the two men were involved in the incident, Blackwood was charged yesterday with robbery and auto theft, and his bail was set at $5,000. He remained confined today in Sonoma County Jail.

County sheriff's officers were still seeking Bailey.

Judge Orders Union Leaders Freed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — A state district judge today ordered the release od 21 jailed union leaders, ending a 23-day transit strike by bus drivers who had said they would not return to work unless fellow employes were freed.

Regular bus schedules resumed today throughout San Antonio.

2nd Mine Pact Deadline Nears

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

United Mine Workers bargainers in Washington, D.C., worked against a tomorrow midnight deadline to pound out a contract for 6,000 mine construction workers who have disrupted a return to work by the union's 120,000 coal miners.

UMW officials met today with striking construction workers in Virginia, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Illinois in an attempt to avert nationwide picketing which would halt a resumption of full scale coal production Monday.

Picketing continued in southern Illinois, where several thousand miners were kept out of the shafts yesterday by construction pickets.

The construction workers believed they were being overlooked by union officials, who signed a major contract with the soft coal industry last Thursday.

Under that contract, underground and strip miners were permitted to return to work yesterday, but were required to be on the job no later than Monday. Some miners returned to work yesterday following an end to the 24-day strike. Others waited until the shafts could be inspected for safety.

Traditionally, miners will not cross picket lines and the construction workers have threatened to throw up pickets nationwide if they fail to get a wage agreement.

The costruction workers contract ended simultaneously with the main UMW contract, but the pacts were negotiated separately.

There was speculation that mining companies may go to court in an effort to reopen the mines or that the government may intercede because of energy shortages.

The strike has already cost the nation $5 billion in total production losses. Hardest hit were the steel and railroad industries, which laid off a total of 25,000 men because of a lack of coal.

In West Virginia, the problem was compounded by miners unhappy with the main UMW agreement. A Pittston Coal Co. mine near Phillipi was picketed by underground miners who wanted a provision requiring uniform shift scheduling.

"We will let the men decided whether they will pull the coal miners out," said Tom Dadiman, of Philippi, W.Va., a District 31 committeeman for the construction workers. "In my opinion, judging from the men who have called me, they will picket until we get our contract signed."

Dadiman said a verbal agreement may not be sufficient to stop picketing. "They may want something written."

Thomas Shoemake, an Illinois UMW subdistrict board member, said he did not believe there would be work in southern Illinois until a construction agreement is reached and ratified by the rank-andfile.

"The miners down here absolutely won't cross the picket lines," he said. "I just hope it's settled soon so everyone can go back to work in peace and harmony."

Fire Destroys Half A Duplex In Corte Madera

Fire yesterday destroyed half of a duplex in Corte Madera while the occupants were away, causing an estimated $22,000 damage.

Corte Madera Fire Department said that the fire apparently started about 4:30 p.m. in the living room of the duplex of Trudy Addis at 1449 Casa Buena Drive. Mrs. Addis and her 4-year-old daughter were out when the blaze began.

The fire destroyed the Addis's side of the structure, according to the owner Rudy E. Mullins.

Firemen said that the cause of the fire is under investigation.

REDEVELOPMENT PROPOSALS — San Rafael Redevelopment Sketch Plan Three (top) proposes a moderate level of new development and public improvements in the city, and Redevelopment Sketch Plan Four (bottom) proposes a cosmetic approach to redevelopment involving minimal new construction. These are the final two versions of four redevelopment choices facing city leaders.

PLAN THREE

center between Second and Third Streets.

The plan also calls for approximately 200 housing units, sprinkled throughout the downtown, and proposes a transportation depot near Fourth Street and Highway 101.

FRANCISCO BOULEVARD

The plan suggests encouraging "more attractive and intensive utilization of land in the Francisco Boulevard corridor by providing water and open space amenities to attract offices." Offices totaling up to 700,000 square feet, including parking for up to 2,000 cars, are proposed for a wide swath of land stretching from Second and Lindaro streets along West Francisco Boulevard past Rice Drive.

Development of an auto center of up to 15 dealerships around the existing nucleus of auto sales centers on East Francisco Boulevard is also proposed.

The plan suggests creation of a center of "canal-related" uses along the canal east of Highway 101 and Grand Avenue." Proposed for this area are a variety of commercial facilities, including a 100-berth marina a hotel and parking for about 700 cars.

Up to 450 housing units are proposed behind the auto center.

BAYFRONT AND OPEN SPACE

The plan seeks to "establish continuous public access with (pockets) of active recreation along the bayfront" and "provide pedestrian and bicycle paths through and between these areas."

A 60-acre bayfront park, backed by up to 2,000 housing units, is proposed along the East San Rafael bayfront. Up to 15 units are proposed north of the Canal.

A 200-berth marina with parking for 150 cars is also planned.

In addition, the plan proposes to make the downtown more attractive to pedestrians with a system of pedestrian walkways connecting small downtown parks, housing, and business and recreational areas along the canal.

TRANSPORTATION

The plan would "relieve traffic congestion in downtown San Rafael while providing access to the West Francisco Boulevard area" through new thoroughfares linking the downtown to highways 101 and 17.

In addition, the proposal urges that some form of transit be provided for the downtown area along with connections linking the downtown with regional transit stations and canal, industrial and bayfront areas.

PLAN FOUR

retail facilities are proposed, as well as 150,000 square feet of office buildings on a site bounded by Fourth and Third streets, A Street and Lincoln Avenue. Also planned is parking for up to 650 cars.

FRANCISCO BOULEVARD

Development proposed in the Francisco Boulevard corridor includes up to 300,000 square feet of offices bounded roughly by Third, Lindaro and Jordan streets. Parking for up to 900 cars is also proposed.

A canal-oriented commercial recreational area near Harbor Street is also planned. Proposed are a variety of commercial facilities, including a 75-room hotel, a 200-berth marina, and parking for 600 cars.

An auto complex of up to 10 dealerships is proposed near existing auto sales facilities on East Francisco Boulevard.

The plan also calls for industrial sites along the boulevard.

BAYFRONT AND OPEN SPACE

The plan provides for a major public park encompassing 200 acres of the city bayfront. Also proposed is a two-acre park along the canal.

The plan suggests up to 1,000 housing units along the bayfront park and proposes another 150 units north of the canal.

Also recommended is extensive landscaping of highways 101 and 17, a limited number of pedestrian paths and small parks downtown, and an effort to "maintain the protected neighborhood character of residential areas" by limiting development.

TRANSPORTATION

The plan recommends a "moderate improvement of traffic circulation through the downtown by realigning West Francisco Boulevard to connect Lindara Street and Highway 101 at Bellam Boulevard." The plan also provides for a minibus shuttle system along Fourth Street.

Trucks For China

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — WABCO Construction and Mining Co., a subsidiary of American-Standard, announced yesterday it had agreed to sell $7 million worth of trucks and parts to China.

Sunbather Wins A Naked Point

A nude sunbather's bare buttocks aren't illegal, according to a Marin Municipal Court judge.

Judge Peter Allen Smith made the ruling yesterday in dismissing nude sunbathing charges against a 31-year-old Mill Valley attorney arrested in July at Little Beach near Muir Beach.

Judge Smith found the county's anti-nudity law forbids exposure of "private parts and female breasts," and that the standard definition of private parts includes genitalia but not buttocks.

Prosecutors conceded David Gordon Nichols, 31, was lying face down when sheriff's deputies arrested him.

Attorney Fred A. Hurvich, Nichols's lawyer, also argued there is a flaw in the county ordinance which would have invalidated his client's arrest anyway, but Judge Smith did not rule on that point.

The nudity law pertains only to public property, and a number of nude sunbathers won acquittal last year when it was proved they were on private land.

Several property owners at Little Beach have leased their land to the Muir Beach Community Services District, an action the county claims makes the otherwise private land "public."

But Hurvich said only land which is free to be sold or otherwise disposed of by a government agency can be considered public, and the services district clearly has no right to sell the leased portions of Little Beach. Thus, he said, the beach is not public for legal purposes.

Hurvich said he intends to raise that defense in future sunbathing cases.

Sewage Plant To Be Upgraded

Rohnert Park officials have decided to upgrade the city's sewage treatment plant in an effort to avoid a ban on new sewer connections.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the city is prepared to spend $30,000 to $50,000 to ake plant improvements necessary to meet discharge quality standards set by water quality officials.

When the North Coast Regional Water Quality Control board met in Santa Rosa Wednesday to consider going to court for a cease-and-desist order forbidding more connections in Rohnert Park, less than a majority of its members was on hand and no action could be taken.

Those who were present voted to recommend that the full board impose the hookup ban unless Rohnert Park makes substantial improvements in its plant's operation.

In the past, the city has hesitated to spend money on the plant, which is nearing its 1.5 million gallon a day treatment capacity, because Rohnert Park plans to hook into the Laguna Regional plant now under construction near Santa Rosa. The Laguna plant will be completed within three years.

The Rohnert Park plant was designed as a temporary means of processing the city's sewage. The regional board considers it is overloaded because of a 40 per cent increase in sewage flow due to rapid population growth during the past year and a half.

City officials, though, believe they can make do by spending the money to modify the plant, enabling it to meet governmental discharge standards.

Aide Runs Into Fords' Tree

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Shortly after First Lady Betty Ford accepted the 1974 White House Christmas tree from the state of Michigan, an aide to a Michigan cogressman ran into it with his car.

The 20-foot tall and 12-foot wide fir tree was not damaged, but one of the car's headlights was broken.

Rep. J. Robert Traxler's aide, Wayne Hose of Arlington, Va. told nearby newsmen and White House officials "I really like Christmas trees ... the sun blinded me."

Petaluman Ordered To NYC For Trial

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Petaluma restaurant owner federal agents say is a major West Coast heroin dealer, has been ordered to New York City for trial.

Shek Chow Wong, 44, of 19 Montclair Court, is being taken east with two San Francisco men, George Kay Lew, 64, and Pon You Wing, 41.

Federal Magistrate Owen Woodruff ordered the extradition at a hearing here Thursday.

The three men were arrested Nov. 19 in a federal Drug Enforcement Agency crackdown which included some 58 arrests from Copenhagen and Bangkok. Agents said Lew and Wing were associates of Wong, who owns and operates the Canton Restaurant at 154 Petaluma Boulevard North.

Agents said the Bay Area men were the chief representatives in the Western United States and Canada for one of the largest narcotics rings ever discovered by authorities. They are accused of smuggling more than 300 pounds of heroin and opium into the country.

No Teacher Firings Seen In Tam District Report

The Tamalpais High School District will be able to cope with the financial crunch without firing any teachers next year, a study committee has concluded.

Supt. Robert D. Dorrey will recommend that approach when the district board meets Monday at 8 p.m. in the Redwood High School faculty lounge to discuss the matter.

A committee headed by Torrey has been trying since late October to figure out how the district can keep its head above water when faced with declining enrollment, inflation and a limit on expenditures imposed by state law.

Its interim report was finished yesterday.

Most interest centered around whether any teaching jobs would be lopped. The board last spring proposed firing 46 teachers, but retreated under a hail of protest.

"I shall recommend (that we) not pursue any reduction in force action during the 1974-75 school year," Torrey said in the report. Cutting out jobs would worsen the "climate for effective education," he added.

"While our fiscal projections show that 30-40 people may have to be released the following year," Torrey continued, "the fact that serious shock appears inevitable in coming years does not, in itself, justify the administration of premature shock."

The study foresees a deficit of $365,599 for fiscal 1975-76, based on income of $11,709,491 and expenditures of $12,075,090. This is a drop from the previously predicted deficit of $473,787.

Quake Shakes Fox Islands

PALMER, Alaska (UPI) — An earthquake with a magnitude of 5.8 on the Richter scale occurred in the Fox Islands last night at 11:34. The quake, 100 miles west of Nikolski, Alaska, was not sufficient to generate a tidal wave.

McCarthy Praises The Bridge District

A longtime critic of the Golden Gate Bridge District who now is one of the most powerful men in California yesterday said he now believes the district has "done a magnificent job."

Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, recalled in an appearance before bridge directors that as a San Francisco supervisor he had been an outspoken critic of the district. He served as a county supervisor from 1964 to 1968, and at that time criticized the district for not working to provide mass transit.

McCarthy praised the district's bus system, noting it was carrying three times as many riders as formerly were carried by Greyhound, and said its growing ferry system "is appropriate for this area and can serve it very well." (McCarthy's law partner, Stephan C. Leonoudakis, is the president of the bridge board and its prime mover into the ferry operations.)

Citing the district's successful drive that got federal funds to pay for about 70 per cent of its $52 million transit system, McCarthy said he knew of no other agency "as aggressive as yours in getting federal money."

Asked if state subsidies would be available for transit, McCarthy said that with unemployment expected to reach 9.3 per cent by July, "I just can't be optimistic."

Golden Gate Bridge District Directors Also:

FERRY — Received a report that the Sausalito ferry carried 78,600 passengers during November, up 20,261 over the same month last year. The average was 2,177 on weekdays and 3,506 on Sundays and holidays.

BANKS — Agreed to sell books of tickets for the bridge, buses and ferry through the nine branches of the Bank of Marin. The bank will not charge a commission.

PICKUP — Bought a pickup truck for $4,992.

TIRES — Received a staff report that the district's bus fleet is the first large one in the nation that will be operating on steel-belted radial tires when the present fabric tires are replaced.

New Hampshire Race In Doubt

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — More than a month after the election, Republican Rep. Louis Wyman and his Democratic challenger, John Durkin, were deadlocked today with 110,915 votes each in New Hampshire's U.S. Senate race.

Wyman, a five-term congressman, apparently won the Nov. 5 election by 542 votes. A recount, however, gave the seat to Durkin by a 10-vote margin, 110,224 to 110,114.

Yesterday, the state's Ballot Law Commission began reviewing some 32,000 ballots protested by one candidate or the other during the recount.

Terra Linda Land Owners Begin Suit

The owners of 18.12 acres of land in Terra Linda yesterday filed a $492,953 lawsuit against the City of San Rafael and its mayor and city councilmen.

They claim the city and the Terra Linda Valley Open Space Assessment District have blocked development or sale of the land by expressing an interest in buying it.

San Francisco Attorney M. Reed Hunter's lawsuit in Marin Superior Court said the land is worth $362,400 and his clinets are entitled to an additional $130,553 for taxes and expenses they have paid.

The suit asks a court order to force the city and the district to buy the land.

It was filed on behalf of Rose Freitas Rose, Manuel T. Freitas, Helen F. Tichenor, Carlos R. Freitas, Louis G. Freitas, Walter F. Freitas and Frances T. O'Mara.

MUSIC REVIEW

Prodigy Creates Air Of Dignity

By JEFF GILLMAN

Fourteen-year-old pianist Hyperion Knight performed Beethoven's Fourth Concerto in G Major with the Dominican College Chamber Orchestra last night at the San Rafael campus. The orchestra — under the direction of faculty member Richard Anastasio —also performed Mendelssohn's Third Symphony.

In spite of the frequently uncertain level of the performance (with particular difficulty in the string section), these two intensely romantic compositions worked well together.

In the opening four measures of the concerto, Knight created the atmosphere of dignity and restrained passion well suited to the work. Unfortunately, the orchestra entrance was weak, but under Anastasio's direction, the tempo was quickly recovered. Throughout the Allegro moderato, the orchestra provided admirable support for Knight's remarkable virtuosity.

In the Andante con moto, the tension of the performance emerged in the somber dialogue between the strings and piano. The dark menacing theme is repeated again and again by the cellos and basses. It is answered by an equally somber but defiant piano which finally frees itself in a lyrical passage. This leads to the three great harmonic chords which dominate the movement.

In spite of Knight's astonishing technical skill, it seemed this splendidly subtle and mature work was not a happy choice for so youthful a pianist. The philosophic nuances of the concerto appeared to be beyond his grasp. But his virtuosity earned him an enthusiastic ovation to which he responded with charming shyness.

In the Mendelssohn "Scottish" Symphony which followed, the violins lost control of the complex light tones of the Andante, and took on a thin, reedy quality. The movement is a marvelous play of richly pastoral passages marked by the virile call of the horns and the menace of the basses. Happily, the rich harmonies of the full orchestra were soundly supported by timpanist Gregory Harrison.

Oboists Michael Mitchell and Tim Starkweather opened the vivace con troppo with a charming dance which is then picked up and repeated joyfully by the full orchestra. The fleeting harmonies which follow, however, proved beyond the skills of the very youthful string section.

The Allegro Vivace, the final movement, begins as a vigorous tribal dance. But when taken up by the full orchestra, it becomes one of the great romantic themes of the symphony and leads to the full blown splendor of the coda.

Here crescendo after crescendo are intensified by drums. And after a brief mocking statement by the horns, the theme is finally restated with dignity by the full orchestra and developed into a final romantic song.

Here at last, the college chamber orchestra rose to the occasion and produced the full resounding force the piece demands.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UPI) — A four-block area of this southern Oregon town was evacuated last night when a five-story grain elevator burned to the ground, setting off fires in tons of nitrate fertilizer stored nearby.

Police said homes, apartments, and rooming houses in a twoblock radius were evacuated. The fire, which began about 7 p.m., completely destroyed the five-story grain elevator owned by Albers Feed Supply Co. The nitrate fertilizer is stored in warehouses in the elevator complex.

Burton Voted To Pass Freedom Bill Over Veto

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Marin-San Francisco Congressman John L. Burton voted for the Freedom of Information Act amendments which President Ford subsequently vetoed only to have his veto overriden.

The bill requires federal departments and agencies to make available to citizens government documents and records, and empowers federal courts to decide on contests of improper classification of government papers. The vote on House passage was 349 to 2. On the veto override, there was only one negative vote.

John Burton voted against permitting continued military aid to Turkey if the president certifies that country is making a "good faith" effort to reach a negotiated settlement in Cyprus. However, the House voted to continue aid by 291 to 69.

Burton voted for an $8.4 billion supplemental appropriation bill which includes funds for education, housing and community development, as well as former President Nixon's transitional expenses. It passed 317 to 72.

The Marin-San Francisco Democrat was with the majority which passed an amendment returning jurisdiction over the Panama Canal Zone from the Foreign Affairs Committee to the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee. It passed 228 to 132.

In a series of votes on amendments to the House committee reform resolution, tabulated by Government Research Corp., Burton:

Voted to establish a non-legislative select committee on aging to investigate problems of the elderly. It passed 299-44.

Voted against creating an 11-member committee to conduct a study of the effect on state laws of the Supreme Court's 1973 abortion decision and suggest remedial action by Congress. It was defeated 163 to 193.

Voted against abolishing the practice of proxy voting in committees and subcommittees. This passed 196-166.

Voted against creating a minority committee to investigate administration and enforcement of federal laws whenever the same party controls the White House and both houses of Congress. This was rejected 148-218.

ART REVIEW

Marin Artist's Watercolors Are Evidence Of Double Role

By ADA GARFINKEL

Marin artist Leola Dixon's watercolors painted on location in all parts of the world are ample evidence of her double role as "traveling painter" or "painting traveler."

Mrs. Dixon, who received her master of fine arts degree from the University of California at Berkeley, has shown solo at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor, the Santa Barbara Museum of Art and the Gallery of Fine Arts in Mexico City. Watercolor is her chosen medium because it requires minimal equipment for travel.

Mrs. Dixon's paintings are equally divided between those done in California and others in various parts of the world. In each painting a pervasive animism adds vigor and drama to historical sites, architectural structures, to natural terrain and to ritual celebration.

The artist's flow of colors range from the limpid ripeness of persimmon orange which plays upon the architectural foreground in "Antiqua-Volcano," and the crisp, confetti dabs of pigment which structure the cadence of movement in "Easter Processional" — both painted in Guatemala — to the cool veils of gray which ring the sharp peaks of Tahiti's "Purple Mountains." The bristly, saturated green of the tree-top crowns in "Monterey Pines," and the dry, subtly applied spatters and washes seen in "Convent Gate" convey the broad span of Mrs. Dixon's ease with this demanding medium.

Among the most interesting works in the show are several done in Yugoslavia which describe the picturesque Romanesque and Gothic architecture recorded at coastal and inland sites. Included are "Diocletian's Palace" in which warm blue and violet washes over delicately traced arches and columns serve to intensify the brilliant sunlight bathing the courtyard in splashes of pale pink and open areas of white. Also "Window View, Opatija" in which tall, narrow buildings and peaked roofs are outlined boldly with black and presented in a mosaic of warm-hued terra-cottas, tawny yellows and buff.

In "Clock Tower at Split," a coastal town on the Adriatic Sea, Mrs. Dixon focuses on the popularity of this site as a meeting place, with nuns clustered at the archway, and other pedestrians strolling through the open walkway in the last rays of sunlight.

"The Red Castle" — this in Nevada City and nostalgically redolent of the Gold Rush days — seems to glow in a theatrical light of vivid reds and emerald green, its white gingerbread trim accentuating its antediluvian aura.

Mrs. Dixon's exhibit will continue through Dec. 31, and may be seen from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The Corte Madera Library is located at 707 Meadowsweet Drive.

DRAMA REVIEW

Play Surpasses Light Lapses

By BLAKE A. SAMSON

"Much Ado About Nothing," which opened last night at the College of Marin, is an elegantly dressed production which surpasses its momentary lapses in pacing and clarity to spin out an enjoyable evening of Shakespearean wit.

"Much Ado" is Shakespeare's light and occasionally lusty jab at a very old tradition — the cliched love of Cupid-struck heroes and heroines. (He even names one character Hero.)

Yet as contrasts to Hero and Claudio, he gives us his own inventions, the characters Beatrice and Benedict. Never have there been such sworn anti-lovers as these — until they fall, trapped into love.

Betty Hager plays a spirited Beatrice. From the moment Benedict sees her ("My dear Lady Disdain, are you still living?"), verbal swords are drawn. Touche Beatrice. Touche Benedict. The one-upmanship, putdowns and quick Shakespearean dueling make this one of the great satires and comedies.

Miss Hager occasionally exaggerates and plays serious lines for low humor, but these are minor moments in an otherwise graceful and commanding match of wits with Daniel Caldwell's Benedict. Together they are a strong foundation for the production.

Underneath Beatrice and Benedict's Armadillo exterior, one could only wish there had been a hint of their interior longing for love.

Caldwell and Dakin Matthews (as Don Pedro) are two professional actors imported to assist the college performers. They both have a totally conversational manner with Shakespeare's words that lends comprehensibility to some rather complex dialogue.

They are a calming influence and the student actors often picked up their easy and fluent delivery.

Director James Dunn has set the play in Edwardian England at Christmas time — a wise decision. It therefore sits comfortably in the fine, redwood Theater III and costume designer, Pat Lusk, has produced costumes of great charm and elegance.

His Majesty's Dragoon Guards are in red with full-plumed silver helmets and gold-brocade jackets and the wedding march is one Victorian lace and hat after another.

The Edwardian style adds greatly to the production's pace with all the maids giggling and wassailing about. In a more traditional dress, the scenes with the constable and sexton are quite difficult to play, but, in this updated setting, their Keystone Cop apparel and manner fit right in.

There is also the admirable Eric Shugaar. He almost shuffles away with the show as Verges, the shaky, creaky assistant to the constable. Whirling around foolishly or bending over flowers like Ferdinand the Bull, Shugaar is a complete joy.

In chiffon of sheer loveliness, Barbara Fanning looked ravishing as Hero and made the rather simple ingenue most appealing. Other good supporting performances are turned in by Laura Smyth (Margaret), Kendell Jackson (Ursula) and Alan W. Barnes (Leonato).

Lance Singh Brady's rage (as Antonio) is believable, a compliment not possible to give to others who rant and rave in a far too even and strained manner.

Two major weaknesses are the evil characterizations of Borachio (J. Josephson) and Don Jchn (L. C. Owen). The stately comedy did not need their cheap brand of humor and their melodramatic villainy (greased down in 1950's hairstyles) was inappropriate. Nor could one for one moment believe Josephson's repentance at the end.

The jam-packed audience sent rolls of laughter and loud chuckles to the rafters. "Much Ado About Nothing" proved once again that love is, after all, a giddy thing.

The play will be repeated Dec. 7 (matinee and evening), 8, 11, 12, 13, 14 (matinee and evening), 15, 19, 22, 26, 27 and 28, at the Theater III, Bolinas Avenue, Kentfield. Matinees are at 2 p.m.; evening performances at 8 p.m.

"MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING," a two-act comedy by William Shakespeare, directed by James Dunn, sets by Ronald Krempetz, costumes, Pat Lusk, lighting, E. K. Schoon, incidental music composed and played by Chris Gootherts. The Cast, Don Pedro, Dakin Matthews; Don John, L. C. Owens; Claudio, Richard Howard; Benedick, Daniel Caldwell; Borachio, J. COPY ACCEPTANCE
The INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL reserves the right to edit, or withhold publication, and may exercise its discretion in acceptance or classification of any and all advertising.

DEADLINES
New ads, corrections, and cancellations must be made before 5:30 p.m. the day before publication, 1 p.m. Saturday for Monday and 24 hours before holidays. Suburban office deadline, 4:30 p.m. the day before publication.

ERRORS
We make every effort to avoid errors. But when hundreds of ads are handled daily, mistakes do slip through. We ask that you check your ad and call immediately if it is in error. We regret that we cannot be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion or for errors not clearly affecting the value of the ad, and are responsible only for that line or portion of the ad that appeared incorrectly.

THIS IS BASKETBALL?

It looked more like a football game as the Bulls' John Block (on bottom) and Bucks' Cornell Warner (35) fell during a battle for a loose ball last night in the fourth quarter at Chicago. Others moving in were: (from front, left) Norm Van Lier of the Bulls, Walt Wesley of the Bucks and Nate Thurmond of the Bucks. Milwaukee won the National Basketball Association game, 99-96. Vet Fuentes Has Mixed Feelings About Leaving

Giant Is Sent To San Diego

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tito Fuentes had mixed feelings today over leaving the San Francisco Giants, the only organization he has known in his 13-year baseball career.

"It is not easy to leave when you have been with a team that long," Fuentes said in the wake of the trade yesterday that shipped Tito and pitcher Butch Metzer to the San Diego Padres in exchange for second baseman Derrel Thomas. It was the last major trade of baseball's winter meetings, which ended in New Orleans last night.

"I always liked San Francisco and the Giants," he said. "I am not sure why they traded me but I have a pretty good idea. They think Tito can't play like he used to because of his back, but that is not true. My back is okay and I want the Padres to know I will be a good player for them. Still, I am sorry to leave the Giants."

If the Giants had to trade him, Fuentes said he is glad it was to the Padres where he has such old friends as first baseman Willie McCovey and Manager John McNamara.

"You know how I feel about those guys," Fuentes aid. "Willie is my good friend and McNamara is a friend, too. He knows Tito and he knows I will play as hard for him as I did for the Giants."

Tito said he is not second guessing the Giants but he thinks they got the short end of the deal.

"If I am well I can play second base very well," Tito said. "And Metzger is a pretty good young pitcher. He could become a star. Yet, who knows about Thomas. He's been around a little and he hasn't proved himself yet. My opinion is that he will not play second base for the Giants. Wes (Manager Wes Westrum) likes Glenn Redmon, who they brought up last year, and I think they want him to play every day if he can. So, the Giants gave up two pretty good players for someone who maybe will not play. That doesn't sound like a good deal to me."

Bobby Bonds, traded away to the New York Yankees earlier this fall, and shortstop Chris Speier appeared at a banquet earlier in the week and charged some members of the Giants used drugs last season. Neither elaborated on the charge and later refused to discuss it.

When Fuentes learned of what his former teammates had said, he seemed disappointed.

"That is a terrible thing for them to say," Fuentes said. "You should never accuse anyone of something unless you are a saint. I like Bobby and Chris but they are no saints. Besides, I don't believe what they said. We had some problems on the Giants this year but nothing like that."

TITO FUENTES
Sorry to leave

Fuentes, who lives with his wife and five children in a fine home in suburban Foster City, said he will keep his family right where it is.

"I love the Bay Area and I never want to leave it," he said.

Marin Wildcats Outlast Lowell

The promise of offensive fireworks was broken in a game of brilliant defense last night as Marin Catholic High School defeated Lowell of San Francisco, 44-39 in the semi-finals of the Northern California Classic basketball tournament at Marin Catholic.

Eric Gilberg of Lowell and Mike Mahoney of Marin Catholic, two of the most explosive shooters within 100 miles, managed just 15 and 13 points respectively as the Wildcats fought their way into tonight's championship game at 8:30. Their opponent will be powerful Lincoln of San Francisco, which smashed Vintage of Napa, 78-44, in last night's other winners' bracket game.

Drake defeated San Rafael, 71-54, and Hogan of Vallejo downed Arcata, 76-66 in losers' bracket contests.

In other games yesterday involving Marin County Athletic League teams: Terra Linda won its fourth straight, 85- 59, over Ells in Richmond; Tamalpais opened its season with a 49-36 win over visiting Galileo of San Francisco; Redwood was edged by St. Ignatius, 38-37, in San Francisco; Novato defeated Napa, 51-46 in Napa; and San Marin lost to Analy, 70-50 in Sebastopol.

Marin Catholic trailed Lowell until the closing minutes of the third quarter, when Terry Ahern's three-point play tied it at 30. Mike Johnson, who matched Mahoney with 13 points, put the Wildcats in front to stay seconds later on a jumper.

Mahoney, who scored 30 points in the opening round, concentrated last night on man-to-man coverage of Gilberg, who had 32 in the opener. Mike won the personal battle while avoiding the foul trouble that plagued him in earlier games.

Drake 71, San Rafael 54

Walt Gillespie, the Pirates' only returning player, sank 11 field goals for 22 points as Drake outscored San Rafael in every quarter. Eric Wheeler had 17 to pace the Bulldogs.

Terra Linda 85, Ells 59

Junior phenom Barry Carr commanded both ends of the court as the Trojans won their fourth straight game by 15 points or more. Carr, a 6-foot-6 center, scored 20 points, pulled down 16 rebounds and blocked eight shots. Guard Matt Flynn was also outstanding for T.L. with 18 points.

Tamalpais 49, Galileo 36

The Indians were in control all the way in a game plagued by 51 personal fouls. Lettermen Dan Butterfield and Kevin Murphy had 13 points each for Tam, while guard Matt Hanley gave an impressive display of ball handling.

St. Ignatius 38, Redwood 37

Mike Bowie, a 6-8, 215-pound center, scored S.I.'s last 11 points and made it 38-34 with six minutes to play. Redwood

MINNESOTA FALLS, 5-3

Seals Go On Road After Back-To-Back Victories

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Golden Seals withstood a late rally by the Minnesota North Stars and, for the first time in a year, have captured back-to-back victories in the National Hockey League.

Last night's 5-3 triumph over Minnesota followed a 3-1 victory over Atlanta on Wednesday, also at the Oakland Coliseum Arena where the Seals have won five of their six games this season.

The Seals led 4-0 midway through the final period when Minnesota suddenly came alive and scored three times over the last eight minutes.

California center Ron Huston then scored the Seals' fifth goal with three seconds left to play, firing into an undefended net. The North Stars had pulled goalie Pete LoPresti for a sixth attacker in the closing minutes.

"It got a little hairy," admitted Seals goalie Gilles Meloche, referring to Minnesota's late rally. "But we got the win. That's all I care."

The Seals broke a scoreless tie midway through the second period on a goal by Stan Weir. Rick Hampton scored on a power play later in the same period, and Butch Williams and Al McAdam added two more goals in the first half of the third period. Minnesota got two goals from Bill Goldsworthy and the other from Henry Boucha.

The Seals, now 6-17-5, are scheduled to play again Tuesday in Vancouver against the Canucks, whose 17-6-4 record is second-best in the NHL.

Pacific-8 Basketball Challengers For UCLA

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

UCLA may still be king of the Pacific Eight basketball hill but there are plenty of teams ready to try to shove the Bruins off the summit this season.

In an awesome display by the Pacific Eight last night, UCLA, USC, California, Oregon State and Oregon all turned in stunning wins.

UCLA ran its season mark to 3-0 with an 84-67 win over Loyola (Ill.) in the Bruins' 68th straight Pauley Pavilion win. Ralph Drollinger, the 7-foot-1 junior who replaced Bill Walton, had 18 points and 18 rebounds to lead the way.

USC received 26 points from Gus Williams while rolling over Oklahoma State 107-88. Its 63 point first half set a school record and so did its 70 per cent mark from the floor. Freshman Earl Evans got the Trojans off on the right foot by scoring eight straight points early in the game.

California ran its record to 3-0 with a 76-73 win over Purdue, the defending National Invitation Tournament champ. Connie White made four straight free throws in the final 37 seconds to give the Bears the win. Bruce Parkinson of Purdue hit 25 but star Jim Garrett hit only 7-of-21 shots. Rickie Hawthorne, who teams with White to give the Bears a brilliant backcourt, led Cal with 18.

Lonnie Shelton scored 22 as Oregon State edged Hawaii 63-59 for its second win in as many nights over the Rainbows, who got 17 from 7-foot Tommy Barker.

Oregon flattened Penn State 76-40 in first round action at the Steel Bowl tourney in Pittsburgh and tonight meets Duquesne in the finals. Ernie Kent led the Ducks balanced attack with 16.

Elsewhere, things were a bit tougher for Coast quintets as Santa Clara got 18 points from Glenn Hubbard but fell 65-62 to Creighton in the Creighton Classic at Omaha.

Long Beach State was dumped by Nebraska at the Sun Devil Classic at Tempe, Ariz., and Montana fell to host Arizona State 93-66 in the other first round game.

In other tourney action, Mark Campanaro and Don Ford combined for 35 points as Universi-

Team Defense Lifts Marin Tars

NAPA — The College of Marin Tars, playing "tremendous team defense," held Napa to just 22 points in the second half last night and took home a 66-55, non-league basketball victory.

The Tars, now 2-1, trailed by six at the end of the first half, but they stormed back to outscore the Chiefs by 17 after the intermission. "They came out and put on a tremendous team defensive battle," said coach Jim Webster. "We were pressing full court and we really defensed them. James (Pee Wee) White was all over the court ball hawking, and Tony Parenti was playing like a wild man. He was all over the place."

White and center Mike Dinehart led Marin in scoring with 15 points apiece, followed by forward John Channell with 12.

Webster also had praise for Kevin Neal. A 6-foot-5 pivot man who took down seven rebounds in the second half. "He did an excellent job as substitute for Dinehart," Webster said.

Marin plays tonight against its alumni at 8 o'clock in Kentfield.

Many Differences Seen Between U.S., British Athletes

IN TOWN — Quarterback John Hadl returns to San Francisco tomorrow to lead the Green Bay Packers against the 49ers in a National Football League game. This will be the first time Hadl has faced the 49ers in a Packers' uniform. See story, page 24.

By LARRY ELDRIDGE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

OXFORD, England — Former Olympic skater John Misha Petkevich, now in his second year as a Rhodes Scholar, says he's still constantly amazed at the many differences he finds between Englishmen and Americans.

"One thing I've yet to get accustomed to — and I don't think I ever really will — is the lack of vitality," the 25-year-old Harvard graduate said recently.

"Most Americans I know have this vigor for life — a desire to do things, to fulfill themselves. But the English just aren't too uptight about that sort of thing. They're much more apathetic and fatalistic."

In sports, for example, Petkevich says the average English athlete doesn't begin to put in the time and effort to achieve success that his American counterpart does.

"The English don't know what a training program is," he said. "Oh, I'm sure their world class athletes do. But there's just no comparison between the way English students train for sports like rugby and the athletic training programs you find in American schools. A student at a university here just wouldn't know what to do if he suddenly found himself on the Harvard football team. It would be devastating."

Petkevich realizes, of course, that from the point of view of his hosts, he and his fellow Americans must also seem strange creatures at times.

"They think we're all nuts," he laughed. "No, I'm joking. It's not really that bad. But they sometimes can't quite figure us out. We're pretty gregarious for them. And we're not fazed by ceremony or title, which they can't quite understand or get used to."

JOHN PETKEVICH
He is amazed

Misha says that contrary to the idea many Americans have, he and his fellow scholars don't really walk around in gowns all the time ("only on special occasions"), but he does find some important dissimilarities in the overall educational systems.

"Their attitude toward education is very different," he says. "It's much more of an ivory tower approach. There are exceptions, of course, but in general they're much more concerned with theory and research, and not so much with application to modern society."

Petkevich, a native of Great Falls, Mont., finished sixth in the men's figure skating singles in 1968 at Grenoble. He was second in the U.S. national championships in 1970, won the title in 1971, then competed again in the Olympics at Sapporo in 1972, finishing fifth. That same year he also won the men's title at the World University Games in Lake Placid, N.Y.

Like most American skaters, Misha usually fell behind his European rivals in the school figure part of the competition, then dazzled audiences with his brilliant free skating. His style seemed made to order for a professional career with an ice show, but he had decided early in the game that 1972 would be his last year of full-time skating, after which he would pursue his education and a career in medicine.

"I just didn't want to skate the rest of my life," he said. "Also, I wanted something where I could use my mind more. Not that skating doesn't require a lot of mental effort. Quite the contrary. But it's more along the line of constant attention and concentration on the same things over — like spins and jumps."

Misha (he started using his middle name "when I became interested in being proud that I'm part Lithuanian") is in a three-year program at Oxford leading to the equivalent of a PhD. He says he has enjoyed the whole experience.

Sonoma Back In Conference Next Fall

I-J Special Report

ARCATA — Faculty representatives of the six colleges in the Far Western Conference yesterday voted unanimously to re-admit Sonoma State College.

The decision, which came at the FWC's annual winter meeting, was made after athletic directors of the schools had unanimously recommended the action. Conference representatives afterward told Sonoma State president Margorie Wagner they hoped the Rohnert Park school would make efforts to be competitive in all its sports programs.

Sonoma State, beginning next fall, will participate in basketball, golf, tennis, track and field, baseball, wrestling and cross country. In both 1972 and 1973, it was the league champion in basketball. When Sonoma rejoins the league officially next September, it will not field a football team.

The addition of Sonoma will give the Far Western Conference eight members for the first time since 1968. Stanislaus State was added to the league previously and will begin competing as a member, also next fall.

Like Sonoma State, Stanislaus State will not field a football team. The league has a rule whereby a school with less than 5,500 fulltime students need not field a football team unless it chooses to. Both Sonoma and Stanislaus currently are under the limit.

Sonoma State dorpped out of the conference earlier this year when it became unable to guarantee continued funding of athletics.

Because students at the college several years ago abolished the semesterly fees which finance sports and other campus activities, Sonoma State's athletics existed solely on contributions from community boosters.

Campus officials decided to seek readmission to the conference after Assembly Bill 3116 made available the $44,000 they believe is essential to restart athletic programs. The school expects regular funding in the future through regular allocations in the yearly budgets of the state college and university system.

Current FWC members are University of California at Davis, Hayward State, San Francisco State, Chico State and Humboldt State.

CAGE PROSPECTS

Tam Good Bet As Contender

By DAVID EINSTEIN

(Fifth in an eight-part series of profiles on Marin County Athletic League basketball teams.)

Judging from their history under coach Bernie Schneider, the Tamalpais Indians are a good bet to finish fourth or higher this season and win a playoff spot in the Marin County Athletic League.

Since Schneider came to Tam nine years ago, the Indians have finished lower than fourth just once. Last year, they were fourth at 8-6, and they bring back four letterman as the nucleus of the 1974-75 team.

Tam began its season yesterday by defeating Galileo of San Francisco, 49-36.

Three of the returners, 6-foot-4 Dan Butterfield, 6-2 Frank Jandura and 6-2 Kevin Murphy, are senior forwards. The other, 5-10 Dan Lucia, is a junior guard. Butterfield was the only full-time starter among them, and Schneider expects him to have a good year. "He's worked hard in the off-season, and he's really ready to play."

So is Jandura. But for Murphy and Lucia, the season is beginning with injuries carrying over from football. Murphy, who missed almost the entire basketball season last year with a broken ankle, is having problems with it again, but at least he's got medical clearance to play.

Lucia, who sustained a broken arm early in the football season, hasn't got medical clearance yet, and might not be able to play until the end of December. And Schneider is counting on him to run the club.

For the first time in several years, the Indians don't have an intimidating big man at center. Mike Dyslin, a 6-3 junior up from the junior varsity, will play the post, and Schneider says, "He's going to help us on the front line.

Other players up from the J.V.s are senior guard John Wynn, junior forwards Arthur McIntosh and Rick Drever, junior guards Matt Hanley and Robin Marks and junior center Eric Vezie. Steve Barrett, a sophomore guard, is up from the frosh team.

Schneider thinks the Indians have a shot at a playoff spot, even though "there are a few teams that would be considered more likely candidates." The playoffs will determine the league champion, who will go on to the North Coast Section playoffs.

BILL WALTON
Injured ankle

Blazers Have Gut-Feeling About Walton

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Officials of the Portland Trail Blazers are expressing confidence that three-time All America center Bill Walton will not quit basketball, but will shake off injuries to rejoin the team in its fight for a playoff berth in the National Basketball Association.

Harry Glickman, executive vice president of the Portland club and coaches Lenny Wilkens and Tom Meschery said yesterday that they have not heard from Walton, but expect him to remain with the team.

Sam Gilbert, Walton's friend and financial counselor, has confirmed that the three-time UPI College Basketball Player of the Year is considering retiring from pro basketball after just 17 games. Walton has missed eight games this season —including the last six—with injuries.

"My gut feeling is that he will continue to play basketball. I personally don't feel he will retire from basketball," Glickman said.

Glickman said he would talk to Walton when the Blazers return from their road trip to the east coast tomorrow.

"I have not talked with Walton and I don't think we will know what the situation is until we do," Glickman said, adding that "it's more than just rumor in light of Sam Gilbert's statements.

Wilkens and Meschery both said yesterday they would hold off judgment until they meet with walton.

"I assume that Bill is coming back, I assume that until he tells me otherwise," Meschery said.

Walton left for Los Angeles Monday to see Dr. Robert Kerlan, the team physician for the Los Angeles Lakers for treatment of a bone spur in his left ankle. The trip was approved by Glickman.

Gilbert, who left for Switzerland yesterday, said Walton was to fly from Los Angeles to San Francisco to pick up his car, then drive to Portland for the meeting tomorrow with Glickman.

Both Dr. Kerlan and the Portland team physician, Dr. Frank Smith, agreed that Walton's ankle injury is painful but not too serious.

Marin Trout Limit Reduced To 5

Combined AP & UPI

LOS ANGELES — The state Fish and Game Commission yesterday reduced from 10 to 5 the general season trout limit in streams in Marin, Santa Clara and San Mateo counties.

It also limited the number of points which can be used on a hook to catch salmon or steelhead in a section of the American River.

The Commission said the trout limit was reduced to make limits consistent with lakes and reservoirs in the counties.

It said that hooks used to catch salmon or steelhead may not have more than one point or be larger than size No. 1. It said any weight attached to a hook or below a hook or to the line directly or indirectly within 18 inches of the hook is prohibited.

SPORTS SHORTS

Judy Meister yesterday shattered the ladies' course record with 69s for the opening-round lead in the Far East Pro Golf Tournament.

MIYAZAKI, Japan — American Johnny Miller today shot a third straight three-under par 69 and grabbed a three-stoke lead at 207 in the third round of the $170,000 Dunlop Phoenix Golf Tournament.

Bowling

HONOLULU — Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., the leading money winner on the pro bowling tour yesterday rolled a 2,240 series and moved into first place by ten pins in the $35,000 Hawaiian Invitational with a two-round total of 4,694.

Tennis

ADELAIDE, Australia — Australian women's champion, Evonne Goolagong today survived a first set loss to come back and beat Dianne Fromholtz 4-6, 7-6, 6-1 and win the semi-final of the South Australia Women's Singles Championships at Memorial Drive Stadium. She will now meet the Russian champion, Olga Morozova, in tomorrow's final. Miss Morozova beat the Japanese girl, Kum Sawamatsu, 7-5, 6-4 in the other semi-final.

BOSTON — The Boston Lobsters of the World Team Tennis yesterday acquired Kerry Harris of Australia in a trade which sends Trish Bostrom to Indianapolis.

Football

CHICAGO — Bobby Walston has resigned after eight years as director of player personnel for the Chicago Bears, the National Football League club announced yesterday.

49ers-Packers Game May Stress Defense

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers and San Francisco 49ers, both coming off upset losses, meet tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Candlestick Park in what insiders expect will be a defensive battle.

The 49ers, now 4-8, have had the best defensive record in the National Football League the past three weeks, including their 7-0 loss to the Browns in snow last Sunday.

Green Bay Coach Dan Devine says the Packers' defense is one of the league's best despite their 36-14 loss to Philadelphia last week.

The visitors, 6-6 for the season, should be bolstered with the expected return to action of star cornerback Willie Buchanan. Outside linebackers Fred Carr and Ted Hendricks could dull the 49er aerial game.

San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan plans to start with rookie signal caller Tom Owen "and see what happens." Veteran Steve Spurrier also is expected to see his first action since he was consigned to the bench by a preseason injury.

The Packer attack will be directed by John Hadl, who regulary beat the Prospectors when he was with the Los Angeles Rams.

Track Meet On March 3

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Amateur Athletic Union said today the United States will meet a team from the Soviet Union in their fourth annual indoor track and field competition March 3 at Richmond, Va.

The competition will follow by two days the U.S. Men's and Women's Indoor Track and Field Championships, held annually in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Raiders To Start Lawrence AT QB

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — It will be rookie Larry Lawrence at quarterback for Oakland tomorrow when it calls on arch rival Kansas City. (The 1 p.m. game will be televised back to the Bay Area on Channels 3 and 4.)

Coach John Madden said yesterday that Lawrence will replace star Ken Stabler, hopefully for the entire game. And he said that should Lawrence falter, then Daryle Lamonica will be backup.

Lawrence, a sensation during the training season, came on in the closing minute of play against New England last Sunday with Oakland already the cinch victor. He provided a touchdown by running two yards to the five and then lateralling to Harold Hart as the Raiders won 41-26.

"We've been trying to give Stabler some time off," said Madden, whose Raiders already have clinched a playoff spot.

The Chiefs have slumped to 5-7 this season but have a solid one-two running punch in Woody Green, who has gained 509 yards after recovering from an early season injury, and Ed Podolak, with 386 yards gained. The Chiefs like to throw to their running backs and Podolak leads all receivers with 43 attempts.

Running Backs Are Browns' Big Need

THE TIPOFF:

-Most imminent change we see in pro football is lengthening the season from 14 to 16 games.

Q. You ask for 'tough' questions. O.K. So what's wrong with our Cleveland Browns, other than the fact that the runners don't seem to run as hard, the receivers don't seem to be where they should, the blocking isn't what it should be and the tackling isn't so great. And when does Mike Phipps 'mature'? If you have the answer, don't wait for some future column. Phone it in to Art Modell . . . quick! — Isador Silverman, Cleveland, O.

"Yes, operator. Did you say Mr. Modell was calling?" I think correspondent Mr. Silverman touched on the Browns' trouble almost in the first phrase — "the runners don't seem to run as hard" — because for the first time in the history of the franchise, the Marion Motley-Jimmy Brown-Leroy Kelly string of great running backs has been broken. Greg Pruitt is a fine rabbit-type scatback but can't carry the load himself.

Q. Was that pie in the face incident, I think with Vida Blue or Frank Robinson, a true story or just a fellow reporter's attempt to sell more papers? If it's true, did you like the pie? — David Irwin, Scotia, Neb.

Try again. It wasn't either of the players you mention but an outfielder, initials R. J. And if that blast which made headlines during the World Series was for publicity then I'm going to sell my dictionary on scatology — I'm still looking up some of the words. As for pie in the face, you got your anatomy wrong — I'm still wiping out my ears.

Q. After watching her amazing technique on the balance bar, I don't understand how anyone can criticize the gymnastic work of Olga Korbut, the fine little Russian gymnast. What's the basis of it? — G. F., Chester, Pa.

"All I know is that one U. S. gymnastic judge I talked to — Judy Smith, who has worked the nationals — calls "Ogling Olga" a second-rate technician who sells herself on her acrobatics and crowd-pleasing tactics and benefits from the inner politics of the sport. Olga is criticized for shunning twist routines — not because of a bad back as claimed but because she's just not as adept at them.

Q. A magazine trivia quiz posed the following question: which major league ball player has the record for hitting the most home runs in the consecutive games? The answer was Dale Long with eight but I say it's Hank Greenberg with nine. Which is it? — Lane Grado, Santa Ana, Calif.

It was Long who hit runs in eight straight games in May, 1956 for the Pittsburgh Pirates. The only home run record still held by Hank Greenberg is for hitting two or more round-trippers a game on 11 different occasions for Detroit in 1938.

Q. Is Steve Bartkowski of California going to stick with football after his fine season this fall or is he still interested in baseball as a career? — A. Dale, San Jose, Calif.

A year ago at this time, I would have definitely said you'd be seeing Bart with bat and glove — his father was an old minor league ball player. But after batting only .254 in college ball last spring and being ignored by major league clubs until the 19th round of the draft, he soured on baseball as a vocation and seems a cinch as a high-priced first round pick for quarterback. A Denver scout said he could be first string for the Broncos next spring if they got to pick him.

PARTING SHOT:

I just figured out the success of the Brigham Young football team this year — they're giving 10 per cent to the players. Okay, Okay, you good Mormons — I was only being facetious.

Warrior Sellout Possible Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors could have a sellout tonight when they host Seattle in a battle between the two National Basketball Association Pacific Division front-runners.

If so, it will shove the Warriors' average attendance to about 7,000 per contest, or about 2,000 more per game than last year's figure.

Golden State leads the Sonics by 3½ games going into tonight's tussle.

THAT'S BALL CONTROL

President Ford yesterday watched intently as Harlem Globetrotter Curly Neal demonstrated his ball handling wizardry in the White House. The players gave President and Mrs. Ford an autographed basketball marking the Trotters' 12,000 professional games. Ford saluted them for their "great contribution to America's image abroad."

WFL Making Plans For Next Season

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The World Football League's first season has ended, and officials and players have begun efforts to insure it is not the last season of the WFL.

The league yesterday paraded players, a coach, an owner and new WFL President Chris Hemmeter before what was billed as the "first annual post-World Bowl media brunch" to talk about the future.

But the main theme of those speaking at the brunch was plans for solving the league's poverty before next spring.

Hemmeter, president of the Hawaiians, had said Thursday "unless we can resolve our financial problems by February or March, folding the league will be one of our options."

Unpaid players, taxes and bills for equipment and services have plagued several WFL teams, including the Birmingham Americans, 22-21 winners over the Florida Blazers in Thursday night's World Bowl championship game.

Hemmeter said he was confident the league could overcome its financial problems and find new owners with enough money to support a team. He said the title game was "the beginning of a new era" for the WFL.

The league planned a meeting next week in New York, and WFL officials have hinted some of the potential new owners might be revealed during the session.

Although the champion Americans have not been paid in more than a month, player representative Charley Harraway said the players did not plan legal action to get their back pay.

"We are in this thing the same as the management," Harraway said. He said the WFL Players Association was "hopeful of working with the owners toward a more stable off-field league next year."

Nave Well Represented In Bowling Tournament

Nave Lanes was well represented in the District Two California State Junior Bowling Association Championships last weekend.

Tom McCarter and Tom Woods had a handicap score of 1,293 to win B Division doubles.

Chris Moats and Neil Simpson were second in A Division doubles with 1,345.

Sixty-two Marin bowlers were among 240 competitors at Napa Bowl. The American Junior Bowling Congress tourney was for bowlers ages eight through 20 living from the Golden Gate Bridge north to the Oregon border.

TWO BOWLING TOURNEYS are on tap tomorrow at Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

Some 80 bowlers are expected to compete in the men's 200 Classic at 10 a.m. Men who bowled a 200 game or higher in Nave league play since September are eligible. Contestants will roll three games with handicap. The top five scorers will then go into head-on-head match play.

The Marin County Women's 600 Club and the Marin chapter of the American Junior Bowling Congress will sponsor a 600 Club-Junior Tournament. Starting time is 1 p.m.

JACK GIBBS bowled the top series in Marin leagues last week, a 690. He had games of 222-258-210 Thursday night in the 910 Scratch at Greenbrae Lanes.

Mill Valley Golf Star Gates Bows

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Co-favorites Amy Alcott of Los Angeles and Lauren Howe of Colorado Springs clash today in one semi-final match of the California Women's State Amateur Golf tournament at famed Pebble Beach.

Miss Alcott, defending champ and medalist, downed Kathy Woodward of Folsom, 6 and 4, while Miss Howe, a teen-ager considered a sure future star, edged Carolyn Hill of Placentia, 4-2.

Mary Elizabeth Shea of Los Angeles downed Barbara Vetrano of San Francisco, 4-2, to move into the other semi-final against Alice Miller of Marysville, who defeated Shelley Gates of Mill Valley, 4 and 2.

The finals are set for tomorrow morning.

Bucks Are Team To Beat

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Milwaukee Bucks are still last in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division but none of the other teams—Detroit, Kansas City-Omaha and Chicago—have any doubt about which team is the one to beat.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has returned, aviation goggles and all, and so have the Bucks. They convinced the Bulls last night with a 99-96 victory, their eighth in the last 10 games and the gap between fourth place and third is now only 2½ games.

Detroit, which crushed Cleveland 117-91, still owns a 4½-game lead over Milwaukee but as Abdul-Jabbar gets stronger, that lead seems destined to shrink or even be reversed.

Cold spells hurt Chicago and the worst came in the last seven minutes when the Bulls were scoreless for almost three minutes after pulling within two points of the pace-setting Bucks at 87-85.

DAVE COWENS
Scores 38

"They killed us when they ran off six points," Bulls Coach Dick Motta said, "but they killed us too when they got the last six points before the half for a six-point lead and then got the first four in the second half."

Chicago, which trailed by as many as 13 in the third period, pulled within one point with 18 seconds to play when Norm Van Lier dropped two free throws, but four seconds later Jim Price netted two free throws for the Bucks. After Chet Walker's basket brought the Bulls within a point with nine seconds left, Cornell Warner hit two more free throws for the Bucks with four seconds left for the final margin.

In other NBA action Buffalo whipped Portland, still playing without rookie center Bill Walton, 114-105, Detroit crushed Cleveland 117-91, the New York Knicks beat Philadelphia 96-88, Boston edged Houston 120-114 in overtime, Los Angeles clipped Atlanta 100-84 and Seattle walloped New Orleans 121-108. In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets routed San Diego 113-92 and San Antonio clubbed Virginia 114-95.

Lakers 100, Hawks 84

Lucius Allen scored 32 points and newly-acquired Stu Lantz had 26 for Los Angeles The victory was the first for the Lakers over Atlanta in more than two years.

Braves 114, Blazers 105

Buffalo, led by Bob McAdoo's 38 points and 18 rebounds, got a fine fourth quarter from Garfield Heard to halt its losing streak at three games.

Pistons 117, Cavs 91

Detroit got 24 points from Dave Bing and 16 or more from four other players to beat Cleveland.

Knicks 96, 76ers 88

Walt Frazier scored 26 points for New York.

Celtics 120, Rockets 114 (ot)

Dave Cowens scored 18 of his 38 points in the fourth quarter and then helped Boston defeat Houston in overtime.

Sonics, 121, Jazz 108

Fred Brown's 27 points led Seattle over New Orleans.

Nets 113, Q's 92

Travis Grant's injured knee prevented him from meeting Julius Erving in a duel between the ABA's top two scorers and the Nets took advantage to coast to victory.

Spurs 114, Squires 95

San Antonio jumped to an 8-0 lead after tipoff and never was threatened in breezing past Virginia.

22-Year-Old Horse Still Sets Records

LEXINGTON Ky. (AP) — Nashua is 22 years old and continues to set records. The horse of the year in 1955 when he retired with more than $1 million in earnings, Nashua stands at stud at Spendthrift Farm here.

Again among the leading sires of stakes winners this year, Nashua is the leading living sire with a record of 54 wins for his sons and daughters.

Students At College Of Marin Are Choosing New Government

Elections which started Thursday were to continue Monday as College of Marin students attempt to choose their government for next semester.

Twelve candidates are vying for seven vacancies on the board of the Associated Students of College of Marin (ASCOM).

All candidates but one belong to either of two rival coalitions. The Student Progressive Coalition (SPC) has six candidates, including four incumbents. The Progressive Coalition (Pro-Co) has five candidates, one an incumbent.

Pro-Co favors an expanded budget for noon concerts, lectures and films; wants to prop up the financially troubled Holding Together natural foods restaurant with ASCOM funds; and wants to set up some type of food cooperative to get food cheaply to students.

SPC opposes the noon concerts and aid to Holding Together, and wants a more comprehensive food cooperative.

On the SPC slate are incumbents Art Schlyer, Sam Goodhope, Carole Rosvold and Donna Knight, plus Richmond Young and Wilbert Johnson.

Pro-Co puts forward incumbent Don Detrich, plus Arzella McLeod, Chris Effgen, Phil Matthews and John Hulbred.

The independent candidate is Alfonso Campos.

Incumbents Ann Hall and Ralph Glotzer did not seek reelection.

Benefit Concert To Aid Juveniles

A group of 75 women calling themselves the Marin County Juvenile Court Auxiliary have spent 12 years working quietly to give financial assistance and helpful services to the young people under jurisdiction of the county's juvenile court.

They have given Christmas parties and bought drapes for the girls' unit. They have bought books for the juvenile hall library and given many hours as court hostesses, library clerks, tutors and drivers.

This year, women of the auxiliary decided they wanted to do more: "We want to encourage these young people to look to their futures, to help them direct their energies in a more hopeful direction," said Peggy Kramer, auxiliary president.

The auxiliary hopes to establish scholarships so that young people on probation can attend training schools or receive on the job training and thus have more solid ground on which to build a life for themselves.

Funds for the scholarships, auxiliary members hope, will come from a holiday concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building. Eight local choirs will donate their talents to present "Holiday Sounds in Song," a family oriented program of holiday music costing $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Gary Walker, director of music for St. Sebastian's Catholic Church in Greenbrae, is coordinator of the program.

In other years, the auxiliary has held no fund-raising events, depending on donations in response to a Christmas mail appeal to churches, business and individuals in the community. From these donations have come the monies to buy trees for juvenile hall, garden tools and supplies for a boys' unit vegetable garden, camperships for individual youths, expenses for a fishing trip this summer for 15 young people, graduation and Christmas gifts and other helping activities.

In addition to financial contributions, the auxiliary members perform as hostesses, expediting procedures at the juvenile court; they staff the juvenile hall library and help bring books to each living unit; they drive young people to and from necessary off-grounds medical appointments; serve as female "ride-alongs" when a girl is being transported to the airport ("Often a runaway from another county is picked up in Marin and must be returned home," explained Mrs. Kramer.)

Some members of the auxiliary offer one to one tutoring or visits to individual young people on request of the probation officer.

Most of the auxiliary women work "because they care what happens to our children," Mrs. Kramer said. It is her experience that "there is hope for all these young people. Many are there (in juvenile hall) because

THE LAST WORD

'What's In A Name?' Takes On A Different Meaning

By JOAN LISETOR

Remember when you heard that a woman had changed her last name and you thought it was because she had gotten married? Such is no longer the case.

Now we ask, "Did she get married or divorced?" More and more women are going back to their maiden names, some after many years of being divorced, and the number of women retaining their maiden names after marriage is growing.

Another growing trend is for couples who have lived together for many years to get married. It was once, "If you live together, why don't you get married?" As society has accepted the trend, these couples are now being asked, "If you live together, why are you getting married?"

It is similar to the couples who have been separated for a long time and suddenly decide to get a divorce.

The times in which we live certainly conjure up a lot of "whys."

Also in vogue are non sexist words, chairperson, spokesperson et al, but how often do you hear them pertaining to men?

DID YOU ever pick up your telephone and have someone ask, "How do you make guava jelly?" You might if you worked for a newspaper. Other questions might be, "Who can I write to to find out why there are puddles of water in my carpet?" or "Is it safe to make jelly from persimmons?" If you ask how to freeze dried chili peppers, you wouldn't be the first to ask that recently.

There are many sides to newspaper work that few know exist.

HOLIDAY SHOPPING can be very difficult for a handicapped person. Recognizing this, some shopping centers have provided special parking spaces for those in wheelchairs or on crutches.

On a recent trip to the Emporium, Maryann Kermoian of Corte Madera, who is in a wheelchair, was surprised to find all of the spaces designated "handicapped parking" were filled. Most surprising was a large van, too high off the ground for a handicapped person to get in or out of.

These spaces are close to entrances, Mrs. Kermoian pointed out, and a temptation, especially to those in a hurry. She asks that shoppers put themselves in the position of a person in a wheelchair for five minutes and think about the energy required to walk long distances on crutches.

These spaces are larger than others to allow doors to open wider, so handicapped persons forced to park in regulation spaces run the risk of putting dents and scratches on their own cars and those parked next to them.

Sugar Shortage Bright Side

By KAREN PETERSON

There's a bright side to the high cost of sugar, namely, better health.

Nutritionists have long been concerned about the American dependency on the white, brown, powdered or "organic raw" sweetener. Now, says Frances Dahl, nutritionist with the county department of health services, the hope is that soaring prices will bring consumption down and break the sugar habit.

The average American adult consumes about 115 pounds of sugar annually from his sweetened coffee and tea, soft drinks, canned or frozen fruit and vegetables, candies, desserts and many other prepared foods containing "hidden sugar." This means simply that both men and women are eating two pounds a week of a "nutritionally bankrupt" substance, a description of sugar given most often by nutritionists.

"SUGAR PROVIDES nothing but calories," said Mrs. Dahl, adding that virtually all the sugar needed by the body can be obtained by eating natural foods — fruits, vegetables, grains and dairy foods. She also emphasized that the brown "raw" sugar sold at many organic food stores is as empty nutritionally as its white counterpart.

Sugar has long been pegged as the number one cause of tooth decay. Bacteria in the mouth quickly turn sugar into acids that attack tooth enamel, say dentists, and studies have indicated that the amount of decay is related to the frequency of between-meal eating, especially of sticky, sugary foods.

A Mill Valley dentist concurs and although he does not say stop eating sugar, he does warn against an overabundance of sweets. He also added that infants should not be sent to bed with a bottle of apple juice — the sugar and the acid in the juice are extremely harmful to young teeth.

But that's not all it attacks. Sugar, said Mrs. Dahl, has been blamed for the increase of diabetes, obesity, and now, possibly heart disease and hypertension. Heart disease, she adds, is considered at "the epidemic level."

THE ROLE SUGAR plays in heart disease has been the object of intensified research. Dr. John Yudkin, a University of London nutritionist, claims that sugar is involved in coronary artery disease and adds that the evidence against sugar is even more conclusive than it is against cholesterol.

Another Briton, Dr. Denis P. Burkitt, warns that highly refined foods such as sugar may be responsible for not only heart disease and diabetes, but appendicitis and cancer of the digestive tract.

Whether or not these studies are conclusive, most nutritionists agree that sugar is the demon behind weight gain. Twenty teaspoons of sugar equals 400 calories and 100 pounds of sugar per year is the caloric equivalent of about 57 pounds of body fat, reports Harvard professor of nutrition, Dr. Jean Mayer.

It would be simple if cutting down on sugar just meant throwing away the sugar bowl, but that's not the case.

SUE CHELINI, home economics teacher at Redwood High School, claims a person "has to go out of his way to find products without sugar." From her own experience, Mrs. Chelini found only two commercially prepared cereals without added sugar and only one can of soup, either dry or canned, that didn't contain some sugar.

Mrs. Chelini asked her students recently to list a normal daily intake of food then each was rated for its sugar content. Among the examples were: a six-ounce glass of cola, three-and-a-half teaspoons of sugar; one four-ounce piece of angel food cake, seven teaspoons; one four-ounce piece of hard candy, 20 teaspoons, and one glazed donut, six teaspoons.

In fact, she added, sugar crops up in unsuspecting places like beef style bouillon and non-dairy creamer.

"SOME SWEETENED cereals contain more sugar than cereal," warned Mrs. Dahl, and Mrs. Chelini added that granola has a high quantity of sugar in the form of honey. And honey, she said, is "not any better. There's no nutritional difference between sucrose (sugar) and honey."

Sugar is addictive, said Mrs. Dahl, and the easiest way to prevent poor eating habits is to start with the child. "Parents should use candy as an occasional treat," she said. "Don't put sugar in cereals, don't even have it on the table — forget the sugar bowl."

Here Mrs. Chelini cautioned against those commercially prepared baby foods which contain sugar. The best bet, she said, is to try and make most of your own baby food.

THERE ARE obvious ways of cutting back on sugar intake — like using less in coffee and tea. Mrs. Chelini also suggests eating less prepared foods and more fresh fruits and vegetables. And when cooking, she added, cut the called-for cup of sugar to three-quarters cup (exceptions include angel food cake and some candies.) "It will change the taste but not the quality," she said.

Nutritionists are not preaching total abstinence from sugar, just moderation. Pay attention to ingredient labeling, they urge. If the first ingredient is sugar, that's what makes up most of the product.

Talent Contest Is Open To Little Misses

The Little Miss California Talent Contest will be held Jan. 25 at the Miramar on the Beach in Santa Barbara.

The contest is open to girls between the ages of 5 and 12, who will compete in dance, vocal, baton, instrumental and variety categories. Judging is based 75 per cent on artistic ability and 25 per cent on poise, personality and appearance.

The state winner will compete in the national finals in August in Kansas City, Mo.

Applications for the contest are available from the Little Miss California Talent Contest, Box 406, Rockton, Ill., 61072.

'Meanest Thief' Takes Film, Tape

By MOLLY MARIN

The 1974 candidate for "meanest thief" has to be the person who took the print and tape of "Why the Chimes Rang" from the home of the Douglas Fanchers in Sausalito.

A cast of Marin children, all under the age of 14, appeared in the film made by Paula Fancher and Barbara Nelson. It was made for the Sausalito Presbyterian Church family Christmas party, which will be held Dec. 15.

A rough copy of print and sound was stored at the home of the Eugene Nelsons. It is being worked over, but it is doubtful that it can be ready in time for the party.

Mrs. Nelson is continuing to perfect her film making techniques by taking a course from Judy Gartman of Mill Valley at the College of Marin. Her own movie was among those shown this morning at Indian Valley Colleges.

GOOD NEWS was waiting for Betty Rogers when she returned to Sausalito the day before Thanksgiving after spending four weeks traveling in Spain, Portugal and Morocco.

A copy of the newly published book, "47 Creative Homes in the United States" had been delivered. The new book includes a section on Mrs. Rogers' home in Sausalito, which was built in 1906 as a fisherman's cottage and has been extensively remodeled. The book spotlights unusual homes, such as those created out of barns, old firehouses and the like, which have been turned into domiciles at moderate cost.

Mrs. Rogers, an avid sailor and member of Sausalito Yacht Club, had the opportunity of doing some sailing on her trip. She tried out her yachting skills in Tangiers, Seville and Rabat.

DR. AND MRS. Bradford Simmons of Kentfield and Inverness will be honored at a farewell dinner at La Petite Auberge in San Rafael on Dec. 16 given for their friends by Dr. and Mrs. John McGee of San Anselmo and Dr. and Mrs. Scott Strathairn o San Rafael.

The Simmonses will leave Jan. 6 for Shiprock, N.M., to live and work at the Navajo Indian reservation. Dr. Simmons will be the only general surgeon at the public health service hospital which serves a very remote area.

The country is lovely there, according to Margaret Simmons who may possibly teach at the Indian school. "Over the past several years we have built up an enormous interest in the plight of the Indians," she said.

Their move is not permanent. On two other occasions, Dr. Simmons and his wife, a registered nurse, have volunteered in other countries — at a hospital in Kenya in 1967 and on the Project Hope ship in Brazil in 1972.

DR. AND MRS. John A. Grasham hosted a Christmas tea Friday afternoon for faculty and staff of the College of Marin and Indian Valley Colleges.

More than 600 persons gathered in the board room on the Kentfield campus, where a buffet table was piled high with a variety of cookies prepared by Beth Grasham.

The Grashams have hosted the tea annually since Dr. Grasham became superintendent of the Marin Community College District four years ago.

A COCKTAIL party at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio will precede the concert, "Holiday Sounds in Song," Wednesday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The party from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. was arranged by Don Deane of the Marin County Probation Officers Union.

The performance is a benefit for the Marin Juvenile Court Auxiliary. Proceeds will be used to set up scholarships for children under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court.

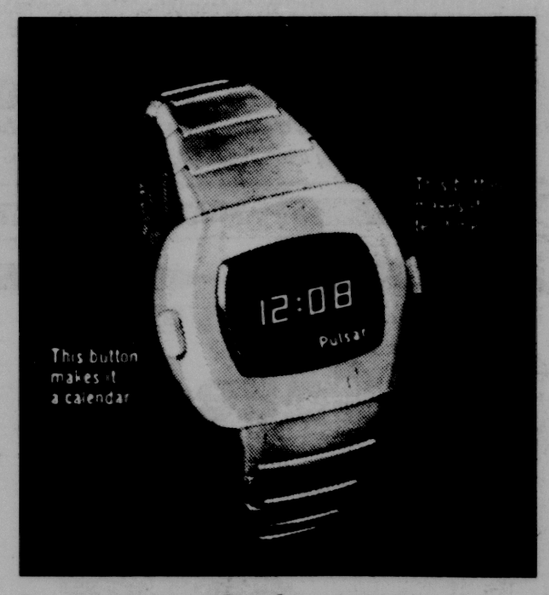
Doctor Attends Health Forum

Dr. Sarah Ellen Archer of Mill Valley participated in the Western Regional Health Forum held Sunday through Tuesday at the Sheraton Palace Hotel in San Francisco.

Dr. Archer is assistant professor of community nursing at the University of California School of Nursing in San Francisco.

The forum, sponsored by the National Health Council, was attended by 250 health professionals and policy makers from 13 western states.

Will PULSAR® change the way the world tells time?



Pulsar, the solid-state Time Computer® made in America, has already established itself as something decidedly out of the ordinary.

■ Pulsar has been hailed as "the new international status symbol" on coast-to-coast TV.

Pulsar is seen on the wrists of celebrities: diplomats, senators, governors, and some of the biggest box office names in show business.

Pulsar has been called "the new 'in' watch that every man wants" by the New York Times.

What's behind all the excitement?

INCREDIBLE ACCURACY. Pulsar tells you the time, guaranteed accurate to within 60 seconds a year, at the push of a button. (Timing will be adjusted to this tolerance if necessary.) This is often more accurate than the time sources used by the telephone company or the average radio or television station.

REMARKABLE RELIABILITY. Pulsar has no moving parts to wear out. It does not need routine maintenance, oiling, or cleaning. Pulsar is water and shock resistant, too.

THE CALENDAR WITH A HIGH IQ. The new, Pulsar Date/Command has a calendar that knows the difference between a 30 and a 31-day month and makes the change automatically. Pulsar Date/Command with 14 kt. gold-filled case, matching bracelet, $395. Other models from $285 to $2500.

We are proud to be one of the few fine stores permitted to handle Pulsar, the Time Computer, invented and made in U.S.A.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

How About Renewable Contract That Avoids Hassle Of Divorce?

RAP:

Do you think we'll ever come to marriage contracts here? That is, a one-or-two-year contract, renewable or cancelable at the end of that period without the expense and hassle of divorce?

Are you two in favor? — NEW WAYS

N.W.:

Yes, I'm in favor. But I doubt that marriage rules will change radically, at least on the books.

Since the undecided are now by-passing the formal contract in favor of a "live together until we're sure" arrangement, they'll ask, "Why pass a law to accept what is already accepted practice?"

. . .Pity. — HELEN

NEW WAYS:

No, I'm NOT in favor.

If you look on marriage as temporary, it probably will be temporary. Why make failure easier? — SUE

P.S. A temporary contract may be cheaper to break, but it often isn't any easier. People hardly ever fall out of love at the same time.

DEAR RAP:

I met this 30-year-old guy at a gas station. He is the manager and gives me free gas and oil. He told me he wasn't married, but I've seen a woman with three kids who picks him up at night. She didn't kiss him like a sister. When I asked him about her, he said she was sort of his landlady temporarily, but that if I'd go with him, he'd get another apartment.

We went out a few times before I heard he has four children by his divorced wife, so he can't get married because of child support payments.

He's still living with his "land-lady" because "it's cheaper." Sometimes he borrows money from me, but at least he furnishes gas and oil when we go out in my car. And he keeps my tires pumped up, battery filled, etc.

Am I dumb to be falling in love with him? — NAIVE AT 19

NAIVE:

. . .Probably.

Besides free gas, what are you getting but "the old oil," and a lot of air? — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR RAP:

I know my mother is having an affair, but I don't have the courage to tell anyone about it.

This man comes to visit us when dad isn't home. He always pretends he's sorry he missed dad and goes on about what good friends they are, but the way he and mom act together is a dead giveaway.

Dad is very trusting. He travels a lot, so there's a clear field.

When this other man is visiting, I get sent to bed at 10 p.m. and I'm 15! What should I do? — HELPLESS IN THE MATTER

DEAR HELPLESS:

Talk to your mother straight. Tell her you can't stand being an "accomplice," and you hate pretending. You probably can't stop the affair, but at least you won't feel dishonest about it anymore. — HELEN

HELPLESS:

It's really crazy how so often parents think their teen-age children are blind, deaf and dumb. If your mother finds out you aren't, it may shake her back into faithfulness again. — SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer — c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

BECAUSE OF her close association with Anne Armstrong, counselor to the president for women's activities, Nola Smith Haerle of Tiburon was not too surprised to learn of Mrs. Armstrong's resignation. During a visit to Washington, D. C., in October, Mrs. Haerle found Mrs. Armstrong deeply concerned about the illness of her mother.

While his wife had attended to her cabinet level duties at the White House, Tobin Armstrong remained at the Armstrong Ranch in Armstrong, Tex. Four years of long distance commuting for the couple was becoming burdensome, Mrs. Haerle said.

Mrs. Haerle resigned her position as staff assistant to former President Richard Nixon for executive recruitment of qualified women for high level adminsitration positions last summer when she was married to Paul Haerle.

Burke and his wife, Betty, live at 211 San Felipe Way, Novato.

Water Issue On Agenda

Marin Municipal Water District directors on Wednesday again will consider the Golden Gate Bridge District's request for water service to its planned Larkspur Ferry Terminal.

The bridge district is seeking a variance to permit a new service under Marin Municipal's moratorium on new connections.

After a heated discussion between officials of both districts last month, the water district board postponed action on a variance request and told the bridge district to submit a plan which would require less water than the terminal plan originally proposed.

Marin Municipal directors will meet at 10 a.m. at the district office, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera.

Search Goes On For Freighter

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — The search for the missing freighter Geranium and her 28 Taiwanese crewmen centered yesterday about 250 miles southwest of Adak, where a lifeboat and two rafts from the ship were found empty.

The Coast Guard said Thursday's discovery touched off hope at least some of the crewemen were still alive in another lifeboat and rafts carried by the ship when it left Port Angeles, Wash., on Nov. 25.

The 508-foot freighter, carrying logs and scrap steel to Japan, was last heard from on Nov. 24, when it reported it was just south of the western Aleutian Islands.

Reentry Plans

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soyuz 16 cosmonauts now in their sixth day of flight tests for next summer's Soviet-American space linkup began preparations for returning to earth, the Tass news agency said today.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Saturday, Dec. 7, the 341st day of 1974 with 24 to follow. This is Pearl Harbor Day.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

American novelist Willa Cather was born Dec. 7, 1876.

On this day in history:

In 1787, Delaware became the first state to ratify the United States Constitution.

In 1931, President Herbert Hoover refused to see a group of so-called "hunger marchers" at the White House.

In 1941, Japan launched a sneak attack on the United States at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii. Japanese air and sea attacks spread to the Philippines, as well as Wake and Guam Islands . . . and the United States was catapulted into World War II.

In 1971, the United States, having cut off economic aid to India, charged that country with attacking Pakistan without justification.

A thought for the day: Commenting on U.S. entry into World War II, President Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "Never before have we had so little time in which to do so much."

◇ A J 6 3
♣ J 4 2

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	3 NT	All Pass

Opening lead — ♠ 6

WEST OPENS

West opened the six of spades, and declarer put up dummy's jack. East covered with the queen of spades, and South shrewdly refused the trick.

It was a sound idea. If South wins the first spade trick and tries the club finesse he is beaten by a spade lead through the ten. East gets the king of clubls, and West gets four spade tricks.

RETURNS SPADE

East held the first trick with the queen of spades and returned the nine of spades. South swiftly put in the king, and West found himself playing the ace of spades before he knew which end was up.

If West had stopped to think he would have known that South had the ten of spades. If East held the ten as well as the nine of spades, he would have returned the ten.

The fact remains that South played his king very swiftly. This panicked West into taking the ace as a sort of reflex, much as one automatically yanks back if somebody tries to snatch something away.

The defense ended at the second trick. South could afford to take the club finesse, for there was no longer a threat.

West would defeat the contract if he refused the second trick. East would later win a club trick and return his last spade.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, bids one spade. Partner doubles, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A 8 7 6 2
♥ - 5 4
♦ - 10 9 8
♣ - 6 5 3

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

You need very strong spades to consider passing for penalties. Respond in your cheapest 3-card suit when you have no longer unbid suit.

Guitarist Slates Recital Tonight

Classical guitarist Tim Lawler will present a free recital at 8 p.m. today at Community Congregational Church in Tiburon.

Lawler, a student of George Sakellariou at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, will present music by Ponce, Albeniz and J. S. Bach.

A Miner's Signs Proclaim Faith

By MARIA BRADEN

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP) — Along the highways and back roads are thousands of crosses and signs proclaiming "Get Right With God" and "Jesus Saves."

It's the lifetime work of one man — a former coal miner from Eastern Kentucky, whose signs stand in all 50 states and 82 foreign nations and provinces.

"People tell me they think it's a company that does it or somebody hired to put up them signs," said H. Harrison Mayes, an elfin man who's been spreading the Lord's word for more than 50 years.

As a young man Mayes was severely injured in a rock fall in the mine. Doctors said he would die but Mayes believes the Lord saved him, so "I figured I would devote the rest of my life to warning others to follow his word."

Mayes erects most of his signs along interstate highways because "it's where the masses travel."

He knows the laws limiting advertising on highways, but doesn't always abide by the rules and regulations. "It's all trespassing," he acknowledged, "but you can't get anywhere if you ask — it doesn't do any good."

Mayes tries to put the signs on right-of-ways, but has occasionally strayed onto private property. He has had a few runins with angry property owners, but said he has managed to talk his way out of the scrapes.

People are leery of religious signs because "religion has a different feel to it," he said.

"People don't like the idea for a dozen reasons."

A major stumbling block for most people is the fact that Mayes doesn't belong to a church or a religious denomination. A larger obstacle is that he doesn't pay to erect his signs.

"One guy told me to take my sign down — that he could get $300 for a sign like that on his property," Mayes said.

The design and size of the signs has changed over the years.

In 1917 Mayes began painting messages on the rocks in the mountains near his home. Later he began making small wooden signs, then started producing crosses made of concrete poured into wooden molds that he built himself.

Each cross weighs about 1,400 pounds.

Mayes has since turned to the construction of aluminum signs on wooden frames, which are durable but much lighter. He said a truck can carry about 75 of the new lightweight signs, compared to only about four to six of the concrete crosses.

Mayes manufactures about 100 signs a year in a workshop at the rear of his house, which is built in the shape of a cross.

The door of his cluttered office, where he keeps files on all the signs he has erected, is marked "Hub Nub's Theological Seminary."

When the signs are ready Mayes hires a truck and driver and they begin a cross-country trek to place the signs.

Mayes also paints messages on oil cloth and mails them to missionary groups around the world. Most he prints in English, but he has obliged requests for signs in Japanese and Spanish.

Mayes' wife, Lillie, is responsible for another side of the operations — messages in whiskey bottles dropped into the sea. The half-pints contain cards printed in 16 languages, including Chinese, advising the finder to "Prepare to Meet God."

Baptists To Present A Cantata

A cantata "There'll Always Be a Christmas" will be presented at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the First Baptist Church of San Rafael.

It was written and arranged by Frank L. Cross and John M. Rasley around the theme of God's love for all and the birth of his son, Jesus Christ.

The cantata was directed by John Tolar and narrated by Dr. Clayton K. Harrop.

The soloists will be: Mrs. Fred L. Fisher and Mrs. John Tolar, sopranos; Mrs. Clayton K. Harrop, alto and Charles Findley and Jerry Lanford, tenors.

Other special singers will be Mrs. John Woodle, Mrs. Keith Bradley and George H. Ennis. Mrs. Jerry Lanford will be accompanist.

GUEST — Larry Pates, Assemblies of God missionary to Bangladesh, will be the guest speaker at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Assembly of God at 1675 Grand Avenue, San Rafael. Pate has held pastorates in Oklahoma and California.

Orthodox Church Slates Breakfast

The annual pledge breakfast and choir day appreciation celebration of the Greek Orthodox Church will be held at 1 a.m., Dec. 15 in the Alvarado Inn in the Ignacio section of Novato.

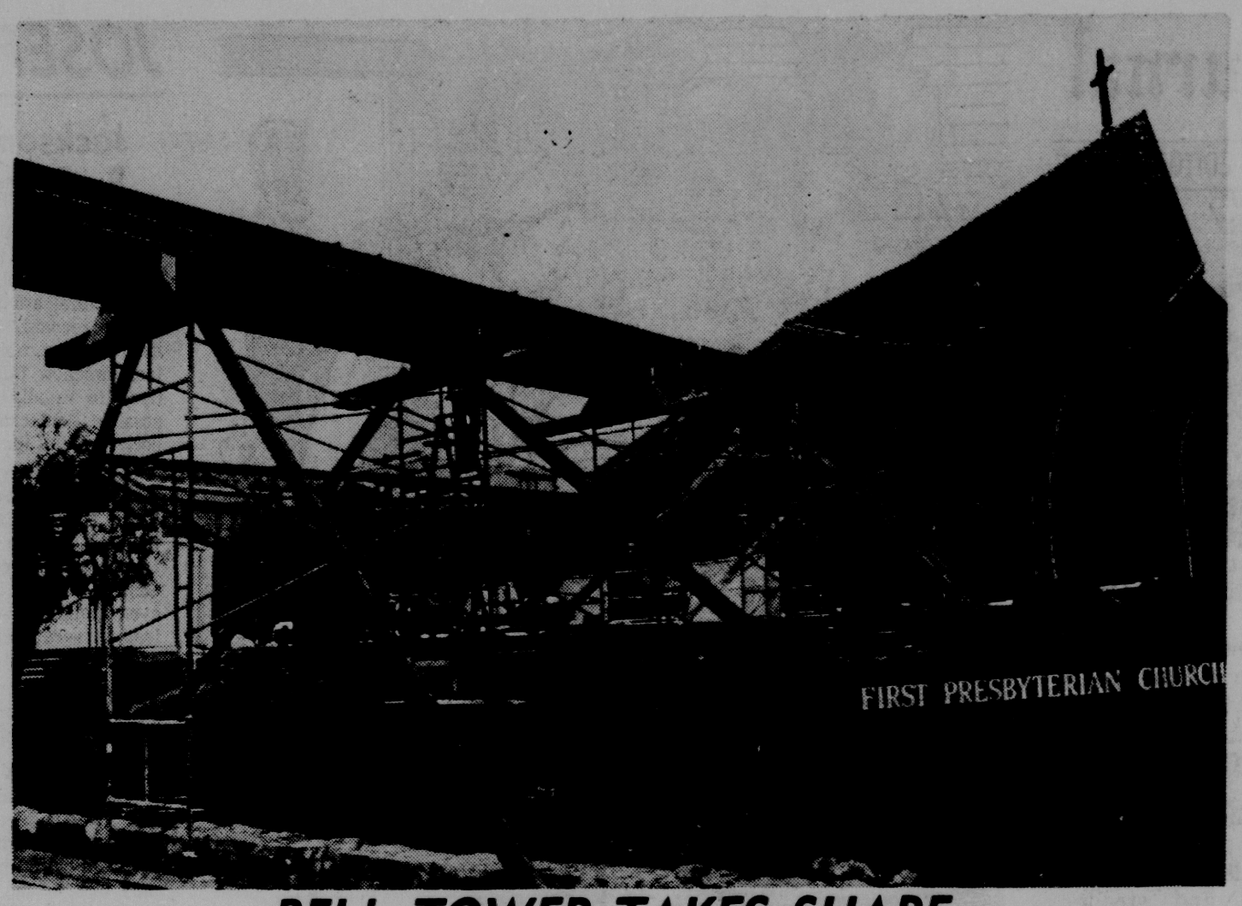
Immediately after the liturgical service the women of the Acapella choir will be honored for their music.

Women to be honored this year are: Mrs. Stanley Sarganis of Novato, choir director; Mrs. Stella Mamalakis of Ross; Mrs. John Papadopoulos of Napa; Mrs. Charles Parnell of Lucas Valley; Mrs. Forrest Morphew of Tiburon; Mrs. Isidore Natsios of Tiburon; Mrs. Ginny Mitsios of San Rafael; Mrs. Kosta Stathis of Terra Linda; Mrs. Spiro Halikas of Novato; Mrs. Victor Gavallos of San Rafael and Mrs. Harvey Eichner of Novato.

Advent Festival Due In Tiburon

The eighth annual advent festival of the Community Congregational Church of Tiburon will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. tomorrow at the church at the top of Rock Hill Drive.

The church and Christmas tree will be decorated. Each family should bring a plate of Christmas cookies. There will be a Wassail bowl. After the tree is decorated, those attending will sing Christmas carols and other Christmas songs.



BELL TOWER TAKES SHAPE

Persons passing the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael usually guess that the huge steel tower which is taking form on the church lawn will be a tall cross. When completed, however, it will be a free-standing bell tower to hold the 10 bells of the church. The bells are being equipped with electrically operated clappers so that they may be operated from the organ inside.

SPEAKER — Rev. Paul C. Schoch, general manager of KVOF Channel 38, the Christian television station, will speak at the Marin Day of Renewal of the inter-church renewal ministry from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. next Saturday at the San Rafael Improvement Club at Fifth and H streets. He will talk about behind the scenes activities of the television station. Rev. David P. Kast, student body president at the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary in Strawberry, also will speak.

Pilgrimage Is Scheduled

A Holy Year pilgrimage will be held by members of St. Rita's parish in Fairfax at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at Mission San Rafael.

Mass will be celebrated by Rev. John Heaney, assisted by Rev. James Halligan.

During past Holy Years, pilgrimages could be made only to Rome. Pope Paul VI has extended the program so that Catholics from all over the world could receive the same graces by making pilgrimages to the cathedral of the diocese or to certain local churches designated by the archbishop.

Things Look For United Church Of Christ: McLean

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

For years, the United Church of Christ has been the epitome of the liberal mainline denomination: increased attention, especially by the national offices and agencies, to social activism with a consequent decline in membership.

For half a decade now the accepted wisdom has been that social and political activism on the part of the national church inevitably leads to a decline in membership and giving at the grass roots level. For awhile, the statistics were there to make that case.

Recently, however, the statistics on giving have begun to show something else — that members who stuck with the church, giving at least silent assent to the activism, are now digging deeper into their pocketbooks to support their denominations.

Now, the Rev. J. Alan McLean, secretary for evangelism of the UCC's Board for Homeland Ministries, thinks there can be a turn around of the membership decline and the church's evangelization effort.

The first thing to note about McLean's belief is that he doesn't believe that change is going to come from either him or his board.

It is the grass roots — congregations and individuals — that are the key. McLean does not see the national church providing a nationwide pattern for all churches to follow but rather it will provide training of a cadre of "evangelism consultants," clergy and laity excited about the possibilities of evangelism in their local communities.

"Evangelism is not the result of clever salesmanship or ingenious techniques," he said in an interview. "It is the Christian's response to the spiritual hungers of society."

"We define evangelism pretty straightforwardly as getting out with the story, a freeing story that relates one to Jesus Christ as Lord, to the church as a servant community and to the neighbor in need," he said.

According to McLean, the national church is beginning to see "a genuine sense of vision, excitement and possibility among grass roots churches.

Gabriel Fackre, professor of theology at Andover Newton Theological School, has provided much of the theological underpinnings for the UCC effort.

Pastors' Bible Clinic Set At Theological Seminary

Church leaders from several Western States will attend the annual Pastor's Bible Study Clinic Friday and Saturday at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Strawberry.

This year a program for youth leaders has been added to the clinic. Youth leaders from Bay Area churches will join the pastors in the clinic which is designed to prepare church Bible teachers for the demonination's January Bible study.

Rhea McKinney, consultant in youth work for the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, will lead the sessions for youth leaders.

Faculty members on the program include Dr. Nobel D. Brown, director of admissions and student concerns; Dr. William A. Carleton, dean emeritus; Dr. Richard C. Cunningham, associate professor of systematic theology and philosophy of religion; Dr. J. Kenneth Eakins, associate professor of archaeology and Old Testament interpretation; Dr. Fred L. Fisher, professor of New Testament interpretations; Dr. Harold K. Graves, seminary president; Dr. Clayton K. Harrop, professor of New Testament interpretation and Dr. John H. Parrott, associate professor of preaching.

Adult test for the clinic will be "Acts: Working Together in Christ's Mission" by Dr. J. Estill Jones.

The youth text is "God's People: United for Conquest."

There is no registration fee. Handbooks, workbooks, and other materials are available at the Baptist Book Store on the campus.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

Thanksgiving Fast Donations At $800

Three Marin churches have realized $800 from a Thanksgiving week plea to their members to give up one meal and donate the money to help feed the world's starving.

The money was collected at a Thanksgiving Day ecumenical service at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo which Rev. John O. Najarian, the church's pastor, said today was "an outstanding success with more than 600 attending the service."

Other churches participating in the fast plea were St. John's Episcopal Church of Ross and St. Anselm's Catholic Church of San Anselmo.

Najarian said the money would be divided equally among the three denominations: the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief (Episcopal), the Bishop's Relief Fund (Catholic) and One Great Hour of Sharing (Presbyterian).

The project was spurred by the recent United Nations Conference on Food in Rome.

MEDITATION

The Episcopal Bishop's monthly meditation for December will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. John's Episcopal Church, Ross.

The evening will start with a meditation which will be followed by an hour of silence and will close with a short meditation by the bishop and prayers at 9:15 p.m.

Vicar To Make Solemn Vows On Thursday

Rev. David Mercer Schofield, vicar of St. Columba's Episcopal Church in Inverness, will make his solemn life vows at 3 p.m., Thursday in the Chapel of All Saints Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley.

Schofield has been taking his vows annually for the past 11 years in the Order of the Holy Cross. After 10 years, he is eligible to take his vows of celibacy for life in the Episcopal Church.

He will take them before the Father Superior Order of the Holy Cross in the presence of the Bishop of California on the Feast of Our Lady of Guadalupe on the 90th celebration of the founding of the order.

He will continue to be the vicar of St. Columba's Church and retreat master.

Yes, it does. Because the healing Principle taught and practiced by Christ Jesus can apply to anyone at any time. New proofs of its healing power occur every day.
Healing in Christian Science means much more than physical release. It means a victory over fear. A clearer understanding of God, and of yourself.
You're invited to learn more at our Sunday service. The Bible Lesson you'll hear will explain more of how Christian Science heals.

The Editor's Notebook

Redevelopment Can Look Far Ahead

INTERESTED CITIZENS got their first opportunity to examine the multitude of proposals embodied in San Rafael redevelopment plans just one month ago, Nov. 7.

At that time, the city council set Nov. 20 as the time for decision among the multitude of choices. That deadline subsequently was extended until next Monday night, Dec. 9.

If the plan is to mean more to the city than just another expensive consultant's report gathering dust in archive storage, it would seem to deserve longer, more careful study before final choices are made.

Each of four "alternate" sketch plans offered by the consultants contains a variety of proposals for land use, open space, bike routes, parkways, transportation systems and much more.

"Alternate III" seems to envision "unfilling" some former marshland near San Rafael Canal and providing expanded tidal basins (which could help alleviate flood problems) as well as providing additional yacht basins.

Each of the alternates calls for a waterfront strip park along the bay front, extending all the way from San Quentin Road (Highway 17) to the mouth of San Rafael Canal (the farthest end of Canal Street).

The council, in choosing among the alternates, will be deciding whether San Rafael is to concentrate on a big new regional shopping center, which must be at the expense of the present downtown area, or whether San Rafael is to concentrate on revitalizing the downtown and redeveloping it so as to enhance it and insure its future.

Obviously such decisions, if made hastily without extensive public hearings and input, could result in debacle.

On the other hand, we should not be timid about making significant and radical changes, if after extended sober consideration — they appear wise.

NEARLY 250 YEARS ago the town fathers of Salamanca, Spain, courageously decided that the very heart of their downtown area, Plaza Mayor, was not what it could be.

They resolve to make it what it could be.

Today it is one of the finest town squares in all the world, comparing with St. Mark's in Venice, the Zocalo in Mexico City and the Registan in Samarkand.

The outstanding architectural feature of Salamanca's Plaza Mayor is its endless arcade. Its sidewalk cafes and strollers bring it a human warmth that other great plazas lack.

TODAY'S PLAZA MAJOR is the result of a courageous redevelopment project begun more than 200 years ago.

The plaza was already old then, surrounded by an odd assortment of buildings presenting an architectural hodge-podge.

The city fathers embarked on a planned program of front remodeling which when complete, made Plaza Mayor work renowned.

The task took 70 years.

That meant no city father who envisioned it and helped to get it started lived to see it completed.

SAN RAFAEL OBSERVED its centennial this year.

If we set our minds to it, we could begin now to prepare now for the bicentennial in 2074.

A public park extending along the bay front, "unfilling" of some long-filled former marshlands, elimination of non-water oriented land use along the canal, realigning streets so as to make East San Rafael one with the downtown, redeveloping the downtown into a pleasant place to stroll, shop, dine — all these things can be done on any scale we wish to do them if only we commit ourselves to do them and are willing to work at our commitment for as long as it takes (and as long as it may take our children and grandchildren).

Salamanca's experience indicates that's a good way to go.

More About Broom

With the cost of living ever rising, it is of more than usual interest to learn of things in nature that are edible. Most of the broom that grows wild in Marin is a member of the pea family and has pea-like pods in which it bears its seeds. The pods are said to be poisonous, but the bean-like seeds can be roasted and ground and make a satisfactory substitute for coffee. They should be gathered in mid-summer before they start popping. When they begin blooming several months from now, we can locate the plants so we can find them easier when their seeds ripen.

'Old Galaxy'

Thirteen astronomers from six institutions of higher learning simultaneously announced the discovery of billions and billions of gallons of ethyl alcohol in very thin vapor form in outer space near the center of our galaxy. Smithsonian Magazine suggests, "Perhaps, with public enthusiasm for space exploration hereby revived, a consortium of U.S. distillers will join up with NASA and eventually place on the market bottles of Old Galaxy (aged for millions of years)." This is an improvement over the days when we thought outer space was filled with ether.

Wildlife Requires Habitat

Marinites are increasingly aware of our county's diminishing variety of wildlife. We have lots of deer, raccoons and skunks, but the numbers of rabbits, chipmunks, forest mice and owls have gone down, at least in our neighborhood. One reason is the explosion of the cat population. But an even greater danger to our wildlife in the long run is ever-increasing houses, lawns, roads, and the sterile neatness of a larger population. Most people do not care for the underbrush that houses much of our wildlife.

Perhaps the solution for Marin and Sonoma might be to discipline the underbrush into hedgerows, as in England and other European countries. They provide a wide variety of birds and animals with homes all over Europe.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Foreign Arms Sales And Jar Lid Shortage

An article in the I-J, Oct. 31, disclosed the fact that eight (8) billion dollars of foreign arms sales were made in 1973.

Among so many other things, it is no wonder that canning lids are so hard to obtain, but it is realized that this market must be maintained to stave off bread lines and soup kitchens.

The rest of the world must be made to realize:

There are some hard times coming,
The likes you have never seen;
"WIN — it is better to bite the bullet

Withdrawal Symptoms Produce A Question

Kicking the sugar habit (a sort of warm-up to kicking the eating habit) has produced some withdrawal symtpoms which may account for the following question and observation:

Would it possibly be more consonant with the spirit of Free Capitalistic Enterprise, and incidentally better for most of us, if we UN-tilted the legal pinball machine to make it easier for 3,000 people to be mere millionaires with the same money it takes to make one TRI-billionaire (like maybe the newly-late H. L. Hunt)?

Viewing the current economic scene from my new austerity I conclude that historical analogy proves conclusively that we are in a phase of the cycle somewhere this side of the corner some future phase is just around. I hope this clears things up.

A job well done!

We wish to express our greetings to all your staff for the excellent coverage which you give each day in your paper. We especially appreciated I-J photographer Arn for the most unusual and startling photograph of Mission San Rafael (Nov. 30) which depicted St. Raphael's Church reflected in the windows of the new Courthouse Square and captioned, "No bars around the House of God" — truly a most impressive work of art.

Please also give credit to our faithful newspaper boy, Don Posner, Route 540, always so courteous, businesslike and prompt.

For Latest Thing In Fashions, Patronize The Salvation Army

WASHINGTON — There is good news in the fashion world. If you really want to be a well-dressed woman this year, you can either go to Dior, Halston, Givenchy, Cardin, Bill Blass or Goodwill Industries.

If you don't find what you want at Saks Fifth Avenue, I recommend the Salvation Army. What was going through the minds of the fashion designers this year is anybody's guess, but ugly is now beautiful.

I'm not certain how all these great minds arrived at the same tawdry clothes, but if they don't sell this year you can't blame it on the recession. In the best of times no woman in her right mind would spend $350 for a dress when there is one exactly like it in her grandmother's trunk.

I AM SPEAKING from personal experience. The other day my wife came home with a box. In it was a dress I had seen in "War and Peace" (the war part), a hat from "Bonnie and Clyde," and boots that were worn in "Doctor Zhivago."

After she put them on she said, "What do you think?"

"Don't tell me. You got a job as a scrubwoman at the Pentagon."

"This," she said haughtily," is 'the droop look.' It is a la mode for the winter."

"You could have fooled me. Are you sure the Russians aren't paying us back in clothes for all the wheat they bought from us?"

"I DON'T EXPECT you to understand the fashion. The designers are sending us a message."

"The same one we sent Custer?"

"There is no sense in being surly about it. If you don't like the outfit, just tell me."

"It's fine, except that they forgot to sew the hem. It's down to your calves."

"That's where the hem is supposed to be."

"Well, your boots are falling down."

"They're not falling down. They're rumpled. They're squashed boots. They're supposed to look that way. You see, the shoe designers, when they heard the length of the skirt was going down so far, had to come up with a boot that would meet it. A regular boot would have gone to my knee. This one looks like it's falling, but it isn't."

"BULLY FOR THE BOOT people! Would you like to tell me what that long scarf is doing wrapped around your neck?"

"It goes with the dress. If I didn't have the scarf, you could see my blouse."

"What's wrong with your blouse?"

"Nothing's wrong with my blouse. But Paris and Seventh Avenue want us to wear long scarves this winter because it's going to be very cold."

"How did they know that last spring when they designed the clothes?"

"WHAT ABOUT the hat?"

"I like the hat, but I can't see your face."

"You're not supposed to see my face."

"That's good. Hey, you know I've been trying to think who you look like."

"And whom do I look like?"

"Bess Truman — Harry's wife."

"Then I take it you want me to return the outfit?"

"Heavens no. You never can tell when we're going to be invited to an Albanian wedding."

"Well, so much for the latest fashion."

"DON'T GET SORE. I was only kidding. What coat do you wear with it?"

She put on the coat and stood there. I was amazed.

"My God," I said. "Columbo's gone into the fashion business!"

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

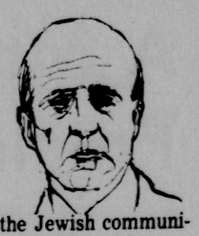
Several thousand Democrats are meeting at Kansas City this weekend. At least half of them can honestly say they're not running for president.

As they headed for Kansas City, most of the Democrats hoped the thrust of their meeting would not be at each other.

After his appearance with the Argentine Firecracker, some fellow congressmen think Wilbur Mills should be banned in Boston.

Mills says he's written a movie script for the Firecracker. Congressman meets girl. Girl jumps in Tidal Basin. Girl gets wet, Congressman gets re-elected, voters get what they deserve.

JOSEPH C. HARSCH



Jackson Puts Self In Front By Program To Cut Oil Prices

Back during the 1968 prenomination campaign, Sen. Henry M. Jackson and his friends complained of not being able to get public attention. Jackson, although widely recognized in the Senate as a hard-working, able, and effective legislator, somehow failed to rouse public notice. He usually showed in the polls of possible Democrats down at or near the bottom end of the list.

The story today, in the wake of the 1974 midterm election, is something else again. Senator Jackson does not lead all the polls. George Wallace is leading other Democrats in popularity sampling. But Senator Jackson is always near the top in every poll, and always mentioned in the lead paragraph of any analysis of Democratic possibilities.

He is the man most consistently included as a major contender for the honor, or burden, of leading the Democrats in 1976.

THE REASON IS that he is now in privileged and almost exclusive possession for the second time of a highly popular issue, which is likely to become more so with the passing months and may well be the only good vehicle to a nomination in 1976.

His first successful seizure of what became a popular and winning issue came with his challenge to Secy. of State Henry Kissinger over the price to be paid for the detente with the Soviet Union. Dr. Kissinger argued that detente is the first priority of U.S. foreign policy and must not be risked by making it conditional on the relaxation of Soviet policy on Jewish emigration.

Senator Jackson argued back that detente is more valuable to the Russians than to the U.S. and that they ought to pay a higher price for it. Besides, their treatment of minorities was a scandal calling for every possible form of protest.

Senator Jackson won out. The Russians did in fact make concessions on Jewish emigration which astonished many an old-time Kremlin watcher. It was an enormous diplomatic victory, which won praise for the Senator throughout Washington and the country. He had proved himself a shrewder judge of the Russians than Dr. Kissinger. He won by it the eternal gratitude of the Jewish community.

NOW HE IS RIDING another issue of even broader popular appeal. He was the first prominent political figure to start after the oil companies when oil prices started mounting with the Arab boycott of last winter. He has been after them ever since, calling attention to the enormous profits the oil companies have been making out of the rise in prices and also to the companion fact that there has been no necessary reason why American oil producers should be enjoying the new prices fixed arbitrarily by the foreign oil producers. American oil production costs have not gone up by five times. In the Jackson scheme of things there is no reason why Arab oil sheikhs should fix the price of domestic American oil.

He has gone a step further and worked out a coherent plan of action to protect the American consumer from the enormous danger of another oil boycott. He is calling on the governments of all the oil-importing countries to do what is probably the only practical thing they can do to regain bargaining leverage with the oil-producing companies. He proposes "a tough program to limit demand through mandatory energy conservation." He means that if all oil-consuming countries cut back their imports by, say, 20 per cent, the oil suppliers would find themselves with unsold oil in their tanks, and in trouble. It would mean real leverage in negotiating oil prices.

He would, of course, couple this with "an immediate, no-nonsense expansion" of production of other sources of energy.

But the important thing is that he is the leader among today's prominent American political figures in urging practical steps to free the West from dangerous dependency on imported oil. It's his issue. He was there first. He is in the lead in thinking and doing something about it. He has thus established himself as a political figure with an unusual ability to sense and seize the future issues before others sense them. It is a powerful advantage. It makes him the most serious Democratic contender of the moment.

Makarios' Return Won't Hasten Cyprus Settlement

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Archbishop Makarios' scheduled return to Cyprus seems certain to postpone into the indefinite future any chance for a peaceful settlement of the bitter dispute dividing its Greek and Turkish inhabitants.

Turkey, whose troops control about 40 per cent of the island, does not trust him and already has announced it will not negotiate with him.

On his part, Makarios, ousted as president in a military coup last July 15, has declared his willingness to grant Turkish Cypriots the right of self-government but under conditions already declared unacceptable to the Turks.

In addition to failing to recognize the military realities on the island, there also is a suspicion the archbishop may be endangering his own life by underestimating the determination of the right-wing Greeks who sought his ouster in the first place.

TURKISH OCCUPATION of the northern portion of Cyprus has left close to 200,000 embittered refugees.

Among them are said to be gunmen trained in the Troodos mountains to carry on guerrilla warfare, not only against the Turks but dedicated also to the destruction of Makarios.

Makarios, Cyprus' only elected president since independence in 1960, fled the island after a coup supported by the then military government of Greece. Coup leaders were supporters of union of Cyprus with Greece.

Turkey promptly intervened on grounds the agreement giving Cyprus its independence also gave Turkey the right to protect the island's Turkish minority.

In Greece, the discredited government fell and Constantine Caramanlis returned from self-imposed exile to take over as prime minister. Caramanlis has proved unwilling to squander his political goodwill on Cyprus and has said the future must be determined by the Cypriots themselves.

WHICH BRINGS US to the present and the role to be played by Makarios.

The Turks are demanding a federation involving a population exchange and a weak central government which would have nominal control over two strong regional administrations.

Makarios has rejected the idea of a population exchange, which he has said would be both "artificial and inhuman." He has said he is willing to discuss a "multi-regional federation" under which Turkish communities scattered throughout the island would have home rule.

The suggestion bears some resemblance to the terms by which Cyprus achieved independence in 1960, which also dictated that Cyprus have a Greek Cypirot as president and a Turkish Cypriot as vice president.

The Turks charge that Makarios never lived up to its terms.

Complicating the Cypriot situation are a political crisis in Turkey and two deadlines — the approach of winter, threatening widespread suffering among refugees, and a Dec. 10 cut-off date for U.S. aid to Turkey unless substantial progress is being made toward a Cypriot peace.

SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1974

Sierra Ski Resorts Beckon Marinites

By RON LENT

"More in store for '74."

That should be the motto for Marin County skiers as they prepare to visit the Northern California, Oregon and Nevada resort areas.

The facilities outlook is indeed promising. Let us examine the operations alphabetically.

ALPINE MEADOWS

The Tahoe City project will be open through May. Elevation is 6,900 to 8,600 feet with 2,000 acres of open bowls and mountain glides.

Eight double chairlifts, four pomas, and a T-Bar are available. There is parking for 2,000 cars. Nastar races will be held on Wednesdays and Sundays. Day care for children, ages two through eight, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. Cross country lessons; groomed slopes and double chairlift for beginners are other enticements.

Ski school director is Werner Schuster. There are 90 instructors.

BADGER PASS

The Yosemite National Park facility is open until April 8. Its elevation is 7,000 to 8,000 feet. Ten miles of trails with 3,500 foot run, 900 vertical feet are there. Facilities include: two new double chairlifts (three in all); two T-bars; parking for 600 cars numerous touring trails; touring equipment for rent; ice skating, and child care.

Nic Fiore is the school director; he has 30 instructors.

BEAR VALLEY

It is located 30 miles from Arnold and is open until Easter. Elevation is 6,400 to 8,500 feet. There are six chairlifts to 3,300 feet; a poma; 700 acres of terrain; 30 miles of runs.

Other standards are ski touring trails and equipment plus weekend and holiday child care.

BOREAL RIDGE

The Truckee layout is open until mid-April. It has an elevation of 7,200 to 7,800 feet with unlimited terrain.

Six double chairlifts, two T-Bars; parking for 1,500 cars, ski jumps, night skiing Wednesdays through Sundays; child care nearby; and special ski school for children.

Larry Wolf and John Hoffman are ski school co-directors. There are 50 instructors.

CALAVERAS BIG TREES

The small area is located three miles from Arnold. It offers cross country tours on weekends and snowshoe hikes. Parking is limited to 175 cars.

CEDAR PASS

It is found 15 miles from Alturas. It is open weekends and holidays, Dec. 15 to April 1. Elevation is 6,000 to 6,600 feet. One rope tow, three runs and touring trails are available.

CHINA PEAK

Located 18 miles from Shaver Lake, 65 miles from Fresno at Lakeshore. It is open through April. The area is characterized by: 7,000 to 8,000 feet of elevation; and 12 miles of terrain; 15 trails.

There are three double chairlifts, two T-bars, two rope tows; parking for 550 cars; ski touring; groomed trails; child care facilities; and rentals. Thre are 30 instructors with Phil Kerridge the ski school director.

COTTAGE SPRINGS

Located in Calaveras County on Ebbetts Pass, seven miles from Big Trees State Park.

It has a chairlift, platter, rope tows and toboggan area.

DODGE RIDGE

Located at Long Barn, 33 miles from Sonora, and in its 25th year, the facility is open until April 15. Elevation is 6,600 to 7,725 feet. It has extensive terrain, trails, slopes, six chairlifts, six rope tows; a new Thiokol snowpacker; refurbished buildings; parking for 2,500 cars, tours, nearby ice skating, NASTAR races on weekends and child care.

Ray Patton is the ski school director, assisted by George Kinney. There are 30 instructors.

DONNER SKI RANCH

Located at Norden, 10 miles west of Truckee on old Donner Pass road. It is open until mid-April. Elevation is 7,175 to 7,960 feet. There are five miles of runs.

Accommodations include: double chairlift, two Pomas, one rope tow; parking for 100 cars; nearby snowplay area;

LONG BEFORE THE coming of winter, many Marinites begin to get that restless feeling that precedes the start of the ski season. Skis and other gear come out, to be readied for the sport ahead. Then, in the High Sierra, the white stuff begins to fall and to collect. And the exodus begins, with hundreds of Marinites heading for the mountains and for fun in the snow. Each year the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine salutes the start of the winter sports season with a special edition. And this is that 1974-75 salute. The photo above was taken by Dr. Frank H. Howard who specializes in training his cameras upon ski action and snow scenes.

In The Bay Area, Skiing Is As Much A Social Activity As It Is Athletic

By DAVID EINSTEIN

To the average skier, the company he keeps is as important as the bindings he wears.

Making a new friend is as exciting as that first trip down a slope. And boasting about a new technique can be as satisfying as doing it.

In short, skiing is as social as it is athletic, and its rapidly growing popularity has been accompanied in recent years by a flowering of instructional and recreational clubs.

In the Bay Area alone can be found some 30 clubs, and no fewer than eight are located right in Marin County. Of those, the Marin, Marinwood and Chosen Frozen clubs tend more toward recreation, while the larger Huski, Blizzard and Mogul organizations concentrate largely on teaching.

The Belvedere Ski club falls in between offering some of both.

THE MARIN SKI Club is the oldest club of its kind in California, dating back more than a quarter century.

It owns and operates on a year-round basis a lodge at Soda Springs on Donner Summit. The lodge can accommodate about one half of the club's membership, which stands at around 75. The club has offices in San Rafael, and Barry Everget-tis is president.

MARINWOOD SKI Club, based at the Marinwood Community Center, has some 200 members to whom it offers free instruction by experienced members. The club, now in its 10th year, plans six trips to Boreal Ridge this season, at a cost of $17 per trip for chartered bus and trip insurance.

There are no registration fees or membership dues. Bill Gordon is director.

CHOSEN FROZEN is a club for single adults with a membership of around 70 and membership dues of $25. Every other week beginning today the club will take weekend trips to the Tahoe area, and at Christmas there will be a week-long trip to Sun Valley, Idaho.

Betty Center is activities director for the club, now in its second year.

GREAT LIFE CLUB, founded several years ago by Rev. J. Dale Nystrom of the Lucas Valley Community Church, will not operate this year. Spiraling cost of charter buses and lift tickets is the reason, according to Reverend Nystrom.

Last year the religion-oriented club had about 80 members.

THE BELVEDERE CLUB has a membership of around 200 families, most of them from the Tiburon Peninsula area. The club offers instruction to children and recreational trips to various locations in the Sierra.

Charles and Shirley Pruett of Tiburon are directors of the club.

AMONG THE LARGER, instructional organizations, Blizzard is the biggst, with 15 local clubs from coast to coast. In 13 years of existence, the club has taught more than 30,000 children from eight to 18 how to ski.

Northern California offices for Blizzard are located in San Rafael, and Dick

Marin Shops Stocked For Winter Sports

MARIN MAGAZINE

By WAT TAKESHITA

Ski slopes and snow country in Northern California will be more colorful than ever this year, as shoppers go for brighter colors in boots and bindings, as well as clothing.

That's the report from Marin sports and rental shop operators, who have stocked their shelves with an eye to color and fashions to meet the needs of the entire family, from tots to grandparents.

The ever-popular shorter skis, which are more responsive and easier to handle on turns, have been augmented by a new category of high performance skis that are shorter in length but have all the characteristics of the regular skis. These intermediates are easy to turn and yet are able to "carve" and hold on ice and snow. Also coming into vogue are higher back boots for more strength but with resilience to allow freedom of movement.

Cross country skiing continues to gain in popularity, with older groups joining the young in backpacking into the back country, sloshing along in search of privacy and lure of the wild.

Many of the sports stores in Marin not only sell clothing and equipment but also offer rentals and repair service. The major shops catering to the snow and ski enthusiasts of Marin are scattered throughout the county as follows:

A TO Z RENTAL Center in Mill Valley has moved into its brand new building at 145 Lomita Drive, near Red Cart Market. In its new location, which is double the size of the former site on Miller Avenue, A To Z Rental has expanded its snow and ski supplies, particularly in cross country equipment, and carries such items as snow shoes, toboggans, tire chains, ski racks and sleds.

ALPINE HOUSE at 1028 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, specializes in cross country gear and mountaineering equipment. It carries all types of supplies for the back country such as down goods, sleeping bags, woolen wear, caps, shirts, and high energy foods.

BATTENS & BOARDS in Sausalito, at Bridgeway and Pine next to Zack's, has a complete ski department offering sale, service and rental of equipment and clothing.

BIG 5 SPORTING GOODS has two shops — at 470 Las Gallinas Avenue in Northgate Shopping Center and at 110 Nellen Avenue in Corte Madera. Big 5 carries a complete line of ski equipment from boots and bindings to clothing and accessories, and offers some repair work.

BIG 4 RENTS at 5750 Paradise Drive in Corte Madera has all types of ski equipment for rent such as skis, poles, chains, racks, powder pants, and accessories. It also sells used skis. Big 4 Rents is open Wednesday and Thursday nights.

EASY RENTALS & SALES at 816 Francisco Boulevard West in San Rafael offers ski rentals, toboggans, snow chains, snow shoes and saucers, powder pants, and sells other accessories such as hats, gloves, goggles and socks.

MARIN SURPLUS STORE at 49 Simms Street in San Rafael stocks a wide variety of items for the snow and cold weather — gloves and mittens, knit caps and scarves, thermal underwear, socks and waterproof boots. Other items include tire chains, highway flares, car top carriers, tarpaulins, stretch cord tiedowns, snowshoes, snow shovels, all kinds of heaters, blankets, sleeping bags, packs, tents, duffle bags, snow saucers, sleds and toboggans, hand warmers, money belts, bota bags and many more. Marin Surplus also has an outlet in Petaluma at 155 North Petaluma Boulvard.

SEARS-ROEBUCK at 900 Northgate Mall in Terra Linda has skis, boots and poles for sale and rental on the first floor sporting goods department. It also offers clothing, hats, sunglasses, and ski carriers.

SEASONS SKI & SPORTS has outlets at 40 Greenfield Avenue in San Anselmo and at 653 East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley, which opened in August. Seasons Ski & Sports shops have complete equipment for sale and rent and provides repair service. The shops feature large children's departments with toboggans, snow saucers, accessories and an expanded clothing line.

ULI SEILER SKI SHOP at 935 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield sells, rents and repairs a complete line of ski and snow equipment. It carries fashions for the entire family, toboggans, ski racks, snow shoes and cross country gear, and also leases equipment for the entire season.

SKIP/SPORTS at 41 Corte Madera Center is one of four new stores established this year in the Bay Area by former executives and employees of Stans' For Sports. Skip/Sports has a separate ski department that offers fashions and ski equipment from poles to boots, snow shoes, clothing and accessories. The shop alos provides expert repairs and rentals. It is managed by a former member of the University of Colorado ski team and the United States Ski Team.

STAN'S FOR SPORTS has stores at Third and Grand in San Rafael, Diablo Avenue and South Novato Boulevard in Novato, and at the Tiburon turnoff near Highway 101 in Strawberry. Stans' provides sales and complete repair of ski outfits and offers a full line of rentals. The shops carry cross country as well as regular skis, snow shoes, and clothing for the whole family — jackets, parkas, pants, sweaters, sleeping bags and other comforts for the snow country.

TETONS WEST MOUNTAIN SHOP at 87 East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley specializes in the sale and rent of cross country ski equipment. It carries wilderness paraphernalia for snow camping and backpacking such as lightweight stoves and high energy dry food. Tetons West also takes bookings for a cross country ski school.

SKIS FOR ALL SIZES and tastes are on stock at Stan's For Sports, which has three outlets in Marin Marin County. At Stan's in San Rafael, salesman Greg Collins, right, selects ski to match outfit modeled by Robin Seymour. Her two-piece ski outfit is warm and comfortable, yet trim and colorful for the fashion-conscious. The shop carries all types of snow gear and apparel, including sleeping bags like the mummy bag in background. Stan's For Sports shops are located in San Rafael, Novato and Strawberry.

EVERYTHING FROM snow clothing to camping gear is available at Marin Surplus Stores in San Rafael and Petaluma. At the San Rafael store, Pat O'Brien (left) outfits Rick Timmerman and Diane Cumings with cold weather gear. She is wearing a wolf trimmed plush pile parka and powder pants, while Timmerman sports a down parka with sweat powder pants. The colorful saucer in front is a snow coaster.

SKIP/SPORTS AT Corte Madera Center has a complete ski department with equipment of all sizes and brands, with experts to help customers make the selections. Here, manager Rex Carson and Patty Wehr check one of the many ski bindings. Carson was a member of the U.S. National Ski Team in 1965-67. Skip/Sports carries ski and snow equipment, clothing and accessories and provides repair and rental service.

The Ski Clubs Go To Snow

Sadler is the director for Marin County. Teaching is done by professionals on regular Saturday trips to Boreal Ridge, Soda Springs and Northstar.

The first trip is set for this weekend to Boreal Ridge.

Membership in the club is $49.50 for the first member of a family, $44.50 for each additional member. That doesn't include bus fare and lift ticket, but it does include instruction for up to 12 trips.

HUSKI, WITH A membership of bout 800, was founded by Ernest and Suzanne Gray of Lucas Valley seven years ago. It offers professional instruction in small classes to children 9 to 18, at either Alpine Meadows or Squaw Valley. Regular Saturday trips to those resorts will commence today.

The cost of a year's membership is $65 for the Alpine Meadows program, $75 for Squaw Valley, not including bus fare and lift tickets.

MOGUL, WITH headquarters in San Anselmo, has more than 1,500 members throughout the Bay Area. Professional instruction is offered to children from 4 to 18, lessons are given during trips to Squaw Valley and Alpine Meadows. The 4 to 8-year-olds are enrolled as "Mogul Midgets."

In addition to 12 one-day trips on Saturdays and Sundays, the club offers 12 overnight trips, plus two week-long journeys. One will be to Salt Lake City, Utah during the Christmas vacation, the other to Sun Valley, Idaho at Easter.

Cost of the Saturday program is $55 to Alpine Meadows, $75 to Squaw Valley. The Sunday program is $40. Bus tickets and lift tickets are not included.

Bob Casey and John Baker of Corte Madera are co-directors for Mogul.

LITTLE SKIERS receive tender loving care from lift attendants and from instructors when they participate in the Mogul Ski Club program at Squaw Valley. The club's "Mogul Midgets" program goes all the way down to 4-year-olds, and has been highly successful.

HUSKI SKI CLUB members are reenacting this same scene today on their first Huski Ski trip this season at Alpine Meadows and Squaw Valley. Pictured above is Alexandra Selby, Huski supervisor from Terra Linda, giving Randy Snyder of Lucas Valley his lift ticket. Huski supervisor Bob Hibbs, a resident of Novato, is recording the exchange while other Marin county Huskis await their turn.

Advice For The Skier Who Totes A Camera

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Skiers planning to take camera equipment to the slopes should load film while in the lodge and, once on the slopes, wear the camera inside a parka next to the body to keep it warm.

These practices are a must because "low temperatures can make camera shutters sluggish, slowing down shutter speeds," said Robert Spangler, consumer affairs director for Honeywell Photographic Products.

SPANGLER SAID spare rolls of film should also be carried inside the skier's parka because film tends to dry out in cold weather and may break when the camera's shutter is advanced.

"Start out with a fully charged fresh battery, since camera batteries also lose efficiency in low temperatures," Spangler added. "Be sure to clean off battery contacts with a pencil eraser as a precautionary measure, just in case there is any corrosion."

When taking a series of photographs that require fast and slow shutter speeds, Spangler recommends shooting the shorter exposures first, before the shutter speeds slow down as the camera becomes colder.

SNOW REFLECTS quite a bit of ultraviolet light, he said, causing a great deal of lens flare. It is impossible to cut out all of it, but Spangler recommends a lens hood to cut flare and minimize condensation on the lens.

Be careful to advance and rewind the film slowly to avoid static markings, he added.

Don't be concerned when moisture condenses on the camera's cold lens when returning to the lodge. Just be certain to wait until that moisture evaporates before taking more pictures, Spangler added.

KGO Radio's Man On Skis

KGO radio has begun its series of ski reports.

Live reports on up-to-the-minute snow, weather and road conditions are delivered by Eric Johnson, billed as the only professional ski instructor featured in Bay Area broadcasting.

Johnson's reports will run Wednesday through Saturday for 17 consecutive weeks, terminating on March 29, 1975.

As in past years, Johnson features direct telephone conversations with area operators in all the major Western ski areas. Complete snow conditions plus updated ski and road reports are covered.

The Snow Phone Is Plugged In For Your Calls

Hughes Airwest plugged in its computerized "snow phone" this week for the nation's ski-minded travelers.

It will provide complete reports on snow conditions at major ski areas in eight of the West's winterland states and in Canada.

Skiers wanting to know the snow conditions at any of 20 prime resort areas may call the nearest Hughes Airwest reservations office after 9:30 a.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

The caller will receive instant up-to-date ski reports from the carrier's high-speed reservations computer, including such items as snow depth, snow type, number of lifts operating and the general condition of the slopes.

The snow phone will operate through March 29.

TOP INSTRUCTORS!

LEARN TO SKI IN 5 DAYS OR LESSONS FREE UNTIL YOU DO!

FINEST FAMILY SKIING IN THE HIGH SIERRA!

It's true! Northstar-at-Tahoe, with some of the High Sierra's finest skiing is THE place to learn. In fact, your GLM lessons are GUARANTEED! GLM (Graduated Length Method) is taught by Northstar's instructors who guarantee beginners will be skiing parallel in five days — or free lessons will be given until parallel skiing is accomplished!

Northstar-at-Tahoe is more than just a great place for beginners — skiing families love Northstar, and this year there are many more good things than ever to delight them. In addition to the always-popular Big Springs Day Lodge, there's a new 'Logger Restaurant' at Northstar Village that's open daily for good food and apres ski fun. Also new is a well-stocked delicatessen for in-between run snacks.

On Northstar's famed 8,620-foot Mt. Pluto there's an added new ski lift — bringing our total to six double chairs and miles of wind sheltered ski runs. Pride and plenty of tender loving care go into the grooming of Northstar's fine ski trails, classed among the very best in North America. And you'll find a wide variety of deluxe accommodations from which to choose.

When you ski the High Sierra, ski Northstar-at-Tahoe — for the greatest skiing vacation of your life!

The Hot Doggers Are Causing Concern Along With Thrills

THE WACKY ANTICS of the freestyle or hot dog skiers include such stunts as these, left to right, the back flip, the spread eagle and the inverted split. While interest in the sport has zoomed, it has also encountered opposition from some safety-minded sources and from those concerned about its impact upon orthodoz ski racing and jumping.

By L. DANA GATLIN

To write with any authority about hot dog skiing you probably should be under 30 and capable of executing a couple of "wheelies" and a "spread eagle" — at least.

I fail both tests, so any observations of what has been termed a new way of life on America's ski mountains — "hot dogging" ("freestyle skiing" for the purists) — may be judged accordingly.

HOT DOG SKIING is an American alpine version of youth's eternal search for freedom, identity, and accomplishment. It has its own language ("getting it on," "boogying" in the moguls, "burned out of the scenery"), a "soul" handshake for the brothers who are "into it," its own philosophy.

Quoting professional hot dogger Scott Brooksbank in Ski Magazine: it is "breaking away from the rules" . . . "rebellious desire."

Bob Theobald calls it "a balance between reality and glory." Wow! Were you ready for that?

The committed hot dogger is pursuing not only birdlike freedom but unmitigated excellence. Nothing less will prove he's the best.

EDDIE FERGUSON, 1973 hot dogger of the year, talks about the challenge of combining several aerial stunts and flips off successive jumps in a single run — a practice which like double flips was banned for safety reasons by the newly founded International Freestyle Skiers Association (IFSA).

"Multiple jumps make it a real contest because it's very had to do two or three jumps and really put it together. Not many people can really do it. Well, maybe only a half dozen or so in the country."

Good skiers have been jumping off cornices for years. But only in recent years have the outer limits and commercial interests come together to forge a new sport.

MARIN MAGAZINE

SKI MOVIES OF veteran aerialists and tricksters like Herman Goellner, Tom LeRoi, Art Furrer, and Ruedi Wyrsch did a lot to make it gel. But perhaps the catalyst was Skiing Magazine's diatribe against the "finished form" concept of the American Technique of the Professional Ski Instructors of America in the late 1960s.

That culminated in the magazine sponsoring the first "hot dog open" at Waterville Valley, N.J., five years ago. The "hottest" skiers in the country were invited, a new car was the booty, and the whole idea was to tear up the mountain — do it all until everybody knows who is the best skier. Rules were for Dullsville and the PSIA.

Hot dogging had come of age, and skiing most likely would never be the same again.

IN THE FIVE years since the new craze — and whatever else it has been, it has been a craze — almost every facet of skiing has felt the impact.

Equipment has changed to meet the demands of freestyle skiing. Junior freestyle programs have mushroomed at ski areas across the country — to the extent that many racing coaches have worried whether their best athlets would go into freestyle rather than racing.

Crowds attending the huge pro freestyle spectacles have far surpassed anything known in American Alpine racing, including the pros. The theme of the ski shows last fall was "a freestyle festival," and the stars were not Spider Sabich and Jean Claude Killy but Wayne Wong and John Clendein.

Last season, besides sanctioned amateur freestyle competitions, there were five major pro events with three commercial sponsors offering a total of over $60,000 in prizes — $35,000 at one of them. A network televised that one.

THE RUSH TO transcend "the rules," however, has brought sobering thoughts and a new perspective. Unfortunately, reform had to be sparked by two tragic injuries at last year's competitions during the aerial portion of the three-part events (stunt ballet or tricks, freestyle on a steep mogul field, and aerial acrobatics on skis).

Now, the freestylers have formed their own organization, formalized rules, and established a system of qualifying meets, which competitors must pass before being allowed to enter contests. The IFSA has at least for the present banned double flips.

And it has placed a new emphasis on perfection of maneuvers rather than degree of difficulty.

Nevertheless, Vail ski area decided last year not to host the World Freestyle Skiing Championships which was scheduled for that resort last March.

Referreing to "widespread concern" expressed by the medical profession and in particular to a suggestion by the Colorado Medical Society, Richard L. Peterson, president of Vail, said:

"As a corporation dedicated to safe, enjoyable skiing for the public, Vail Associates Inc. has decided that freestyle competition involving potentially dangerous flips and other aerial stunts is not consistent with its primary purpose as the operator of a recreational ski area."

Anti-Freeze Has Come A Long Ways

Anti-freeze has come a long ways from the days when motorists relied on alcohol to keep the water in their cars' radiators from freezing.

The problem was that, when the engine got hot, the alcohol boiled away, and with it the motorist's anti-freeze protection.

Today's "permanent" type anti-freeze with ethylene glycol as a base is made for year-round use, and when mixed with an equal amount of water in the car's cooling system, protects against both freezing and overheating by lowering the freezing point and raising the boiling point.

COOLING SYSTEMS in today's cars have to meet the greater heat-producing demands of anti-pollution devices and accessories like air conditioners and automatic transmissions. A mixture of ab out 50 per cent anti-freeze, 50 per cent water allows the coolant temperature to operate well above the normal boiling point of water.

As a matter of fact, dashboard warning lights in late model cars are set to turn red when the coolant reaches a temperature of 245 to 257 degrees.

As important as freeze-up and overheating protection, today's anti-freeze contains special rust and corrosion inhibitors which prevent the formation of sediment which can clog passages in the cooling system and cause engine damage from overheating. Anti-freeze usually "wears out" when — with the coolant level low — motorists add plain water instead of the recommended 50-50 anti-freeze/water combination. This dilutes the anti-freeze, resulting in a loss of some freeze-up and corrosion protection.

IF SEDIMENT IS present, it is advisable to have the cooling system drained and flushed and fresh anti-freeze installed. If no sediment is present, the coolant should be checked for sufficient anti-freeze strength.

The corrosion inhibitors in anti-freeze become "used up" in time. How long they last depends on several factors including mileage and how clean the cooling system was when the present anti-freeze was installed.

Car manufacturers' recommendations for changing the coolant vary from two to three years for late-model cars. Some anti-freeze manufacturers, on the other hand, recommend a yearly draining, flushing and refilling of the cooling system with fresh anti-freeze as the best possible means of preventive maintenance.

How To Get Most Out Of Your Trip

With another influx of skiers expected in France this winter, Air France offers the following tips for those who want to get the most out of their Alpine adventure:

Equipment — Carefully check and adjust it before going. Bindings are most important. Too loose and they come off; too tight and they don't release — voila, cheville foulee!

Packing — Take at least two sets of togs. The new layered look is both fashionable and practical, especially in the Alps where temperature can change quickly on sunny or shaded slopes, requiring more or less clothing.

Exercises — Begin with a regular but moderate exercise program a week before leaving. Do deep knee bends and skiers' jump exercises each morning before hitting the trail. Cold air and tight muscles don't mix.

Trail Markings — Are important to recognize and follow. In France, blue usually signifies easy, green means average, red is for expert runs, and black denotes very difficult runs.

Lessons — Always a good idea, especially the first day or two while getting your ski-legs. Group lessons average $2 for two hours; private instructions run about $6 per hour.

Rentals — Good equipment is available and averages $25 to $30 a week, including boots. However, it's a good idea to bring your own boots if you're hard to fit.

Fatique — Most mishaps occur late in the afternoon when skiers are tired and light conditions play tricks on your eyes. Forego that last run and relax before apres-ski action.

Food and Fun — A good reason to conserve our energies is because French resorts feature long, lavish lunches (usually a two-hour break), and active, swinging apres-ski activities. Take it easy and you won't flake out on the dance floor when the fun is only beginning.

Costs — The most economical way of skiing abroad is to buy a ski package.

Lastly — Have fun, the skiers' first rule, in France — or anywhere.

Winterize Your Car Before You Leave

It happens every year. When the snow comes and skiers head for the high country they remember to check out their equipment — skis, poles, boots, socks, gloves, lip cream, etc. — but they forget to check one important item — their car's battery.

Result? A car that won't start after it's been parked all day in the cold at a ski lodge.

The California State Automobile Association reports that the beginning of the winter season always means a rash of calls from its members who go up to the snow country and forget to winterize their cars.

The AAA says motorists can save themselves a lot of grief if they check just a few items before they head for the mountains in winter.

1. Have battery tested at a service station. Even if it performs OK in mild temperatures, it may fail completely in below freezing weather.

2. Make sure windshield wipers and washers are working properly.

3. Have coolant in radiator tested to be sure it offers protection down to zero degrees.

4. Operate your car's defrosting system to be sure that plenty of warm air is blown onto the windshield. This is one of the most important items to check, and one most frequently overlooked.

5. Check your tire chains before you leave home to be sure they are in good condition and that they fit. Often times people buy new tires that are slightly different in size and their chains do not then fit properly.

When you are heading for the snow country is the one time when advance planning and preparation becomes especially important. It's no fun being stalled — when it's below freezing, and that white stuff is coming down.

Food Prices Up At Ski Resorts

The price of food and drink have gone up worldwide and ski resorts are no exception. Several restaurant owners who cater to skiers in the Rockies estimated their prices will be up 5 to 30 per cent.

Phil Gillis, a bartender in Idaho's Sun Valley, said skiers who want to relax with a cup of hot buttered rum after a day on the slopes may find it costing $1.50 this year, up 20 per cent.

A New Publication Serves The Skier And Backpacker

There's a new publication in the Bay Area geared to the person interested in ski touring and backpacking.

Called Northern California Explorer, the newsletter was started in June by Shirley Rigby and Stuart Weiss, two San Franciscans who decided they'd wasted far too many weekends because of bad information.

"WE JUST GOT tired of calling all over the state to find good areas to hike and ski, getting what we thought was the correct information, driving all the way to the mountains, only to find when we got there, that all of that information was wrong," Shirley explained.

"We talked to others, and they were having the same problems and suffering the same frustrations," she continued, "so we decided to do something about it."

Northern California Explorer was what they did. During the warm weather months, the main emphasis of the newsletter is backpacking, with several detailed trail descriptions in each issue, all personally hiked by Stuart and Shirley, plus reports from forest rangers around the state on good places to go, and places not to go, information on equipment, food, etc., all the things that make up the backpacking experience.

But now that the snow has fallen, the emphasis shifts to skiing, most particularly cross country skiing.

"We're going to different ski touring centers in Northern California and getting as much information on their programs as we can," Stuart explained. "We're skiing their areas and trails in order to pass along good spots to our readers. We want to offer them a variety of places to go ski touring, especially away from organized areas, places where they can park their car on the road and head off for a real backcountry experience."

"And," Shirley added, "we're offering advice from experts on what equipment to buy and where to buy it for the best help and counsel."

The newsletter, sold by subscription only, is available for $10 a year from Northern California Explorer, 2424 Washington Street, San Francisco 94115.

RULES FOR SURVIVING IN THE WILDS IN WINTER

CHICAGO (UPI) — Snowmobilers, campers and hikers, know the rules of winter survival before you start off exploring the wonders and wilds of the woods.

Rules, cited in the American Medical Association magazine Today's Health, include:

Know the area you're going to explore. Know the kind of weather to expect.

Learn how to use, maintain and repair all your equipment.

Go and stay with a group.

Heed bad weather warnings.

Always make sure someone knows where you will be.

In an emergency, panic usually kills more than anything else. You can avoid the panic syndrome by preparing for all imaginable setbacks before you start out.

Some of the problems and what to do about them:

If you get lost, dig in wherever there is shelter. Stay put to conserve energy. Allow a search party to find you instead of just wandering around.

At the first sign of frostbite — numbness, followed by grayish or yellowish-white skin — thaw the area by holding it against a warm part of the body or in warm water. Don't rub.

If you're a motorist stuck in a blizzard, stay in the car. Do not go to sleep. Make do with what is at hand. Melt snow in hubcap for drinking water; stuff pants with pine boughs for insulation.

A basic survival kit for the winter is the same as for any other time of year. It includes: compass, waterproof matches, wire and nylon rope, a first-aid kit, tin cup, plastic whistle, high-energy food, ground cover, candle, maps and flares.

P. S. — Beware of iced-over bodies of water. Three inches are necessary to support a man; many more for a snowmobile.

MUCH OF THE POPULARITY of the Sierra in wintertime can be attributed to the fact that all members of the family can join in the fun in the snow. Northstar-at-Tahoe, for example, has an excellent children's ski school program, in addition to its popular GLM lessons for all ages. The Northstar GLM instructors guarantee parallel skiing within five days, or free lessons until parallel skiing is achieved. And along with the learning comes a lot of fun, as is evidenced by these youngsters pictured above at the Northstar school.

TAHOE DONNER IS another Sierra resort that specializes in teaching beginners to ski. Located at Truckee, 16 miles from Lake Tahoe, Tahoe Donner is also the complete resort community offering all the accommodations and conveniences the winter sportsman could desire. Here Donner Christie Inn and the Tahoe Donner Lodge, right, are flanked by pine trees bearing fresh snow. The Christie Inn houses the rental shop, cocktail lounge and a cafeteria. The Lodge offers 60 rooms adjacent to fine skiing slopes.

IF THE SNOW IS the big attraction for the skier headed for the mountains, comfortable accommodations and good food are, nevertheless, important considerations. A day on the slopes can build up a healthy appetite. And the Sierra resorts cater splendidly to their active, hungry guests. In the photo above two young guests enjoy the cuisine of just one of the seven restaurants available to them at the Snowbird Resort 25 miles southeast of Salt Lake City. The cuisine is as varied as the terrain. And other resorts offer a similar diversity of dining fare.

Ski Touring Rates As Fastest Growing U.S. Winter Sport

MARIN MAGAZINE

Nordic skiing is 90 per cent spirit, 10 per cent sweat and 0 per cent waste.

It's nearly effortless — gliding through a snowbound wood — a lubricated motion of silent passage — only one's breathing and the sliding crush of snow to resound on muffled trails. It is a sport which emphasizes human efficiency, and one that does not consume earth resources.

It brings the skier back to nature, back to the mountains, back to earth.

These are the good reasons ski touring has suddenly grown as a popular winter activity in the United States. An American awareness of energy conservation and the American concern for a return to nature has stimulated the so-called "ecology" sports: bicycling, kayaking, hiking, backpacking, climbing, sky sailing, water sailing and ski touring.

Also called cross-country skiing, ski touring is a gentle sport, a ballet of powerful movements — a graceful athletic dance through fantasy, dream-like winter scenery.

AMERICANS HAVE discovered that release and relaxation are becoming harder and harder to discover in city and suburban life; sports like ski touring contain a special relaxing ingredient, an element that allows the participant to excape the tensions of everyday life.

Until recently however, ski touring vacations were limited to one day outings. Often, ski tourers were discouraged by outings which required overnight snow camping or were located at motels with few vacation amenities.

Now ski touring vacationers who journey to such places as Skip Reedy and Jerry Smeltzer's Squaw Valley Nordic Ski Center in the high Sierra can enjoy one of the first total ski touring package vacations.

THE NORDIC SKI Center is located at one of the largest ski and vacation resorts in the U.S. — Squaw Valley Touring vacationers stay in the newly remodeled Squaw Valley Resort Hotels and are treated to the vacation amenities typical at great resorts.

Nordic Ski Center combines ski touring instruction, wine and cheese picnics, ice skating at Blyth Olympic Ice Areana, fondue parties, fireside Nordic ski chats, guided tours, an overnight at a cozy winterized log cabin with toasty pot-bellied stove, gourmet meals on the snow, a brief winter survival and avalanche course, fun races, daily meals and comfortable lodging for five days and nights in their ski touring package.

But to enjoy cross-country skiing, you don't even have to take your family to a resort.

YOU CAN GO skiing today for hardly more than it would cost to take a walk. In fact, you would be taking a walk, a cross-country walk — on skis.

Or a walk over snow-covered fields in your own area, over country roads, or perhaps a golf course.

Cross-country skiing, or ski touring, is rated the fastest growing winter sport in the country, and probably the least expensive one.

The longer, narrower, lighter cross-country skis cost less than those required for the slopes. While many prefer special clothing, no fancy outfit is necessary. Most families who visit the snow country regularly already have winter clothing suitable for a ski outing of this kind.

THERE ARE NO cable cars or lifts to pay for, no crowds on the trail.

And ski touring is safer. It's a sport in which the whole family can participate. A fall can even add to the fun.

Lessons in ski touring are not necessary, according to most experts. "There is a technique to it, but this is easliy acquired by experience," one says.

The general idea is to stick to fairly level terrain, and not to plunge down precipitous drops. Then you use a natural walking motion to achieve a rhythmic, smooth and easy glide. Balance is no more difficult than that required for bicycling or roller skating. Even the complete beginner gets the hang of it in a half-hour or so.

THE TYPICAL PERSON who ski tours does not go in for records, speed or competition.

Cross-country racing is something else. This is not for the amateur, and the technique is difficult to master.

Most touring parties consist of families on a day's outing. Ski touring ties in with other hobbies such as photography, bird-watching or the identification of animal tracks.

"It is these fringe benefits that make a hobby like ski touring double interesting," says Dr. Richard T. Marks, a wildlife specialist and extension forester of the United States Forest Service.

IT ALSO MAKES it possible for the family to enjoy the out-of-doors for another three months — not just in spring, summer, and fall.

If the outing involves an overnight stay, it is necessary to backpack a sleeping bag and other equipment. In many parts of the country there are shelters or lodges where the family can bed down.

Down-filled sleeping bags adequate for the purpose range up to $100 or higher. High-prices bags have more down and are designed for use in areas with extremely low temperatures.

Lightweight stoves for outdoor cooking go for about $15, depending on the type of stove selected. A pull-over cap or wool face mask is necessary for protection from the snow and cold, especially when sleeping out.

SKI TOURING HAS become tremendously popular in the northeastern part of the country and here in the Pacific Far West, and it is rapidly spreading across the nation. Participation is doubling annually.

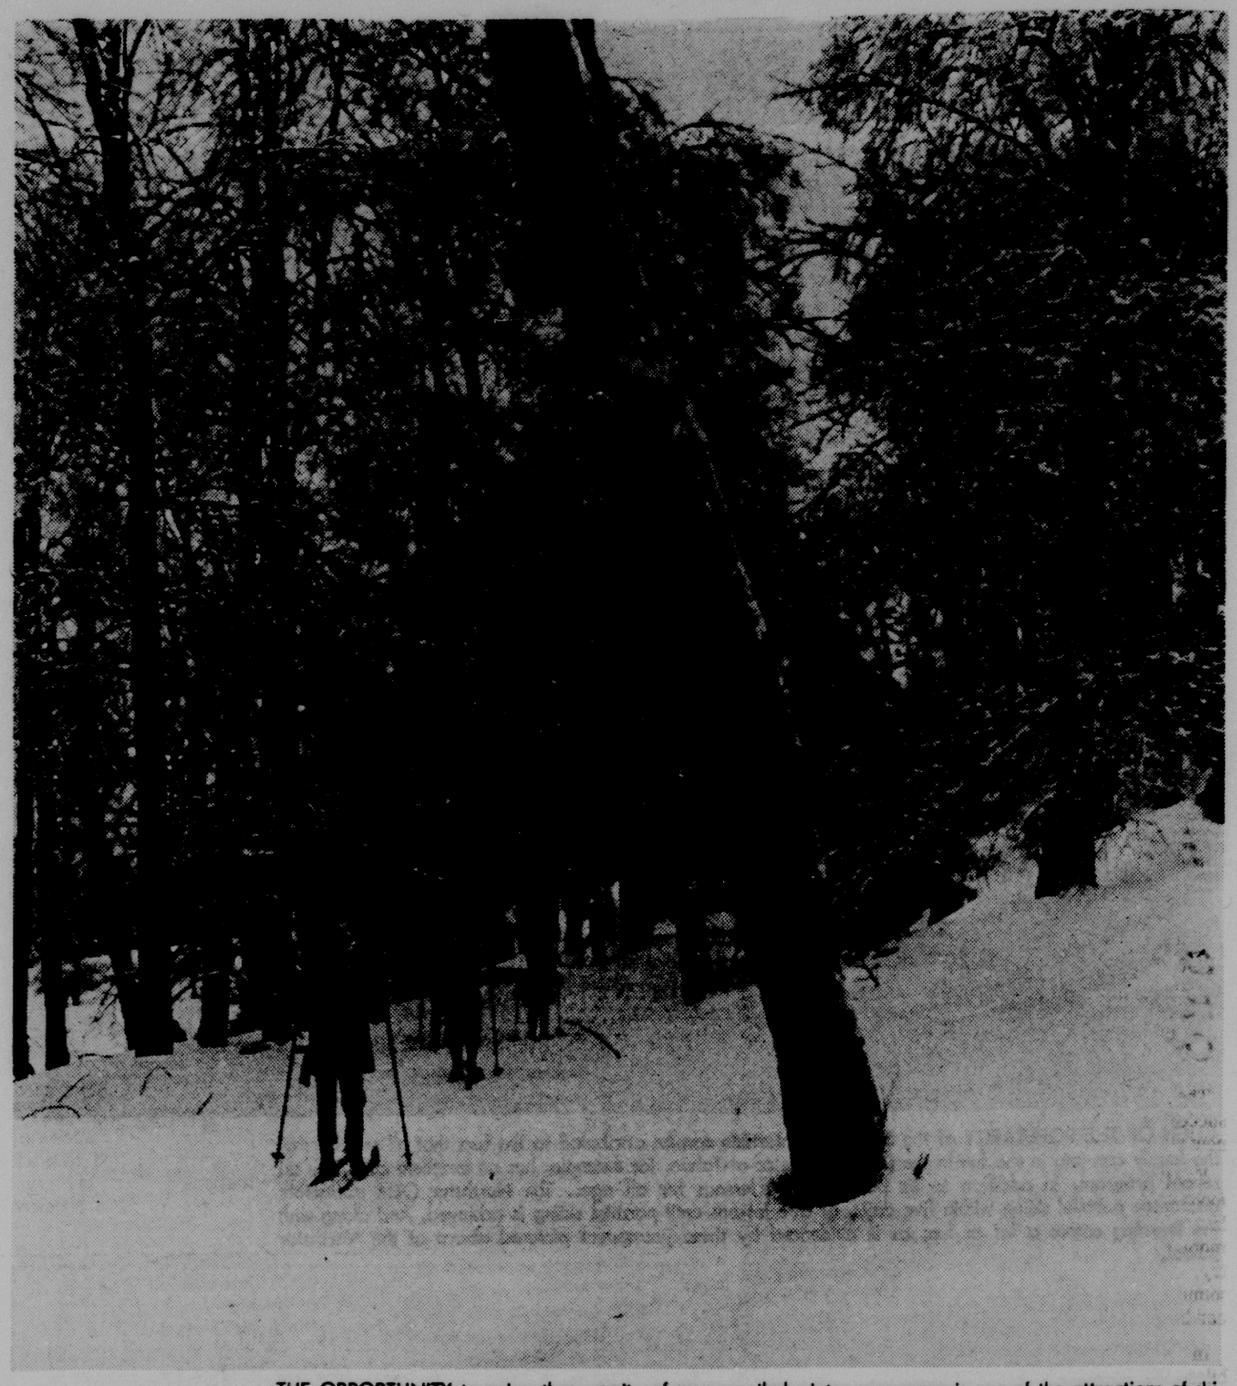
The U.S. Ski Association in Denver, Colo., has issued a manual devoted to the essentials of Nordic cross-country skiing. The manual includes information on equipment, waxing, clothing, technique, safety measures, trails and workshops, and tours.

A huge cross-country trail-development program, under the National Trails System Act, has been approved and is under way. The association is working closely with the Forest Service to expand ski touring opportunities in the national forests.

The importation of cross-country skis, many of which come from Norway, has jumped dramatically in recent years, according to Johannes Von Trapp, manager of the Trapp Family Ski Lodge in Stowe, Vt.

VON TRAPP, A member of the famous singing Trapp family, says that "any place you have snow, you can participate in cross-country skiing. Moreover, the price and terrain are not a deterrent for the cross-country skiers as compared with downhill skiing."

"Never ski alone," is the only warning to devotees of the sport. There should be at least two in the party and preferably three. Then if there is a mishap one person can stay with the incapacitated person, while the other goes for help.



THE OPPORTUNITY to enjoy the serenity of an unspoiled winter snowscape is one of the attractions of ski touring or cross country skiing, a sport that is enjoying a surge of popularity, particularly on the two coasts of the United States. It is an especially satisfying family activity that can be enjoyed by all ages and requires no great skill.

Cross Country Dates A Long Ways Back

Cross-country skiing, or ski-touring as it is also called, is the world's oldest snow sport. But today it is in the middle of a booming new discovery and popularity in America.

"This type of skiing, which was once called ski walking, has been around a long time," according to Continental Airlines experts. "It probably began with Stone Age Man. Wooden skis have been found in Ice Age glacial bogs, and there is a 4,000 year-old rock carving in Norway showing skiers dashing after game."

Norwegian settlers, back in the middle of the last century, introduced cross-country skiing to America, largely in Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Just after the Civil War, a rugged pioneer achieved fame with his cross-country skiing as he carried the mail across the Sierra Nevada Mountains every winter the 87 miles between Placerville in California and Carson City in Nevada, which was then Utah.

Cross Country Skiing Covered In A New Book

You can learn the fundamental movement in cross-country skiing in an afternoon, claims the new photo-filled book, "Skiing on the Level," just published by Sterling ($5.95).

It takes you from that first diagonal stride through an entire course of lessons, exercises, and competitive games that develop your style and skill as you master the more complex combination techniques, the publisher promises.

Authors Helmet Drescher and Jurgen Kemmler, instructors in the world-famous German Ski School, adapted this book from the school's official cross-country manual.

Their sequence photographs, taken from film of the world's finest skiers in action, show each technique in explicit detail — and diagrams show what photos can't. The novice is shown how to maneuver on all kinds of terrain, the equipment he will need, how to increase his speed and endurance, even how to plan a serious training regimen.

Step-by-step directions and large-size format make the book exceptionally useful to beginners while intermediate skiers should find many useful tips here as well. Ski instructors may want to adapt the progressive exercises in their own coaching programs.

AN INSTRUCTOR displays the longer, narrower and much lighter skis that are used in ski touring or cross country skiing.

Learning How To Pilot Begins With Dry Runs

Becoming a good snowmobile pilot is a lot like becoming a good automobile driver. It takes some "dry run" instruction, some slow-speed practice and a lot of on-the-job training.

Here are some tips for the beginning snowmobiler:

The best "road conditions" are provided by a snowfall of about six to 12 inches. Hard-packed or icy snow and deep powder snow make for tricky snowmobile handling.

The turn is perhaps the most important maneuver. The more you lean, the sharper you'll bring the snowmobile around. Get some help from your passenger. Keep enough power on to keep the machine moving. Too little throttle and you'll stall your turn.

Practice on a field, or whatever tree-free space you can find.

Before starting, disengage the neutral clutch, if provided on your machine.

The best snowmobile drivers are those who use their machines the most. That's the way to get the feel for your snowmobile, to know exactly how it will respond in different situations and to know instinctively when to accelerate or decelerate.

GOOD REASONS FOR POPULARITY OF SNOWMOBILE

The reasons for the snowmobile's success read on and on. Sportsmen can now move around with greater ease.

Farmers use snowmobiles to haul food to livestock. Game wardens and law enforcement officials have added mobility. And, families across the country, sharing a common interest, are joining to form clubs much like sports car buffs or boatmen.

In addition to the sale of snowmobiles, complete lines of accessory items ranging from special snowmobile suits and boots to fancy tag-along cutters (sleighs) are also available. Naturally, special trailers for toting a snowmobile behind the family car have proved a boon to city residents.

Manitoba Has The Trails For Safe Safari

A unique area to explore on a controlled snowmobile safari is Manitoba.

To reduce the possibility of injury to the snowmobiler, safe wilderness snowmobile trails have been developed in seven of Manitoba's provincial parks. These trails have been developed in seven of Manitoba's provincial parks. These trails are clearly marked and regularly patrolled by parks staff so that the chances of being stranded by a breakdown or other difficulty are minimal.

In all there are close to 1,000 miles of trails, AAA reports.

At Grand Beach, a short trail can be reached from either the west or east beaches. In Spruce Woods Park, near the Assiniboine River, there are two trails. In the Whiteshell, over 200 miles of trails have been developed and are patrolled by parks staff on a continuous basis.

Snowmobile rentals are available at Falcon Lake townsite and restaurant facilities may be found at both Falcon and West Hawk Lakes. Turtle Mountain Park, south of Brandon, has three trails. Bird's Hill, a popular family destination, winter or summer, has a seven-and-a-half- mile and a 12-mile trail plus snowmobile and restaurant facilities.

Duck Mountain trails are still in the development stage and sportspeople should check with the parks office before embarking on an excursion.

Many of the trails are equipped with warm-up shelters along the various routes. And, in the future, the park staff plans to add facilities for overnight snowmobile camping on the trail.

For more information on trails, weather and snow conditions, AAA suggests that snowmobilers write the Manitoba Government Travel, 200 Vaughan Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba, R3C OP8.

For Sensible Snowmobiling—

An ever-expanding field of activities unfolds before the imaginative snowmobiler who makes commonsense his guide to safe snowmobile fun.

The people at Johnson Motors, who make the Skee-Horse snowmobile, have put together some do's and don'ts that should govern most situations. Combined with a little old fashioned horse sense, they leave the trail clear for everything from exploration trips to still-unthought-of snowmobile sports.

Do dress extra-warmly, concentrating on wind-resistant outer clothing, to offset the "wind factor" that makes 30 degrees above feel like 30 below.

Don't forget your face. The so-called "Peruvian ski mask" should keep your nose and ears from going numb. A pair of goggles that resist "fog-up" will shield the eyes against lashing branches and chilling breezes.

Do test snow conditions before starting your trip and before crossing an unfamiliar area. An overnight freeze or snowfall can bring surprises to yesterday's sure-footed snow.

Don't forget to leave word where you're headed, and when you'll be back. It's reassuring to know that assistance, if ever needed, will not be far behind.

Do lower your speed at night, and in unfamiliar territory. While cruising in wooded areas, watch for branches, snow-hidden logs or depressions. Look, and think, ahead. Never drive at night without a light.

Don't overcrowd the snowmobile. Most snowmobiles are made to carry two people — an operator and a passenger. Too many on a snowmobile makes it harder for the driver to do his job well.

Do have fun.

Swiss Village Of Lenk Has All The Ski Amenities Without The Crowds

BERNESE OBERLAND, Switzerland — Winter vacationers who look for a resort untouched by jetsetters, but nevertheless offering all the facilities of a well-equipped winter sports center, will feel comfortable at Lenk, an idyllic and charming Swiss resort.

Here chalets, the neighborly atmosphere and the magnificent mountain scenery provide that unparalleled charm of a typical Swiss village. Situated at 3,511 feet elevation, Lenk is easily accessible by rail or car from either Geneva or Zurich international airports.

THIS WINTER, Lenk, together with Adelboden, its twin-resort in the adjoining valley, offer their guests general combination tickets valid for unlimited use on all 26 skilifts and cableways of the area, giving the sportsminded, whether beginner or pro, an endless variety of machine-packed ski runs.

Lenk has been celled the El Dorado for cross-country and long-distance skiers alike. And rightly so: 25 miles of well-kept and market tracks answer the expectations of both beginners and advanced skiers, and further trails are being developed.

Crosscountry and downhill skiers who want to get into shape before the crowd arrives can book a special ski-week package through Dec. 16.

Other off-season packages are available from Jan. 7 to Feb. 2, and March 4 to March 16.

NON-SKIERS WILL find a diversity of activities: riding in a horse-drawn sleigh to the Simmen Falls and enjoy a farmer's lunch, giving Curling, the increasingly popular broomstick sport, a try, mingling with the skating crowd on the big ice rink, working out in the olympic sized indoor pool, taking a flight excursion and see glaciers from a bird's eye view, watching the sleigh-hounds being trained on the three-mile long permanent trail (March 2 and 3 National Sleigh-Hound Race), or, enjoying the crisp clean mountain air and serenity of the fairytale-like winterland on a walk along the many plowed paths.

This family resort offers a babysitting service and kindergarten for children over 3 years. Accommodation is available in all categories: Hotels and guesthouses with full- or half-board, chalets and apartments for rent, as well as dormitories for groups. Its restaurants, tea rooms and alpine inns serve excellent meals and snacks of typical local food, and the ambiance is mostly unsophisticated and cozy.

Information on Lenk can be obtained from Swiss National Tourist Office, 661 Market St., San Francisco, 94105.

THE SPANISH Pyrenees impart grandeur and beauty to the skiing at the new luxury resort of Baqueira-Beret, one result of the new enthusiasm for winter sports inspired by Francisco Ochoa's Olympic Gold Medal victory in 1972.

Spain Enjoys Ski Boom In Pyranees

When Francisco Ochoa flashed down a snow-covered slope in Japan to win a Gold Medal for the special slalom in the 1972 Olympic Games, he was greeted by a stunned world press. Stunned, you see, because Francisco is a Spaniard, native to a country not normally known for skiing.

Actually, the Gold Medal was an exclamation point to the tremendous growth story of Spain's ski industry.

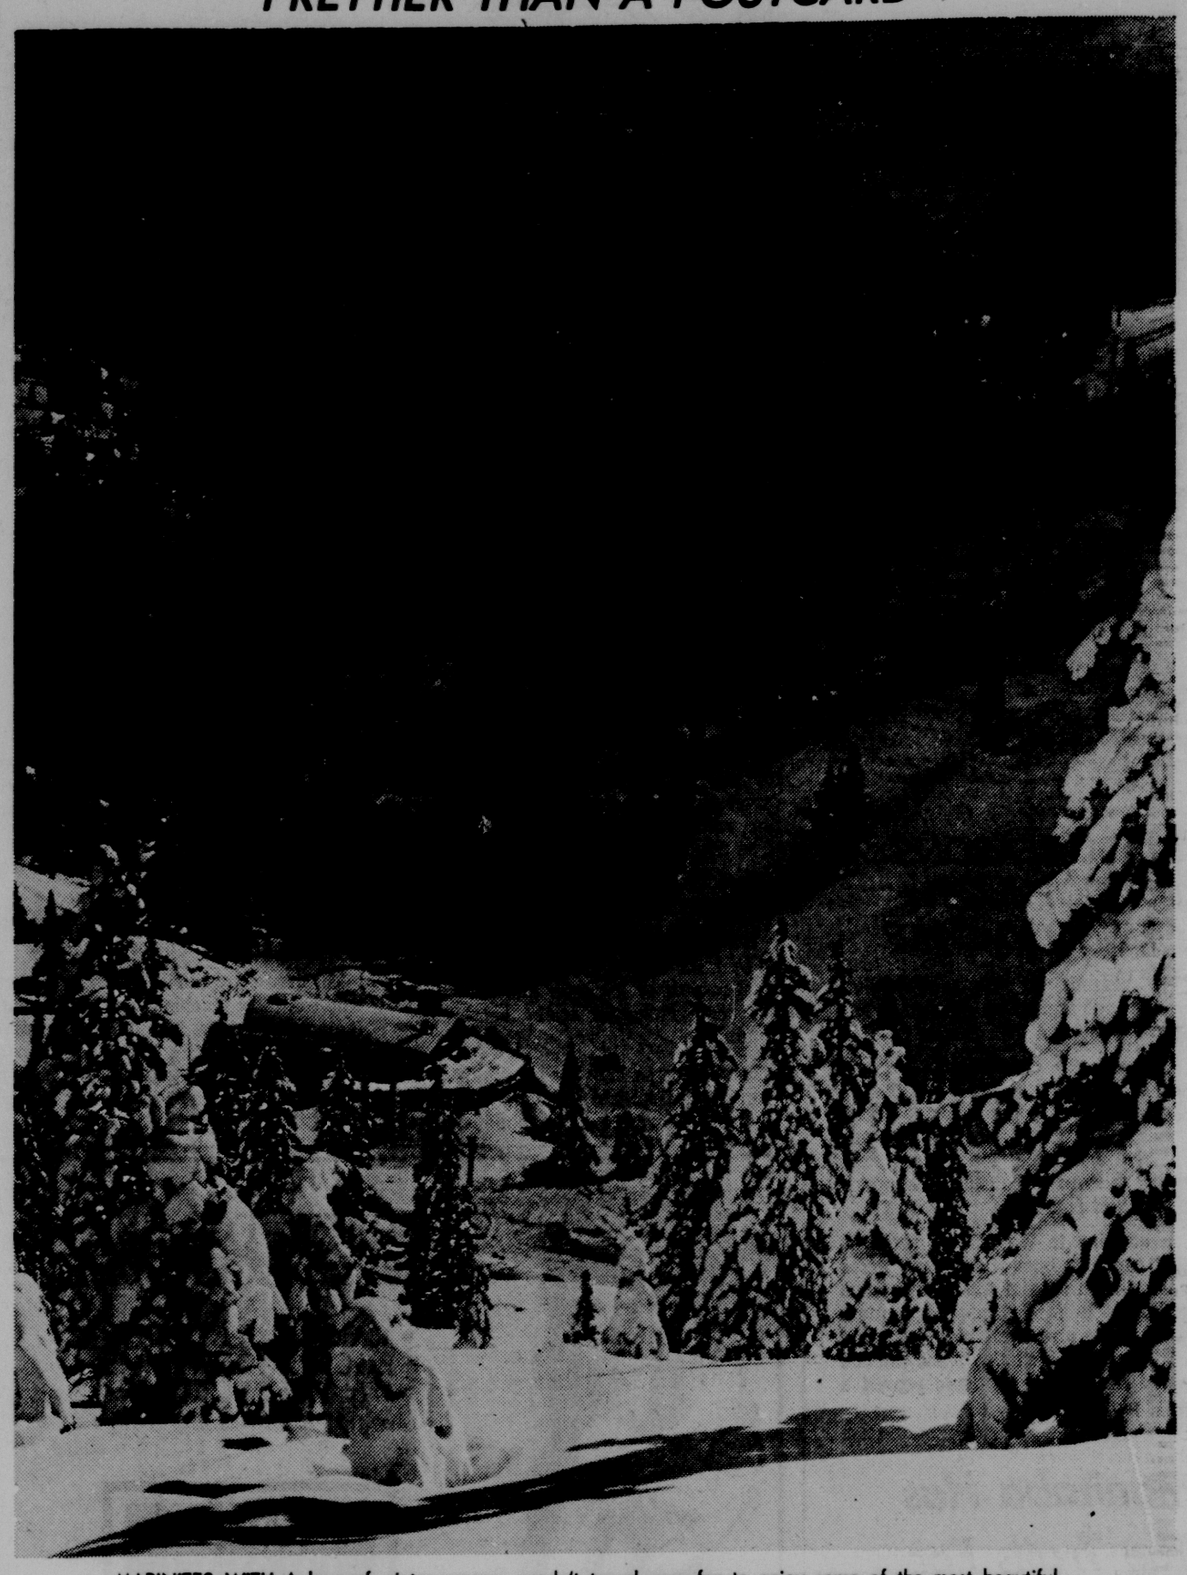
Geography has had a lot to do with it. Spain is a country of mountains, from the Pyrenees and Cantabrian Ranges in the North to the Navacerrada near Madrid to the Sierra Nevada in the South. All areas benefit from the temperate climate and warm Spanish sun. The democratization of the sport also helped.

Spanish ski resorts are accessible to major population centers — Barcelona, Madrid, Malaga — and both city dwellers and international travelers have discovered the advantages of having ski slopes within an hour's drive of their urban dwellings and lodgings.

Reinforcing all the natural incentives is a government aware of the economic and recreational advantages of ski development, both through the offer of private development incentives and the construction of special "paradores" and "refugios," hotels and mountain inns near major ski centers.

Variety is the spice of Spanish ski life. In the north along the French border, the Pyrenees offer a diversity of slopes and accommodations reminiscent of the Swiss Alps. Jagged granite massifs dominate the view above, while resort hotels and lodgings to fit every taste and budget beckon below.

PRETTIER THAN A POSTCARD



MARINITES WITH A love of winter scenery needn't travel very far to enjoy some of the most beautiful snowscapes in the world. This winter wonderland is Ski Incline at Incline Village, Nev., at an elevation of 6,700 to 7,700 feet. The village offers superb ski runs and accommodations. But for the non-skier there is also the attraction of a setting that is sheer magnificence.

British Columbia Offers Something For Everyone Who Wants To Ski

By MARGARET RAY TALBOT

If you like to ski, then British Columbia is the place to go.

Rugged mountain ranges from the Rockies to the lofty peaks of the Coast Range contain more than 60 ski centres ranging from mammoth international resorts to small community ski hills.

There is spectacular Grouse Mountain, just 15 minutes from downtown Vancouver.

An aerial tram whisks you to the Top of Grouse, a dramatic building with breathtaking views that thrill sightseers from all over the world. The meticulously manicured slopes of Grouse have something for everyone, with three chairlifts, three T-bars and three rope tows running daily from 8 a.m. to midnight. And swinging apres ski life is part of the Grouse scene.

The mammoth slopes of Garibaldi's Whistler Mountain, 75 miles north of Vancouver, offer all the challenge of major European resorts. Whistler has a staggering 4,280-feet vertical, longest in North America.

A gondola, five chairlifts and two T-bars lead the way to an overwhelming selection of ski runs, several more than seven miles long. Choose from high alpine bowls, steep mogulled downhills that test the most famous ski racers, or wide, well-manicured broadways ... pure pleasure for intermediate or novice.

Helicopter skiing on the nearby peaks and glaciers provides more excitement, and cross country trails surround the ski centre of Alta Lake at the foot of the lifts.

For friendly family fun, try Hemlock Valley, 70 miles east of Vancouver, with two chairlifts, one especially for novice skiers, and two rope tows, a striking daylodge overlooking the slopes and special toboggan and snowmobile areas.

Gibson Pass in Manning Par, 145 miles of Vancouver, is another fine family centre with two chairlifts, a T-bar and three rope tows serving some excellent beginner runs and more testing terrain for better skiers.

At Tod Mountain, 25 miles northeast of Kamloops, you can ride North America's longest chairlift, some two miles of it, rising 3,000-odd vertical feet, which, with another big chairlift, leads the way to some exhilarating high ski country and challenging five-and-seven-mile ski runs. A T-bar and handle tow serve the lower slopes.

This self-contained resort has modern condominiums and chalets around the main lodge at the foot of the lifts, babysitting, lots of apres ski entertainment. Even a kite flying school!

The sunny Okanagan is renowned for fine dry powder and good weather conditions. Major ski resorts here are Vernon's Silver Star with two chairlifts, three T-bars, a puma and rope tow. There's accommodation on the hill and lots more in nearby Vernon. The Vernon Winter Carnival is a popular event each February.

Big White, 40 miles east of Kelowna, is another powder paradise with endless 'take your own line' possibilities on the high bowls. The home of the annual flying world championships. Big White has a chairlift, three T-bars and accommodation in the ski village at the foot of the lifts.

And there is Apex Alpine, with its challenging steep slopes for experts, more gentle terrain for the less skilled, served by a chairlift, poma and rope tow.There is novel apres ski entertainment in the popular Teahouse in the ski village, plus overnight accommodation, with lots more in nearby Penticton.

Another fine ski region is the Kootenays. Rossland's Red Mountain is the big one here.

This area has two chairlifts on two separate mountains that lead the way to some formidable runs and provide hot shots with all the challenge they could wish. A poma lift, T-bar and rope tow on the gentle slopes facing the daylodge have some excellent beginner and practice slopes. There's apres ski fun here, a children's centre, good accommodation by the parking lot and plenty more in Rossland and Trail close by.

Kimberley, another big area here, has a chairlift and T-bar to take you to some delightful long runs through the powder on the far side of the mountain, or a fine choice of runs for expert and intermediate on the wide main face. Beginners are well catered to with their own specially fenced area and two handle tows. Lively apres ski fare abounds, plus helicopter skiing, skating and tobogganing.

There are baby-sitting facilities, dorm accommodation on the slopes and a variety of modern hotels and motels in Kimberley at the foot of the mountain.

Fernie's Snow Valley, close by the Alberta border, is in the high Lizard Bowl of the western Rockies. The powder slopes here will delight those who love to boogie in the deep stuff! Two T-bars serve the 2,100-foot vertical and there's a rope tow on the gentle slopes lower down, with a modern motel right on the hill.

If you crave comfort, make Fairmont Hot Springs your Kootenay ski headquarters.

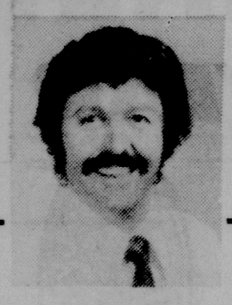
Fifty miles north of Kimberley, the attractive lodge buildings semi-circle three big outdoor hot pools. Inside there's gourmet dining, comfortable lounges, soul-pampering hot swirl pools, gay apres ski entertainment, and a complete convention centre. The ski slopes are one mile above the lodge, with ski trails right to the door. There is a T-bar, and a rope tow by the daylodge. The Annual Barrel Stave World Championships are held here in February and it's one of the funniest events on skis. Moonlight skiing is another Fairmont feature, and there are miles of fine cross country trails surrounding the Lodge.

The world-famed Bugaboos are some 40 miles northwest of Fairmont. Here you find endless miles of deep virgin powder over spectacular glaciers and plunging mountain slopes — the ultimate ski adventure by helicopter in the Monashees and Cariboos. There is some exciting glacier skiing via Turbo Porter ski plane operating out of Radium Hot Springs Resort, 20 miles north of Fairmont.

This ski package includes skiing at nearby Panorama ski area.

These are some of the major ski centres in B.C. There are many others. The main ski resorts all have a professional full time CSIA ski school, modern daylodge and cafeteria, ski shop, and regular ski patrol. All are easily reached via main highways, with daily bus and air services to nearby centres.

Wine Pressings



by ALFRED LOVI

Have you ever had a dream about drinking wine? If so, it may have been a prediction about coming events.

According to an ancient superstition, dreaming about sipping a small amount of a good wine is a sign that good times are on the way. But if you dream that you drink a large quantity of wine from a large glass, it means that bad times are coming.

Other superstitions about wine have also been used to try to predict the future. In Germany there is a legend that during the grape growing season, a lady dressed in a long, flowing white robe wanders through the vineyards at night. If the harvest is not going to be bountiful, she is closely veiled and she weeps as she wanders among the vines. But if the harvest is going to be plentiful, she walks gaily and is all smiles as she rattles a bunch of keys in celebration.

Some people have believed that if you spill a glass of wine, it will bring you good luck such as an engagement or a christening. But the Norwegians have a belief that if you spill wine at a wedding reception, it means that you will never marry.

On the other hand, drinking wine at a wedding is an almost universal symbol of good luck for the bride and groom. Drinking from the same glass symbolizes unity and many people believe that it will guarantee the future.

If you are making plans for a Christmas wedding, or any big holiday party, why not stop in at THE VILLA WINE CELLAR and let us help you plan the occasion? We feature a special California Champagne that is bottled just for us. It sells at the unbelievably low price of $2.49 per bottle. Villa Wine Cellar Champagne is available only at 2138 Fourth Street in San Rafael. 456-0566.

You Eat Well As You Ski In Alps

By L. DANA GATLIN

MERIBEL, France — Eating your way across the French Alps on skis is an experience that defies comparison. The challenge is not so much getting down the mountain as getting up from the table.

To stagger out and take on the descent from the 8,800-foot peak of La Saulire to Courcheval after a six course break is to undergo a new challenge in unweighting your turns. From pate and "crudite" (raw vegetables) to fromage and fruit, one concentrates on what has been called the main event in France: lunch.

THE MOUNTAIN, the moguls, the changing snow conditions, the possibility of weather closing in — all of it is put out of thought, except to the extent that a view of Alpine peaks shimmering in a sun-kissed blue sky is allowed to enhance the joie de vivre of the company and the moment.

Sooner or later, of course, one must come down; and then there is time enough to concentrate on the powder on top or the ice from midway down — the conditions we and other "low season" skiers made much of in January, 1974.

"Low season" in the Savoie is a time for bargain rates and packages, sparsely filled resorts, and somewhat chancy snow conditions. It is also a time when a lot of people can ski the Alps who otherwise couldn't afford it.

TO GET AWAY from overcrowding the slopes with students during the usual two-week winter vacation, French schools have been assigned one of three separate vacation periods, each about 10 days long. As a result the entire month of February is high season, and as at Christmas and Easter you are fortunate to find a room near an Alpine ski station.

But the French also come to ski in low season — by plane and overnight train from Paris, by car and motor coach from Lyon and the Geneva region. They even fly right through the mountains on "Air Alpes" and land at "altiports" like the one at Sprawling Courcheval.

More and more they are joined by Germans, Japanese, and Americans responding to concentrated promotion by the French government and tourist industry.

YOU WOULDN'T have thought there was an energy crisis to observe at the French ski resorts last winter. There was plenty of gas available — if you were willing to pay the price (over $1.50 a gallon) — and little official concern. Privately, however, there was concern voiced, which is one of the reasons why groups of writers and travel agents were being shown the delights of French skiing — and cooking.

In France one has a choice of the famed "traditional" resorts or one of the relatively new, high-rise "Sno" resorts. The former primarily are Alpine towns which have grown up next to great skiable mountains. Chamonix, Val d'Isere, Megeve are names that come immediately to mind.

One that is not so familiar to Americans is Meribel, in the valley between Courcheval and Les Menuires. From here you can ski three valleys on one lift pass.

A SEVEN-DAY lift pass, good for all the lifts at Courcheval's four major settlements, the two mountains of Meribel, and the tow of Les Menuires, cost about $44 (juniors, other members of the family, and all tickets after March 1 are around $37).

Courcheal was the first of the post-World War II planned resorts. With some four villages and countless hotels opening on the slopes, scads of intermediate terrain, smart shops, and a gigantic base station, it has the pizzaz and atmosphere which attracts many Americans and sophisticated Parisians. It is a place for high coiffure (and prices to match), professionally trimmed white poodles on leashes, and all kinds of skiing.

Meribel is much less spashy, a lot more French Alpine town strung along the side of a mountain.

THE CONCIERGE at your hotel is not likely to speak much English, and the toilet will be separate from the bathroom. You'll take a bus or taxi or walk to the lifts, some of which are telecabines and many are automatic Pomas, triggered by skiers' knees striking a wand. Daily hotel and guest house rates run from around $6 or $7 to $25. Four-star hotels at Courcheval can run around $32 a day.

Les Menuires, where former racer Leo Lacroix is technical director, is only a 45 minute ski over the mountain. But when we were there it was a two-hour bus trip because of insufficient snow.

It is one of the new, space-age Sno net resorts, a mass of high rises and studio condominiums designed for the middle class, budget-minded Parisian. It also has some particularly nice skiing on La Masse peak, where you can see the Vanoise glacier, Mont Blanc, Italy, and Switzerland on a clear day and where you can ski by little houses in which shepherds make the local cheese during the summer months.

NOTES TO TRAVEL BY

Olympic Village at Squaw Valley has a seven-day, six-night package including Amtrak transportation leaving the Bay Area Sunday mornings, accommodations, breakfasts, ski lift tickets, ice sakting and a fondue party, at $188 per person twin occupancy, $176 a person triple occupancy ... Continental Airlines is featuring eight-day, seven-night stays in ski chalets in Vail, Breckenridge, Aspen, Snowmass, Dillon and Steamboat in the Rockies ... From Dec. 21 to Dec. 28 Zweisimmen in Switzerland offers a "ski and play tennis" program including lessons on the covered courts, starting at $205.

A 15-day "Skier's Smorgasbord" in Norway includes five nights in Voss and four nights in Lillehammer, with most meals, plus four nights in Copenhagen, starting at $235 per person plus air fare ... Lufthansa's two-week "Snow Powder Express' from New York is priced at $784 including fare, with a choice of eight winter resorts in three countries, and bus and guide service through the Alps ... Western Airlines has ski vacation packages with such resorts as Squaw Valley, Incline, Northstar, Kirkwood, Alpine Meadows, Mount Bachelor, Whistler Mountain, Sun Valley, Alta, Aspen, Taos and Jackson Hole.

It Will Cost You More This Winter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The snow doesn't cost any more, but the heated pool, ski lift passes and the hot buttered rum are all more expensive.

Skiers with visions of a vacation in the Alps or the Rockies this winter had better check their pocketbooks first. Like everything else, a piece of winter paradise is going up in price.

A New Yorker will find an airline package tour to the old mining town of Aspen, Colo., including round-trip air fare to Denver, inexpensive lodging in Aspen and ski tickets, will cost about $310, up 13 per cent from last year. Transportation between Denver and Aspen costs extra. So does eating.

Should he prefer instead a week in Austria's Kitzbuhel, a package tour that includes air fare, lodging breakfast, and ski pass costs $535, up 30 per cent.

But the skiers aren't the only ones fighting the economic battle. The lodge and restaurant owners are having their problems, too.

"Our costs for breakfast are up about 12 per cent," said Lieselott Nopper, owner of a cozy, 12-bedroom chalet in Gstaad, Switzerland. "For many years we have been able to put some money aside. Now that is over."

Don Ballenger, general manager of the Valhalla and Christiania lodges near the center of Vail, Colo., said his own labor costs have increased 20 to 25 per cent. The cost of chemicals for his heated pool has almost doubled.

"It also used to cost $100 a month to heat the pool. Now it costs $125," he said. "We're dropping the temperature from 82 degrees to 78."

It's A Long, Long Season In Oregon

One of the nation's longest ski seasons is getting underway on Oregon's scenic, uncrowded mountain slopes.

Official 1974-75 schedules at two of the state's major ski areas call for the season to end no sooner than June 29, meaning that skiers in Oregon should have at least eight months to enjoy their sport, thanks to normally abundant high country snowfalls. Nine of the state's 15 ski areas had scheduled official openings by mid-November or earlier.

ONE OF THE AREAS which is getting a starting jump on the rest is central Oregon's Mount Bachelor Ski Area which is listed as one of the 50 "great" places to ski in the United States and Europe by "Ski Magazine." Early November openings were held at Mt. Bachelor as well as at Mount Hood's Timberline Lodge and Mount Hood Meadows.

The latter was the 1974 summer training site for the U.S. Ski Team.

If you're impressed by snow depth accumulations, very few ski areas in the nation match the measurements on the slopes of 11,235-foot Mount Hood, the state's highest and most photographed mountain. Last season skiers at Timberline Lodge and Mount Hood Meadows enjoyed record-breaking depths of over 300 inches at the peak of the season.

NIGHT SKIING IS becoming increasingly popular at Mount Hood Meadows and Timberline Lodge which are joined on the Mt. Hood slopes by three other ski areas — Multorpor-Ski Bowl, Summit and Cooper Spur.

Multropor-Ski Bowl also offers skiing under the lights.

Impressive snow reports are common in the central Oregon Cascades where the Hoodoo and Willamette Ski Areas, along with Mount Bachelor, offer views of some of the Pacific Northwest's most spectacular winter scenery. Mount Bachelor, located on the eastern slope of the Cascades, also is widely acclaimed for its powder snow offerings.

Skiers who appreciate the powdery variety of the white stuff have additional areas to choose from in the southern and northern sections of the state. Mount Ashland is the ski mecca for southwestern Oregon while the Tomahawk and Warner Mountain areas host weekend crowds on the eastern side of the southern Cascades. Anthony Lakes and Spout Springs are the largest areas in northeastern Oregon which also is served by the Arbuckle and Dixie Mountain operations.

ESTABLISHED SKI touring areas and trails for the rapidly-growing number of cross-country ski enthusiasts are located in the Mount Hood, Willamette, Deschutes, Winema, Rogue River, Wallowa-Whitman and Umatilla National Forests and around the 35-mile rim of Crater Lake in Crater Lake National Park.

Communities near all of the state's major ski areas are served by excellent commercial bus service.

Direct weekend and mid-week service from Portland to the major Mount Hood locations along with new non-stop weekend service from Portland to Mount Bachelor is available.

Information on schedules, accommodations, lift rates, equipment and facilities is provided in a colorful ski brochure published by the Travel Information Section, Room 102 Highway Building, Salem, Ore., 97310.

IN SEARCH OF THE AMERICAN DREAM: Religion And Politics

(Editor's Note: This is the 11th of 18 articles exploring the theme, "In Search of the American Dream." This essay discusses the impact of politics and religion in the early American colonies and the conflict between religious self-denial and worldly success. The author is Stiles professor of American studies at Texas University.)

Despite the constitutionally proclaimed separation of church and state, America has always been a Christian nation.

The Puritans who landed at Massachusetts Bay in 1630 came on God's errand, into the wilderness to establish a Christian utopia for the world to imitate. From the beginning religion and politics were closely intertwined in America. In New England, New Amsterdam and the Southern colonies, governments enforced the precepts of Christian morality.

Religion, especially Protestantism, required self-denial — constant purging of the desire for the things of this world. As thousands of immigrants poured into America in search of material prosperity, tension mounted between religious self-denial and worldly success.

THE EMOTIONAL RHYTHM of America thus became Manichaean, or violently dualistic — with high elation over its evident material progress alternating with deep guilt over an original sin of assumed spiritual failure.

The 20th century theologian Reinhold Niebuhr has rightly called Americans "the children of light and the children of darkness."

Such an emotional rhythm inevitably generated periodic religious revivals.

The "Great Awakening" swept all the colonies in 1740 as people saw themselves, in Jonathan Edwards' terms, "sinners in the hands of an angry God." They also followed Edwards, however, in the fervent expectation that after its purification America would receive Christ himself in a second coming. Millennialism thus became an important strain of American thought.

EVEN THE REVOLUTION was seen in these terms: It was a protest of God-fearing people against a corrupt king and his profligate ministers and agents on both sides of the Atlantic. The success of the new republican nation meant to many the beginning of an earthly millennium.

Over and over again Americans reminded themselves of the necessity for renewing their virtue.

In 1801 at Cane Ridge, Ky., the first of a series of massive western revivals took place. For days, preachers, white and black, exhorted the backwoods pioneers to purge themselves of sin and make ready for the Lord. The people responded with profound emotionalism —falling into trances, rolling on the ground, jerking in convulsions, even barking like dogs to purge their guilt.

THE "SECOND GREAT Awakening" spread into New England, splitting congregations asunder. Hellfire preachers rained so much brimstone down on western New York that it came to be called "The Burned-Over District."

Amidst this religious fervor, one day in 1826 at Mount Cummorah, young Joseph Smith had visions of angels and golden tablets. He went on to found the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, and Mormonism became America's largest utopian religious community.

Fundamentalism and politics went hand in hand in America from the Jeffersonian "revolution" of 1800 to the Populist Party crusades of the 1890s.

In the Manichaean view, political events were seen as part of the continuing struggle between forces of good and evil. In 1824, for example, the West produced a "purified" hero, "Old Hickory," Andrew Jackson, who aimed to take the country back to an older, purer time when the yeoman and the honest mechanic were the backbone of the country, when wages were hard coin and the eastern financier did not manipulate the country.

JACKSON'S "WAR" ON the "monster bank" — the Second Bank of the United States — dramatized his drive for a political and economic purification that matched the holy crusades of the backwoods preachers. Old Hickory's political campaigns and the years of his presidency were, in his mind, "wars" of cultural liberation.

"The Bank is trying to kill me," Jackson once raged, "but I will kill it, sir, kill it dead."

This view of a struggle between the forces of light and the forces of darkness persisted all through the administrations of Jackson, Van Buren, Tyler and Polk.

THIS ALLEGORICAL PAINTING, entitled "Voyage of Life: Youth," reflects the problems of early America created by the conflict between a religious philosophy of self-denial and a material zest for worldly success.

By the 1840s religious revivalism had fanned out into broad areas of secular reform — peace movements, temperance, women's rights and, most of all, anti-slavery. A growing army of abolitionists cannonaded the South with moral grapeshot. In New England Lyman Beecher, Wendell Phillips, Theodore Parker and William Lloyd Garrison lashed the consciences of dormant Puritans into life until fundamentalist and Unitarian alike joined in a great crusade against the moral evil of slavery.

THE SOUTH REPLIED in kind.

While a hundred southern preachers cited biblical justification for slavery, George Fitzhugh, a canny Virginian, labeled the industrial North decidedly un-Christian in its callous exploitation of the factory workers. Northern entrepreneurs were "cannibals all."

Thus the two sections built up evil stereotypes of one another.

Manichaean fervor, riding the crest of guilt-ridden Christian emotions that underlay the very basis of the Republic, heightened all political conflict and split the culture into Civil War. In a conflict seen as a religious crusade, compromise proved to be impossible: A fundamental issue of morality stood between the two sections.

JULIA WARD HOWE perhaps best caught the sense of the age:

"Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord: He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored; He hath loosed the fateful lightning of His terrible swift sword; His truth is marching on."

No war in American history so clearly marched to the rhythms of the battle humn — whether "Maryland! My Maryland!" or "Three Hundred Thousand More."

"We are coming, Father Abraham," sang the Union soldiers while the dour Presbyterian genius Stonewall Jackson prayed their Confederate opponents into battle. Bull Run, Chickamauga, Fredericksburg, Missionary Ridge, Antietam, Shiloh, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg and Appomattox seemed to take on Biblical significance comparable to the campaigns of Moses, Joshua and the Israelites. The Civil War was Apocalypse and perhaps millennium.

WHEN ABRAHAM LINCOLN spoke at Gettysburg of "this nation under God," he had behind him a thousand years of Christian typology that made "the brothers' war" seem a symbol of all mankind's history since the days when Cain first slew Abel.

America's moral utopia was being grievously tested. Unfortunately it would not be the last time.

Religion and politics intertwined not only domestically in America but on the international scene as well. Publicists like Richard Hakluyt and Samuel Purchas had pictured the British colonization of North America as a struggle against "anti-Christ" on behalf of the unconverted heathen. Even the vast imperial struggle of the French and Indian War had religious significance for many.

WITH THE BIRTH of the Republic, the Founding Fathers believed it to be America's duty to spread liberty, republican institutions and Protestant Christianity across the continent.

This sense of mission was at first a benign sentiment, but by the 1840s fear of British power in North America caused a new stridency: first "Fifty-four, forty or fight," then that gradiose slogan, "Manifest Destiny," made their appearance. "Manifest Destiny" meant that God had always intended North and possibly even Central America to be United States territory.

The subversion of Texas in 1836, the capture of California and the invasion of Mexico in 1846-47 were simply the working out of His divine plan. Behind the conflict with Mexico lay not only a real fear of British influence and power, but also the ancient struggle between Protestantism and Catholicism — between white men and brown men less favored by God.

LONG AFTER MEXICO lay prostrate, Protestant messiahs like the evangelist Josiah Strong still preached the predestined triumph of Anglo-Saxon Protestants — "Ours is the elect nation for the age to come. We are the chosen people."

Strong's book, "Our Country" (1885), helped to create the moral climate for a new age of American imperialism in the Caribbean, the mid-Pacific and the Far East. The climax of this divinely inspired sense of mission was, of course, the Spanish-American War of 1898, in which the United States gained a global empire and, like Britain, its Anglo-Saxon cousin, assumed "the white man's burden."

The war itself was fought, at least in part, for humanitarian reasons. But behind the humanitarian sentiments lay a sense of America's religious, moral and cultural superiority.

ONLY THE UNITED States could bring humanizing Christian civilizaiton to these outposts of heathen darkness.

This attitude was symbolized in President William McKinley's explanation to a group of visiting clergymen of how he deicded to keep the Philippines:

"I walked the floor of the White House night after night until midnight; . . . I went down on my knees and prayed Almighty God for light and guidance more than one night. And one night late it came to me this way — I don't know how it was, but it came:

"(1) That we could not give them back to Spain — that would be cowardly and dishonorable; (2) that we could not turn them over to France or Germany — our commercial rivals in the Orient — that would be bad business and discreditable; (3) that we could not leave them to themselves — they were unfit for self-government — and they would soon have anarchy and misrule over there worse than Spain's was; and (4) that there was nothing left for us to do but to take them all, and to educate the Filipinos, and uplift and civilize and Christianize them, and by God's grace do the best we could by them, as our fellowmen for whom Christ also died.

"And I went to bed, and to sleep, and slept soundly . . ."

THUS AS ITS Christian duty America acquired a Pacific empire.

A generation later another devout president, Woodrow Wilson, led Americans in a crusade for world peace that somehow never came about. By the mid-20th century, after several more wrs, American have been left to wonder whether they have indeed benn chosen — whether they are, after all, "the children of light," or "the children of darkness."

1974 University of California Regents.

"Ours is the elect nation for the age to come," thundered evangelist Josiah Strong. "We are the chosen people." And his American countrymen agreed, and entered into a new age of imperialism and of periodic wars.

If Crawl Space Insulated, A House Is Warmer, Dryer

HOME AND YARD

By ANDY LANG

When a house has a crawl space underneath it, the use of insulation is especially valuable as an energy saver.

Attaching two or three inches of insulation to the underside of the rooms with a stapler is not difficult per se, but it can be a nuisance because the work must be done in cramped quarters.

An added benefit can be obtained by covering the ground with heavy roofing paper, overlapping each sheet about six inches and holding down the overlaps with sand. This latter step is helpful in preventing ground moisture from invading the house from underneath, a source of dampness and mildew.

THERE IS NO need to advise home owners in cold weather areas that insulating of the exposed pipes in crawl spaces is a necessity. But this is hardly crucial in Marin County as an anti-freezing precaution. All home owners should know, however, that the heat loss from heat and hot-water pipes is considerably. This can be eliminated by placing insulation on such pipes wherever they pass through spaces that do not require heat.

There are several varieties of such insulation on the market to fit standard pipes. The use of similar insulation on cold water pipes will prevent condensation.

If heating ducts are imbedded in the floor of a house built on a concrete slab, some insulating steps will have been taken in the original construction. In an existing house without such a heating arrangement, insulation should be placed on the outside of the foundation and up to the lower edge of the siding.

Insulation boards are easiest to handle for this purpose.

DIFFERENT KINDS of insulation are given different letter and number designations to show their tested resistance to the passage of heat.

In the most common designation — the letter R followed by a number — the higher the number the greater the insulating value of the insulation. Some recommended values are R-19 for ceilings; R-13 for floors and R-11 for walls. But there are many other designations — U, BTU, K, C, etc. — and it is best to have your dealer explain their meanings if you want an exact appraisal of the value of the insulation you select.

While it isn't generally considered in that light, insulation not only keeps the house warmer in cold weather and cooler in warm weather, it also acts as a sound barrier.

The fear of some persons that a house with too much insulation and weather-stripping does not permit sufficient air to enter the house is groundless. The United States Bureau of Standards says that only a 10 or 15 per cent air change is needed for normal ventilation and combustion of a heating plant. No matter how secure you make your house, there will be a sufficient amount of air change because of the passage of air through window panes, vents and construction materials, not to mention the opening and closing of doors.

MINI-POOL FOR MINI-PEOPLE

THE GAME OF POOL appeals to youngsters as well as adults. And Steve Ellingson has designed a pool table that is especially sized for the juniors. Furthermore, it fits well into cramped quarters such as small apartments. It's sturdy. It has real "live" cushions, regulation cloth and pocket liners and an automatic ball return. Except for size, it is pretty much like the more expensive, ready-made adult tables you see in the billiard parlors. The handyman can build it himself with the help of Ellingson's pattern. Just send $1.25 to Steve Ellingson, Independent-Journal pattern department, Post Office Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409, and ask for Mini-Size Pool Table Pattern 459. Along with the pattern you get 18 photographs illustrating the construction, and concise step-by-step directions.

The Master Bedroom Must Balance Masculine With Feminine In Decor

A master bedroom that's shared must reflect in most homes a compromise in decor. Adn a masculine-feminine balance in color, pattern and materials of both furniture and the room itself holds the best promise of full acceptance.

A bedroom, of course should be a haven of quiet, privacy and comfort, even though the busy couple spends few waking hours there. To create a restful feeling, its color scheme should not be too exciting.

ONE STRONG pattern usually is enough.

If draperies display a bright, splashy floral design, wall finishes and floor covering should be more subdued.

Some decorators are skilled enough to combine several patterns, but this can become confusing. Stop and think before opting for some of the superglow color schemes appearing in magazines and store windows.

They may turn tiresome from day-after-day contact.

Too little pattern and color, on the other hand, can make a room dull and lifeless from the outset.

ONE COUPLE achieved a happy balance in bedroom decor by building around a fine set of Early American maple furniture with brightly flowered chintz cottage curtains, bed skirting and chair cover in the same material, a multihued braided rug — and solid wood paneling on the walls.

Board paneling is warm and always interesting when finished to show the grain. It's neither frilly nor severe and cold, but is comfortable for both sexes.

These home owners chose one-by-10-inch boards with V-joint because they wanted a solid wood appearance, even though applying them involved a little more work than putting up wood fiber sheets with veneer or printed-on facing.

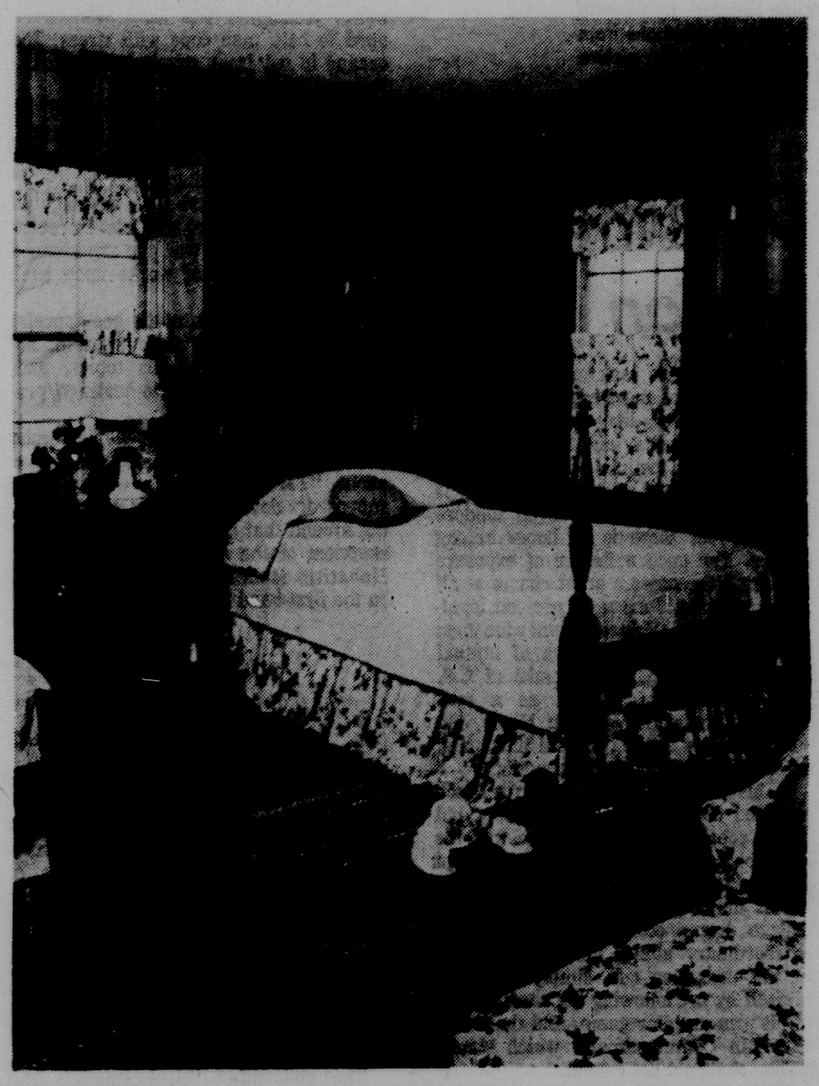
Among western species, flat-grain Douglas fir displays the richest pattern, quite similar to some of the much more expensive hardwoods. Western larch and cedar can be hand-picked to display rich patterns.

TO MATCH the appearance of the bedsteads, the paneling boards were finished carefully by hand. First, a sanding sealer was applied to assure even staining.

A board scrap was taken to a paint store and stains of various shadings were dabbed on to find the best match-up. This is an important precaution. A maple stain, for example, does not always match a maple bedstead.

Experiment first.

Over the stain was applied clear plastic resin varnish in a satin finish, thus assuring easy care and a longer life for the paneling.



THIS BEDROOM furnished in Early American style gains added charm from walls paneled with one-by-eight-inch V-groove boards, finished naturally so that texture and color add warmth to room decor. The hinged shutters were built of the same boards and enhance the period look.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔An early December feeding will help keep most California lawns greener during cool weather.

✔Top dress garden beds with compost, peat moss, or wood bark products. Start a compost pile from leaves you rake up. Your nurseryman can give you details on how to do it.

✔Shop for early-blooming Azaleas and Camellias now. You'll be delighted with the numerous possibilities.

✔Spring-blooming bulbs are still to be found in many nurseries, but you should plant them without further delay.

Calendar For The Organics

Are you bothered by ants around your patio?

Mint plants not only provide a fresh spearmint aroma but also repel ants.

Have problems with field mice in your back yard?

Garlic applied on your house plants will help eliminate this problem without the use of poisons.

These and other helpful hints are available in the 1975 edition of the Living Garden Calendar published by two environmental organizations, the Audubon Naturalist Society and Concern Inc.

House Plants For Christmas—And After

House plants make the perfect indoor decorations — not only during the holiday season, but all year and every year.

The natural beauty of living plants enhances the appearance of indoor settings. "Interiorscaping" the home with foliage plants extends the outdoor garden indoors — creating a "living-in-the-garden" feeling.

As in a well landscaped yard, the interiorscape should combine a wide range of color, form, and texture. Combining the outstanding shades of a Croton with an airy False Aralia, or the dense stature of the India-Rubber Tree with a Coleus, make good contrasts.

THE ELEGANCE plants give to indoor living is seemingly endless. Picture a bold-foliaged Schefflera silhouetted against handsome panelling or the sheer curtain of a picture window, a Boston Fern gracing an heirloom credenza or smashing plant stand, or a Split-Leaf Philodendron standing like a stately grandfather clock in the corner of the living room, or, perhaps the most striking of specimen indoor plants, the Weeping Fig, adding its delicate, weeping beauty to any corner — they all add life-giving beauty to the indoors.

For unusual accents to the interior furnishings of the home, try floor-to-ceiling plants in handsome ceramic pots, plants on stands or in wall brackets, or in antique coal scuttles or decorator boxes.

All delight the eye and illustrate the imagination of the "resident designer."

Bromeliads are houseplants that have been zooming in popularity in the U.S., as well they should. They have long been grown in Europe. And Hawaii and Southern California and got the jump on the rest of this country. But now other areas, including Northern California, are discovering them.

THEY ARE handsome foliage plants with striped, banded and colored leaves in fountains and rosettes. In bloom, they are exotic and spectacular — certain conversation pieces.

The African Violet is, of course, a favorite than can be grown in good artificial light without the sun. Fibrous begonias are another for cultivation with artificial light indoors.

Peperomias are especially charming in dish gardens. Grape Ivy is a good choice for hanging pots, as is the Spider plant.

For terrariums, the list is endless.

House plant culture is easy, says the California Association of Nurserymen. Provide plenty of natural light — but avoid direct sunlight. When it comes to watering, water according to the plants needs and not by the calendar.

House plants also make ideal Christmas gifts. They are gifts that keep on giving year in and year out — constantly expressing your thoughtfulness and good wishes.

HERE'S THE ANSWER TO YOUR QUESTION

By ANDY LANG

Q. - We have several mirrors in the house that could stand resilvering. I have been told that this can be done at home. Can you advise me of the method?

A. - The resilvering of mirrors requires chemicals that are dangerous to use, more so than chemicals used for other household purposes. For that reason, I never recommend that resilvering be undertaken by anyone except a professional.

Q. - We live in a two-family house and not ofly are permitted to make repairs or alterations, but must do so if we want them done. There are two small children in the family above us and recently they have formed the habit of running back and forth constantly. We get along well with the people and don't want to hurt their feelings, so we haven't told them about the annoyance of the noise. What we would like to od is to put up acoustical tile on our ceiling. Will this deaden the noise?

A. - Not very much. Acoustical tile is intended to absorb the noise in the room in which it is installed. You are going to have to find a diplomatic way of informing your neighbors of the problem or simply get used to it. Sometimes these things have a way of correcting themselves. Maybe the family will decide to install heavier carpeting, stop the children from running or move. Or perhaps the children will desist of their own accord.

Q. - I'm thinking about having vinyl siding installed on our house, which now has wood siding. Will the old material have to be removed first?

A. - In some cases, under unusual circumstances, yes. In nearly all cases, the new siding can be put on right over the oil. The installers will make the decision.

Q. — There is a scratch on the top of our dining room table, which is stained a dark brown. I have been told that it can be repaired with iodine. Is this true?

A. — Not repaired, but disguised. Try a couple of drops on the underside of the table to see if it provides a suitable match before using it on the top. Remember, too, that you can buy filler sticks in various shades for just such a purpose.

NYLON was the first of the man-made fibers found to be ideal for carpeting, and it is still the largest-selling of all the "miracle" fibers, since it is in everything from toothbrushes to stockings to drapery fabrics.
Nylon carpet fibers come in two forms. The "continuous filament" nylon you've heard about uses long, smooth continuous lengths of the fiber. These longer fibers have the advantages of reducing pilling or fuzzing. "Staple" nylon fibers are simply shorter fibers, usually about six inches. These are used effectively in the twisted yarns in cut-pile or mixed cut-and-loop nylon carpets.
The greatest plus of nylon is its resistance to abrasion (or wear), which is the highest of all fibers. For this reason nylon is often coupled with other fibers to give extra abrasion-resistance.
Nylon fibers offer great versatility in color and texture. While less soil-resistant than some, it cleans very easily, resisting waterborne stains especially so they can just be wiped up.
You'll love the way the new nylon carpets take to colors both brilliant and subtle. Look over our big displays, and let us help you choose the right color, texture, and style that's perfect for your home . . . and your budget.

Three Verdi Operas Now Can Be Spun

By WILBUR G. LANDREY

A good many people would recognize the name of Guiseppe Verdi even if they hadn't decided to make a motion picture about him, and opera's greatest composer (the Wagnerians will dispute it) is particularly well-served in the recent crop of recordings.

No fewer than three Verdi operas have been issued on records, including his second, "Un Giorno di Regno" (King for a Day) and his next to last "Otello", which help demonstrate the amazing development of his mucis.

"UN GIORNO DI Regno" was Verdi's first attempt at opera buffa; he was not to serve the muse of comedy again until the miracle of "Falstaff," his last opera when he was in his 80s.

"Giorno" was a failure, and that was why it had to wait 134 years to get its first complete, first stereo recording just released by Philips (6703 055).

The plot is not very good; because of the tessituras of its principal roles, it is difficult to cast; but the rousing vigor of Verdi is there rising above the imitation of Rossini and Donizetti.

The cast is excellent — Fiorenza Cosotto, Jessye Norman, Jose Carreras, Ingvar Wixell, Vincenzo Sardinero and Wladimiro Ganzarolli in the significant roles. It is well directed by Lamberto Gardelli with the Royal Philhermonic Orchestra.

In a way, it's too bad there isn't a new recording of "Falstaff" to compare with Verdi's first comic effort. But "Otello", the setting to music of Shakespeare's great tragedy, nevertheless demonstrates Verdi's musical and operatic development since "Giorno."

"Otello" was Verdi's answer to Wagner and those composers being influenced by him. In place of Wagner's magic emphasis on the orchestra, Verdi showed the way forward by keeping the focus on the singers and developoing a vocal line without interruption that binds together the opera in a way never achieved before and very seldom since.

Herbert von Karajan's production for Angel (SCLX-3809) realizes the Verdi drama with chilling clarity. The cast — Jon Vickers as Otello, Mirella Freni as Desdemona and Peter Glossop in the prize fole of Iago — is magnificent.

The orchestra is the Berlin Philharmonic.

THE OTHER RECENT Verdi opera on records is "Simon Boccanegra" by RAC (ARL 3-0564). This is the Verdi opera which had its not very successful premiere and first performance in 1865 and then was revised to come back triumphantly in 1881.

RCA produced this recording in Italy. The result is not quite as happy as the other two Verdi albums in casting or production, but its addition to the catalogue is nevertheless welcome.

Placido Domingo stands out in the cast which includes Katia Ricciarelli, Pierro Capuccilli, Ruggero Raimondi, Gion Piero Mastromei and Maurizio Mazzierei.

The conductor is Gianandrea Gavazzeni.

Finally, for Verdi lovers must be mentioned another Philips album of two records containing the complete ballet music from Verdi's operas conducted by Antonio Almeida with the Monte Carlo opera orchestra and the London Symphony orchestra (6747 093).

"LA BOHEME" (RCA ARL 2-0371) — this is a fine version of Giacomo Puccini's ever touching classic sung by the stellar cast of Monserrat Caballe, Placido Domingo, Sherrill Milnes, Judith Blegan and others under the direction of Sir Georg Solti with the London Philharmonic.

"Theresa" (London ADSA 1165) — This is a first recording of Jules Massenet's work, sung by Huguette Tournangeau, Ryland Davies and Louis Quilico in a production directed by Richard Bonynge with the New Philharmonia Orchestra.

"Hansel and Gretel" (RCA ARL 2-0637) — Engelbert Humperdinck's children's opera with a star cast of Anna Moffo, Helen Donath, Christa Ludwig, Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, Charlotte Berthold, Arleen Auger and Lucia Popp.

AN INTIMATE VIEW OF THE ROOSEVELTS

FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT saw the polio that had withered his legs as his "trial by fire" and turned to swimming with a special zest and joy as one means of strengthening his physique, says Marion Dickerman, long-time Roosevelt family friend and confidant, in the book, "Invincible Summer" by Kenneth S. Davis. The book is based upon Miss Dickerman's recollections, and is illustrated by photographs from her collection, most of them taken by Nancy Cook, another close friend of the Roosevelts. The picture above shows FDR at the pool at Val Kill in 1932. Atheneum published the $12.95 book, and it does, indeed, offer intimate new detail to an understanding of a family that left its strong imprint upon American history.

The New York Times Staff Documents Fall Of The Nixon Administration

THE END OF A PRESIDENCY by the staff of the New York Times; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 353 pages, $10. Reviewed by Lee Hopkins.

"The End of a Presidency" is an important book which performs the service of adroitly synthesizing the gradual slippage and final fall of the Nixon Administration.

The New York Times' treatment is a non-partisan and factual, drawn from public documents and sources of unquestionable integrity. The only editorial comments are brief connective essays by some of the Times' best commentators, such as James Reston and Anthony Lewis, which serve as catalysts to organize and give perspective.

Combining historical scholarship with the best traditions of American journalism, "The End of a Presidency" will serve as both a useful analysis of recent events, and as a good reference work in future.

In summary, the tape recording system which Richard M. Nixon secretly created to record the drumrolls and triumphs of his regime became the irrefutable witness which furnished the evidence to disgrace him. As an act of paramount inanity, this ranks with the news stories of greedy felons becoming too drunk to extricate themselves from the liquor stores thay have broken into.

ON the governmental level, it would be hilarious if it happened in Albania. But it occurred in our own capital city, and smiles fade.

Much of this material is quite revolting. No matter how familiar the famous tapes are, it is depressing to gain insight into these trivial, damp little men who were putting a price tag on the country. Even their profanity is without validity, their conspiracies lack minimal peasant cunning, and the anger expressed is shrill and directionless, like a teen-age minx dateless on Saturday night.

Nixon's legal training should have informed him that a conspiracy of many is difficult to sustain, while even folklore counsels that there is no honor among thieves. For once a fissure of exposure appears, it becomes a great chasm as all the opportunistic careers, pretend loyalties and hollow alliances crack wide open to release the scalding lava of mutual fear and suspicion. One thinks of C.S. Lewis' description of hell as a well lighted office with Venetian blinds, the bland demons tending toward blue suits, white collars and clean fingernails.

In his seventh crisis, Richard Nixon emerged as a man without honor; but what probably hurts him more was the inescapable verdict that he was an inept politician.

This man, who is remembered hy his college drama coach as having had an extraordinary ability to weep copiously at will and upon cue, simply destroyed himself by not following the cardinal rule of his own peculiar game. And that is the Eleventh Commandment, which states: "Thou shalt not get caught."

Nixon was oddly unaware of such things as the people's reverence for the Presidency of the Uited States; and he seems also not to have read the Constitution. Yet the electorate cannot simply shrug off a person who was a major political figure for 25 years, being elected time and again on a platform of innuendo, smear, platitude and hypocrisy.

That he survived so long raises some questions about collective intelligence. That he ultimately was found out gives us one more reason for thanksgiving as we celebrate our bicentennial next year.

Lawrence O'Brien — The Politician's Politician

NO FINAL VICTORIES: A Life in Politics from John F. Kennedy to Watergate, by Lawrence F. O'Brien; Doubleday, 385 pages, $12.50. Reviewed by Patricia M. Pegg.

It's no news that the Kennedy family makes big news. Major magazines strive, and generally succeed in getting from this maid or that childhood friend the real truth about Jack, Bobby, Jackie, Ted, Ethel or Rose.

Lawrence O'Brien, in his political geneology, "No Final Victories," doesn't stoop to that level. After a dozen years with assorted Kennedys, Larry O'Brien doesn't have to. It's his own painfully honest memory at work, regrinding his years of experiences on Capitol Hill with the same brilliant structure and attention to detail that rank him supreme as a political organizer.

To be sure, "No Final Victories" is eminently more than a politicized version of Ladies' Home Journal latest scoop. The chronology extends to Watergate and the Democratic national chairmanship. It's just that O'Brien started out with Jack Kennedy and was thereafter pegged a "Kennedy man." Even a stint as Lyndon Johnson's congressional advisor, and later as Hubert Humphrey's 1968 campaign organizer, wasn't enough to erase the Kennedy imprint.

O'Brien loved Jack Kennedy. It's obvious from the warm, loyal tones his pencil took as he wrote of their common agreement during congressional struggle, international disruption and Civil Rights decisions. In all of these instances and more, O'Brien performed all the political chores that he was good at: organizing, rallying, persuading, motivating, cajoling and pressuring — truly impressive actions when witnessed against the backdrop of two presidential administrations.

Later, as postmaster general and democratic national chairman, O'Brien again applied his talents in getting the job done. The U.S. Postal Service as we know it today (non-profit government corporation) was his brainchild and the unity of the Democratic Party tady has come about largely because of his efforts as national chairman.

Woven into the political drama is O'Brien's personal story. Inevitable, a hunky-dory private life suffers some from political involvements and committments. This was rather poignantly emphasized by the occasion of his son's commencement exercises from prep school. Surprised that his son won top academic honors, he praised: "This is wonderful Larry. I never knew he was doing so well."

"You never asked me, Dad," his son replied.

In the final analysis, what becomes apparent in O'Brien's book is his deep love for democracy and his grief at how politics, in the larger and uglier sense of the word, straps social change. "I learned in my years on Capitol Hill just how difficult it is to achieve social preogress in America. Powerful forces are arrayed against any legislative proposals they think will affect their wealth or influence."

That's quite a statement from a politicia, especially a politician's politician. Perhaps, in this case, statesman might be a better word.

Dr. Comfort Back Again In Sex Text

MORE JOY — A LOVEMAKING COMPANION TO THE JOY OF SEX, edited by Alex Comfort; Crown, 220 pages, $12.95. Reviewed by Jorie Parr.

Well, Dr. Comfort strikes again, with another "coffee-table" gourmet sex book, this time for advanced lovemakers. New gorgeous illustrations, by Charles Raymond and Christopher Foss, enhance, and there are new games, which any number can play.

Any book on intimate behavior is likely to put one off some where or other, by the kinky numbers, S & M, or in my case, the tacit approval of group sex.

However, there are many interesting points made in "More Joy."

On adolescent homosexuals: ". . . should be careful not to be hocused by society and by gay solidarity into taking a position, closing all other options, and settling to be gay for life."

On heart attacks: ". . . you need to get gentle sex started again as soon as you can start gentle exercise."

On later life: "Don't cut your rate of intercourse below what you've been used to, because with age sexual response, like muscular strength, is very susceptible to disuse . . ." And: "A regular partner who ages only gets ugly and undesirable to a loving man if she really lets herself go."

On threesomes: "The two like-sex participanis, instead of experiencing the jealousy expected by society, often become extremely close . . ."

Not if one is a Scorpio.

Kenneth Lamott Looks At New Techniques To Cope With Anxiety

ESCAPE FROM STRESS by Kenneth Lamott; Putnam, 211 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Medical science is taking a growing interest in stress and its relationship to some of man's most serious ailments.

Stress, or tension, has come to be suspect as a cause of or contributor to not only the diseases with which it has traditionally been associated, but with other maladies as well with which it was not previously associated.

If we grant that stress does play a major role in man's bodily and emotional complaints, then we are left with three course of conduct from which to choose:

1. Accept the situation and muddle through our stressful society as best we can, paying the penalty. Some seem to carry this approach a step further and to wallow in masochism, not just accepting but actually welcoming and reaching out for stress, and savoring the painful results.

2. Avoid the stress, although this is extremely difficult to do in today's world and particularly in stress-oriented America. Only a handful can accomplish a totally successful "drop-out."

3. Learn to handle stress — to meet it, cope with it and to minimize its harmful effects.

The title of Marin writer Kenneth Lamott's new book, "Escape From Stress," would appear to indicate that he is charting the second course. Instead, however, it is a resume of some of the newer techniques that have been developed to help man cope with stress. The escape is not from stress, but from the worst of its painful impact.

Among the techniques discussed by Lamott are transcendental meditation, yoga, biofeedback, hypnosis, acupuncture, autogenic training and Zen.

There is, of course, no shortage of books on any of these subjects. In recent years, in particular, we have experienced a veritable deluge of works upon such fields.

What gives Ken Lamott's book special status are, first, his down-to-earth, nononsense handling of his topics, and, second, his willingness to undergo personally the processes.

Thus his portion of a chapter upon Transcendental Meditation tells us more about "TM" than some whole books supposedly devoted to, but actually skirting around that subject. Lamott remains skeptical of the movement's guru, Yogi Maharishi Mahesh; but more important, on the first-hand basis of his own involvement through the Mill Valley center of the International Meditation Society, he concludes that transcendental meditation does work as a tension reliever — at least it did for him.

The reader can accompany Lamott to the Mill Valley center and learn exactly what goes on there for the novice meditator.

For the other subjects that he discusses, Lamott reaches virtually the same conclusion as he reached with Transcendental Meditation. To varying degrees, he finds, they do help alleviate stress and anxiety. And thus they would seem to offer real benefits toward healthier and longer lives for their practitioners. Some, he admits, have been the subjects of exaggeration and of faddism. But to some degree they do promote a harmony of the body that provides some inner immunity to the stresses that bombard us from the outside.

Lamott has some specific suggestions for capitalizing upon these discoveries.

He recommends stress clinics with trained stress therapists, as well as physicians and psychologists, in our cities and towns.

The unconventional subject of "letting go" might even be made a minor part of the school curriculum, he also suggests.

"What we are considering now is a mode of prevention that may work against the entire spectrum of major diseases," writer Lamott. "We must caution ourselves that we are talking only about a possibility, but it is a possibility that demands to be explored. It holds promise of leading us to a way of life in which we are no longer terrified that we may die at an unnecessarily early age from heart disease, cancer, stroke and diseases of the lung, which represent only the first four causes of death in America.

"The stakes are surely high enough to demand that we proceed forthwith."

It is an exciting possibility. And "Escape From Stress" is a stimulating book, offering hope to those caught up in the "tension trap."

THE NOTES OF A BROWSING BOOKMAN

Backgammon predates its rival chess by perhaps a thousand years. And as a game, it has enjoyed tall waves of popularity and deep valleys of neglect.

Right now it is riding high on one of its crest of interest.

More and more game and gambling enthusiasts are discovering the delights of backgammon which offers a sometimes bewildering merger of sheer skill and plain luck.

The aptly-titled "Backgammon: The Cruelest Game" (Random House, $8.95) by Barclay Cooke, one of the world's best players, and Jon Bradshaw, professional writer, amateur backgammonist, offers a thorough briefing on the game, from rules and basic moves into the intricacies and psychological subleties of play. It's a slick production, beautifully designed, and it is aimed at all levels of players.

A splendid Christmas gift choice for the enthusiast on your list.

FOR THOSE who revel in nostalgia, Dover, a publishing house that more often produces reprints, has issued an original softcover book, "Horsecars, Cable Cars and Omnibuses," as put together and annotated by Josh H. SLEUTHS & SUSPENSE

THE JUDAS FREAK by Hugh Pentecost; Dodd, Mead, 184 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Mary Craig.

Julian Quist, full-time public relations expert and part-time sleuth, returns in an adventure set in the world of television.

When David Hale, client and friend of Quist, is selected to launch a new talk show, anonymous letters are received by the network's head and other concerned people. An old snapshot accompanies the cryptic warning about a mysterious old story.

The only skeleton in David's life is hardly closeted, having been a flaming public affair with a movie sex queen. But the amount of money involved makes everyone edgy.

With only the old snapshot as a starter, (and the death of a "newshen" as incentive) Quist plunges into a mystery that produces one tight twist after another. The climax scene is a smasher that provides a fitting ending to a good fast story.

In 1973, under the pseudonym of Judson Philips, Hugh Pentecost received the Mystery Writers of America Grand Master Award. And he really should have demanded a better break on this book's jacket which is cheapening as well as inappropriate to the book.

Hero Toys Loom Big This Yule

Toys have traditionally enjoyed their "place in the sun" at Christmas time, as well they should.

A look at last year's statistics serves to point out how much impact Christmas shopping has on annual toys sales.

In 1973, 68 million children under the age of 17 received an average of $35.80 worth of toys during Christmas, over half of the yearly expenditure of $67.54 per individual.

The total amount expended on toys in 1973 was $4,600,000,000 and $2,400,000,000 of this was spent at Christmas.

IN GENERAL, THE toy industry expects sales to be strong again this year and Sears, Roebuck and Co. predicts realistic action toys, such as Evel Knievel stunt toys, will dominate Christmas selections.

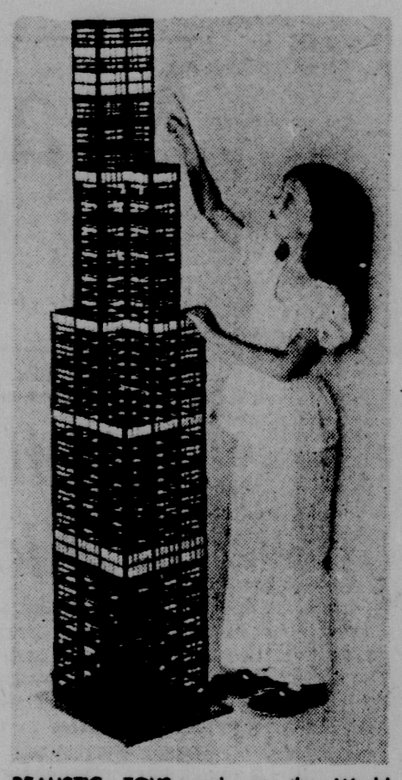
Hero figures have consistently been popular with children as witnessed by the success of Davy Crockett, Batman and Lone Ranger toys.

This year, Knievel is capturing children's imaginations after his recent attempt to leap the Snake River Canyon. As a result, stunt sets, racing games and other action sets are expected to be among the top sellers of this holiday season and could top 100 million dollars in sales in 1974. And they offer the child an opportunity to enjoy vicariously daredevil excitement without personal danger.

Action figures are also expected to be popular in the greatly varied and expanded selection of dolls.

Barbie, who celebrates her 16th birthday this year, is still a big favorite, as are life-like baby dolls; however, they're sharing more of the center stage with sportswomen dolls like Dusty and Derry Daring and the likes of G. I. Joe, Big Jim and Steve Scout along with an entourage that includes cars, jeeps, a safari setting and a pirate ship.

REALISM IS ALSO being stressed in toys that are molded after familiar places. Scaled-down versions of McDonald's, Holiday Inns and world famous buildings provide recreational tools that are easy to relate to because of their real-life counterparts.



REALISTIC TOYS such as the World Famous Buildings Set occupying this little girl will offer youngsters greater access to true-to-life recreational tools this Christmas. The set includes authentically styled girders and panels, and comes with a project book. It can also be used to create new designs.

Children, the toymakers say, have become more demanding in their desire for authenticity in their playthings. Toys that substitute for mother or father's real life tools or appliances must bear more than just a resemblance to the real thing.

Toymakers see it as an indication of a growing sophistication among the young, and are struggling to keep pace with the trend.

WITH A VAST assortment of toys to choose from this year, it looks like kids have their Christmas list work cut out for them.

Little do they know that Santa has an even bigger job ahead of him, for if each child averages eight gifts this Christmas, he'll need a sleigh that measures one mile wide by one mile high by five miles long to carry all of them. That's a heavy load, even for Santa's spirited reindeer.

Young Will Treasure Well-Chosen Books

By MAXINE KEOWN

A well chosen book as a Christmas gift for the child has a very good chance of becoming a treasured possession, not just during the holiday season, but for a long, long time to come.

Some possibilities this year:

What better for Christmas giving than a Christmas story? "A Christmas Adventure" (Holt, Rinehart, $5.95) by Phyllis La Farge, illustrated by Ray Cruz, is based upon that old and happy legend that on Christmas Eve the animals can talk. This wondrous once-a-year ability extends, it seems, to birds as well, and thus do brothers Dan and Matthew get caught up in an adventure — a kidnapping, no less. It seems, just like there are good guys and bad guys, so there are good birds and bad birds. But naturally at Christmas time, the good win out. For 5 to 9-year-olds, and a lively tale.

"Over the River and Through the Wood" (Coward, McCann, $595) deals not with Christmas, but with another great holiday, Thanksgiving Day, already past. But the festive spirit remains appropriate. It is, of course, the classic poem of Lydia Maria Child, first published in 1844, about one family's trip by sleigh to spend the holiday with the grandparents. This new version sparkles with the captivating illustrations by Briton Turkle, one of juvenile literature's most distinguished artists. And as a bonus, there's the traditional music to which Miss Child's poem was set and to which it has been sung for lo these many years.

IF CHRISTMAS HAS a rival as a holiday among the little ones, it must be the birthday. "Jeremiah Knucklebones" (Holt, Rinehart, $5.50) by Jan Wahl with pictures by Jane Breskin Zalben is the comical tale of how the puppy Jeremiah, spurred on by the gift of a new bicycle, sets out to see the world — and encounters more than his share of excitement. The Zalben black and white drawings are part cartoon, part sketch, and add immensely to the fun. For 4 to 7-year-olds, and a jolly romp.

For older children, Oklahoma's Harold Keith, a veteran author of novels for juniors, has written "Susy's Scoundrel, (Crowell, $4.95), set in his Sooner state. It has a conservation theme, being about the coyote Reddy and his sometimes precarious existence in a man-dominated country. Reddy, however, has a friend in the little Amish girl, Susy Zook. Which makes this book especially suited for girls about 10. Keith writes well, as he proved with his Newbery Medal-winning "Rifles for Watie," and he takes the necessary pains to accurately depict wildlife.

The once neglected and maligned coyote is also the hero of "Coyote Tales" (Holt, Rinehart, $4.95), a collection of four American Indian tales about this courageous and crafty animal, selected by Hettie Jones and illustrated by Louis Mofsie. Authentic Indian symbols are worked into the book, and the stories are of the kind that have fascinated children for generations.

YET ANOTHER collection of folk tales from the North American Indians and about animals is "Stiff Ears" (Walck, $4.95), put together by Alex Whitney. The hero of the title story is a jackrabbit whose pride leads to his downfall. A mouse, a porcupine and the buffalo are among the other central characters in stories selected for a 7 to 10-year-old audience. Their Indian origins lie with the Chippewas, not one of the better known tribes today, but clearly, one of the most creative and imaginative. Whitney has done his own attractive full-page illustrations.

For the science-minded youngster, "Zooming In" (Harcourt Brace, $7.75) by Barbara J. Wolberg, with photos by her father, Dr. Lewis R. Wolberg, serves as an introduction to the fascinating revelations of the microscope. It opens up to the child the world too tiny to be seen by the naked eye, and Dr. Wolberg's microphotography is brilliant. The publisher has not stinted on space, but has printed the photographs large-size, thus maximizing their impact. The target for the book is the mature child with a willingness to tackle a subject of startling concept and dimensions.

"Cyndy's Animal Calendar 1975-- (McGraw-Hill, $1.95) is an annual production, with Cyndy Szekeres providing an engaging cast of animal characters whose antics should keep the children giggling all next year. Spiral bound and perforated for hanging, it's an engagement calendar, with space for daily notations. Also by Cyndy Szekeres and McGraw-Hill at $2.95, "My Workbook Diary," spiral bound, and inhabited by somewhat more subdued, but very cute, animal characters. Games and puzzles are included.

IN SOFTCOVER, at $2.25, is "Crochet for Beginners" (Lippincott), with photos by Edward Stevenson, offering guidance for the nimble-fingered youngsters — or the not-so-young beginner — in a time-honored and useful needlecraft. Scarves, belts, afghans, rugs, hats, bags are among the projects. Miss Rubenstone is a former home economics instructor turned librarian, and authored an earlier successful book on knitting for beginners. She is adept at making her instruction clear and concise.

The success of the "Little House on the Prairie" television series has resulted in a renewal of interest in a literary figure most deserving of that attention. "West From Home" (Harper, $4.95) is a compilation of letters written by Laura Ingalls Wilder during her visit in 1915 with her daughter in San Francisco. Writing to her husband back on their Missouri farm, Mrs. Wilder transmitted the excitement of a great and growing city that had recovered from the earthquake and fire to the point where it could stage a glittering exposition. She was a good reporter and pictures the place and era vividly. Roger Lea MacBride has edited the book for young readers, and Margot Patterson Doss has written an introduction setting the historical stage for the letters.

Dee Brown's adult book "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee" was a best-seller. For younger readers, he and adapter Amy Ehrlich present that same material in "Wounded Knee: An Indian History of the American West" (Holt, Rinehart, $6.95). It is an unvarnished account of how the Indian lost land and culture before the white man's onslaught. Brown doesn't pretty up the story. But today's young people have shown they can handle truth. There are maps and photographs. But, most important, a lot of truths.

Good coloring books remain a prized gift for young recipients. Two new ones from Dover, both $1.50, are "Katie Greenaway's Brithday Coloring Book" with 365 pictures rendered for coloring by Nancy Perkins, plus calendar blocks for recording birthdates, personal notes and other memoranda; and "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz," alive with pictures of the classic L. Frank Baum characters done by W. W. Denslow. Both books are charmers. And splendid time-occupiers.

VERNON HOWARD'S "Pantomime, Charades and Skits" (Sterling, $3.95) has been published in its 12th printing with considerable revision since it first appeared in 1959. While it is said to be intended for both adults and children, it is best suited to the youngsters — or to adults working with children. Howard, author of a number of books upon subjects ranging from puppetry to monologues, describes the techniques involved in the silent portrayal of dramatic situations, both body movement and facial expression, and suggests exercises that should be fun as well as helpful. In all, some 1,000 mime situations and charades are suggested.

A BOOK ABOUT CHRISTMAS, received on Christmas, makes that gift something very special for the child. This little boy is enjoying "Santa's Bear Is Soft and Warm," the newest "Golden Touch and Feel Book" from Golden Press of New York. The child cannot only read the text, but experience as well the feel of Santa's fluffy whiskers and of shiny round ornaments. And there are Santa's suspenders to be snapped. Plus the fresh, clean fragrance of pine, to be whiffed from a Christmas tree. And a final surprise hidden under a warm, red plaid blanket. All for $2.95.

Paul Galdone has dressed up that Brothers Grimm classic, "Little Red Riding Hood," with his own style of illustrating in a new $5.95 edition for McGraw-Hill. The story every child knows already. But Galdone's imaginative pictures use color so effectively that the old tale takes on new life. The $5.95 price tag, however, seems a bit stiff for a slender book, despite its artistic merit.

Children who grew fond of 7-year-old Everett Anderson in two previous books by Lucille Clifton will enjoy a renewal of that acquaintanceship in "Everett Anderson's Year." In verse, month by month, livewire little Everett enjoys life with all the zest of the very young. Ann Grifalconi is the illustrator and has adopted an unusual, very effective silhouette style. Lots of fun in this one.

Newlywed Food Freak, Loves Cooking

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Susan Howard, the blonde and pretty wife of the "Petrocelli" series, is a Texas gal who married a Texan who makes the best chili in California.

A newlywed, Susan married Calvin Chrane, an advertising executive, only last May.

They went together for five years before deciding to marry. Although they are both Texans, they met in Hollywood. And as much as anything else Susan's cooking won him over.

She is a food freak who loves to cook. Southern dishes are her specialty —turkey with cornbread dressing, chicken fried steak and gravy with bisquits, apple pie, hams, curry and Mexican goodies.

The Chranes don't have domestic help, but Susan entertains regularly and does all the cooking herself.

Home is a spacious apartment, three bedrooms, and den, in the San Fernando Valley. It is part of a triplex surrounded by fig trees, nectarines and peaches.

Susan has decoratd the rooms in a Spanish motif with some genuine antiques and some furniture especially made for her.

Her pride and joy is a 250-pound coffee table of leaded glass and wrought iron which the prop man on the "Mannix" television series built for her after she made an appearance on that show.

Another conversation piece is an antique wash basin made of German silver from an old-fashioned private railroad car, a gift from her father who was a railroad man. The colors in the apartment are earthy browns, oranges and rusts, highlighted by bright greens.

In order to costar in the NBC-TV series, Susan had to leave her nest to live in a hotel in Tucson, Ariz., where "Petrocelli" is filmed entirely on location.

She took along the family pet, a mutt named Molly.

Susan works from 14 to 18 hours a day, getting up before dawn to go before the cameras with the first rays of sunlight. She returns, exhausted, to the hotel at nightfall.

When she isn't too tired Susan goes for a dip in the hotel pool. Happily, Calvin has opened an office in Arizona to avoid the six-month separation inevitable with such series.

There are drawbacks to living on location. Susan isn't able to cook. But she did play hostess at a party for the crew, a Mexican fiesta which she had catered.

But there are advantages, too. She and Calvin are taking advantage of the desert vistas, hiking into the back country. She's also catching up on reading.

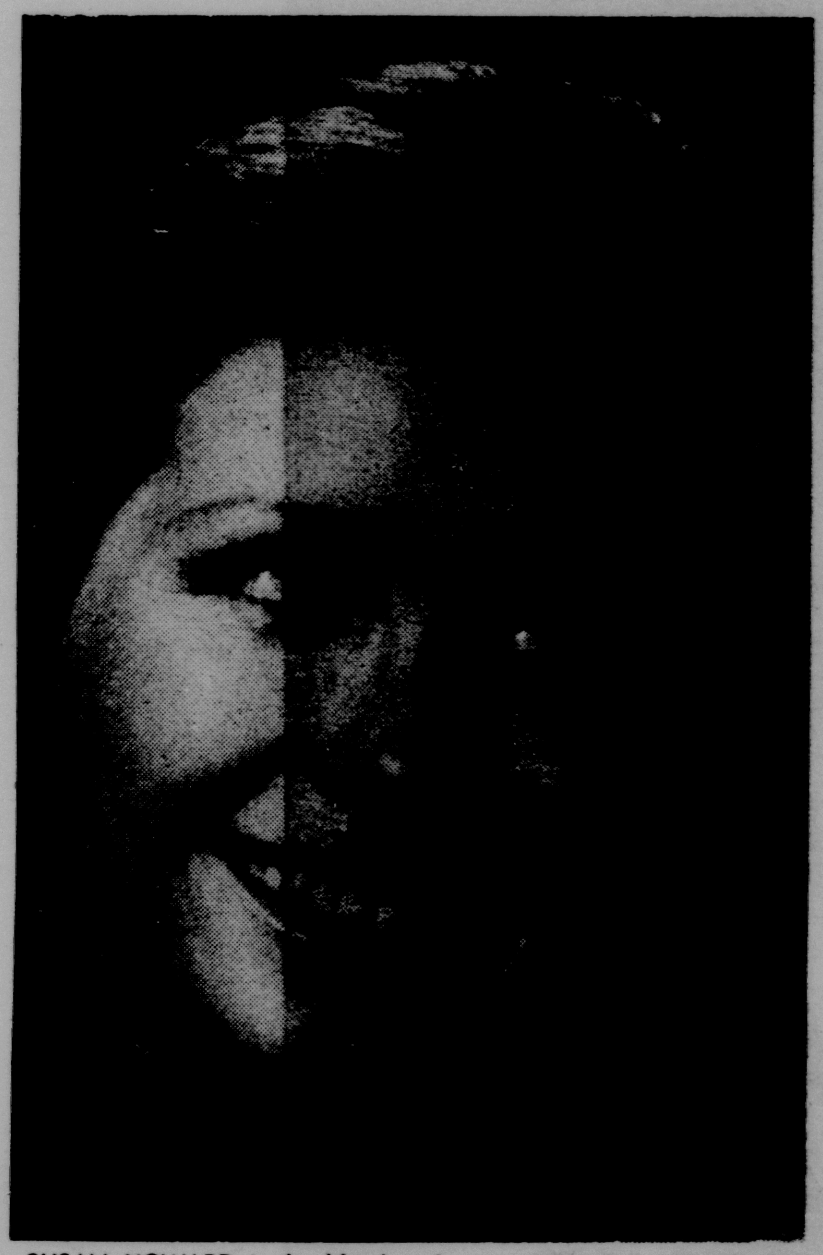
Admittedly not overly gifted musically, Susan is teaching herself to play the guitar and piano during her free hours.

Because she plays a New York sophisticate who has come west because of her husband's career, Susan is among the best-dressed actresses on the television tube.

She went to Manhattan before the show began and picked out her own wardrobe. She wears blue jeans out on the desert and prefers pants herself, but she thinks skirts are more feminine.

Susan protects her fair skin from the blistering desert sun by earing cowboy hats out on location sites. She's also thinking about buyting a pair of boots. Crew members killed a rattlesnake five feet from the door of her dressing room.

But Susan Howard is a trouper. "Petrocelli" is show business and that's what she bargained for.



SUSAN HOWARD is the blond and pretty wife of the "Petrocelli" series — and a newlywed in real life.

TELEVISION NOTES

Special Shakespeare Show In Three-Hour Spectacular

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jan. 4 is the date for ABC's airing of the Royal Shakespear Company's production of "Antony and Cleopatra," starring Richard Johnson and Janet Suzman. The three-hour attraction is one especially conceived for television.

Jackie Gleason will be host for the fifth annual American Guild of Variety Artists "Entertainer of the Year Awards" to be telecast as a 90-minute special by CBS on Jan. 18. Members in 12 entertainment categories will be honored. The late Ed Sullivan was thehost of previous programs.

Universal Television has signed playwright Tennessee Williams to write an original drama for video. This is the first time he has written for the home screen.

NBC has another three-year contract for exclusive U.S. television rights to title matches of the Wimbledon Open Tennis Championships in England. The first three-year agreement expired this year.

Playboy Productions has actress Sally Field, star of several previsiou television series, signed for another series being developed for the 1975-76 season.

Anya Seaton's best-selling nove, "The Winthrop Woman," is being developed into a video drama for ABC. The historical work is based on the life of Elizabeth Fones, a member of the John Winthrop family in the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1630.

A future "World Premiere" movie for NBC is a dramatization of New York's Snyder-Gray murder case of the late 1920s. A wife and her parmour were executed for the murder of her husband.

The long defunct "Beverly Hillbillies" situation comedy series currently is enjoying reruns in 83 cities through Viacom Inc.

John Astin has been added to the cast of MGM's "The Death of Sammy," an NBC television movie starring James Franciscus.

Charles Durning, one of the original stars of the Broadway hit, "That Championship Season," has been signed for a top role with Al Pacino in "Dog Day Afternoon" at Warner Bros.

Latin Performers Alejandro Rey, Joe Santos and Barbara Luna will all guest star in an episode of television's "Kung Fu" series.

WHEN SANTA'S FEELINGS are hurt by an anonymous letter to the editor in the local paper denouncing him as a myth, Father Mouse telephones the North Pole to smooth things over, on the animated musical special, "Twas the Night Before Christmas," Sunday at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

PATRICIA NEAL and Andrew Duggan star as the parents of a large family living in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia during the Depression, in Earl Hamner's "The Homecoming: A Christmas Stor." The special, which inspired "The Waltons" weekly series, will be shown on Sunday at 8:30 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

MARY MURPHY guest-stars as director of a playground in which shootings occurs in "Speak No Evil," on the detective series "Ironside," Thursday at 9 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

PRIVATE INVESTIGATOR Harry Orwell (series star David Janssen), who unwisely permitted himself to become romantically involved with an attractive, wealthy divorcee during his investigation into the death of a friend, begins to regret it, in the concluding episode of a two-part story, "Forty Reasons to Kill." It will be shown on the weekly series "Harry O," Thursday at 10 p.m. on Channels 7 and 11.

CAROL LYNLEY PORTRAYS A manic despressive confined to an asylum in the bizarre thriller, "Shock Treatment," the Chiller Diller Movie to be seen Saturday at 1 p.m. on Channel 2.

JEAN MARSH portrays Rose in the Public Television showing of "Upstairs, Downstairs," currently airing on Channel 9 on Sundays as part of Masterpiee Theater.

Cockney Servant Girl Heads On Publicity Tour Of The U.S.

By ARTHUR UNGER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The cockney servant girl who has become an American institution — head parlormaid Rose of the Bellamy household — is once again headed cross country to alert the U.S. to the imminent arrival of the second season of the most popular series ever on Public Television, "Upstairs, Downstairs."

Jean Marsh, who cocreated the series in England and portrays Rose as well, breakfasts with me close by the home of actress Geraldine Fitzgerald with whom Jean stays when she is in New York.

"I almost feel that we are becoming a giant conglomerate," Jean muses. "I'm so excited. There'll be an American musical version of the series on Broadway soon. Hugh Wheeler, Sheldon Harnick, and Burton Lane are doing it. I get billing as 'downstairs' consultant and the English producer gets billing as 'upstairs' consultant. I'm working class and he's posh so we'll keep our eyes on it that way."

Will Jean Marsh be featured in the show? "Wouldn't that be lovely? I'm a dancer, you know, but not a singer. If there's a part in it that I'm right for, I intend to audition for it. Everybody says I should have it written into the contract — but I think that's silly. I wouldn't want to be forced on anybody. We shall see."

Miss Marsh also revealed that CBS has acquired the rights to the series and plans to coproduce an American version using the upstairs-downstairs idea just as "All in the Family" and "Sanford and Son" were loosely based on British television series.

What else is in the works for Jean Marsh? "Well, there isn't much time for things other than Rose. In England we are now in the fourth series, and we will be starting the fifth in December. But you must remember that here in America, the first two series were compressed into one — because some were in black-and-white. So, what is your second is our third. The series on in England now goes from the opening to the closing of World War I.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR LIBERACE

Why do you wear all those fancy costumes?—J. J., Los Angeles, Calif.

● It's all an accident. Before my first appearance at the Hollywood Bowl in the '50's. I always wore black tails. But the producers were worried that the audience might not see me clearly because the orchestra wore black too. They suggested WHITE tails. It caused a stir, and the press asked what I'd wear for my Vegas Hilton Hotel opening. I hadn't thought about it. My sister Angie was wearing a gold lamé dress, so I said "gold lamé." That facetious remark was printed, so I went through with my promise. That's how my wardrobe (which costs over $100,000 a year) was born.

FOR KAY ISELIN GILMAN, daughter of the N.Y. Jets president and author of "Inside the Pressure Cooker"

I read that Joe Namath is angry with you about your book on the Jets' disastrous 1973 season. Why?—T. R. Lansing, Durham, N.C.

● I said he was arrogant and that his teammates resented the special treatment given to him, the hours spent on buses waiting for him and the times he showed up at the therapeutic sessions obviously suffering from a hangover and left early. I wasn't surprised when, after the book appeared, he gave me a nasty look and didn't say hello.

FOR JANE POWELL

I'm short, and I'm told I could look taller if I did certain things. Can you give me some hints?—H. L., Salem, Ore.

● Don't make the mistake of piling your hair high! It's a poor trick and will make you look all head. I'm 5-1 and pay great attention to my clothes. I choose them in one color, with NO break at the waist (that tends to make short people look shorter). I'm partial to turtlenecks—they give an "optical illusion" of length and height. And, of course, high heels (but not too high, or else you'll look all feet).

FOR BARRY NEWMAN, star of "Petrocelli"

I'd like to know something about you, and if you and Paul Newman are cousins.—Alfred A. Strouts, Coos Bay, Ore.

● Paul and I are not related. I'm the OTHER blue-eyed sex symbol! I'm a strange mixture: My father was Viennese, my mother is Swedish—and, like Paul, I'm part Jewish. The nearest I ever got to Italy was an Italian restaurant. At school I boxed, did well in track, majored in anthropology and ended up as a door-to-door Bible salesman and hat checker to pay for my acting course. My heroes are Bogart, Garfield and Cagney, and I'm a bachelor.

FOR VAN JOHNSON

Do most performers like to watch their own movies on TV?—Loree Cohn, Toms River, N.J.

● I can't answer for others, but I don't. First of all, usually they're so cut they're almost unrecognizable. Secondly, that gent on the screen is so much better looking than the one I see in the mirror.

FOR GEORGE BLANDA of the Oakland Raiders

I have heard that you will retire after this season and will go into coaching. True?—Dale A. Carter, Randolph Air Force Base, Texas

● Someday, maybe, but not this year. They're going to have to cut my uniform off me to get me to retire. I'm only 47, you know.

FOR ANN LANDERS

Your defense of the "sanctity" of men's clubs leads me to believe you are anti-Women's Liberation. True?—Mrs. W. D., Quincy, Mass.

● I am neither pro—nor anti—Women's Lib. I am strongly in favor of women getting salaries and promotions commensurate with their abilities. I am, however, opposed to loudmouthed dames who try to push their way into all-male clubs where they are not welcome. Men do not belong every place—and neither do women.

FOR SHIRLEY MacLAINE

I know you travel a great deal, usually by yourself. Don't you ever get lonely?—R. J., Canton, Ohio

● I've been alone in Africa, the Far East, Europe and the U.S., but never lonely. I've been on my own for as long as two months but am never conscious of it because I'm surrounded by books, music and my thoughts. If I'm in desperate need of company, I pick up the phone. Many feel marriage is a solution to loneliness. I don't. I know many couples who share a bed, but are spiritual strangers.

FOR ROY M. COHN, attorney and author

Lawyers are always so serious, as though they were born that way. How about you?—L. Sills, Albany, N.Y.

● In my case you're right. I never read comics as a kid. I read books on law. My father was a judge and, from age eight, I spent my time in courtrooms. By ten, I knew what I wanted to be. I never went through the uncertain stage that other kids do. However, now that I'm "older and wiser" I find there's more to life, and I like vacations, theater, movies and socializing.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Since Walt Disney passed away, who has taken over? And tell me something about the two Disney amusement parks. —Chuck Little, Delta, Colo.

● A group of men who knew Disney well carry on his ideas and traditions. Walt's two daughters aren't interested in the business, but one of his sons-in-law is a company executive. One son of Roy's (Walt's late brother) is also an official. Orlando's Disney World cost $600 million—35 times as much as Disneyland! When Walt was raising money for Disneyland (it opened in 1955 with an original investment of $17 million; now it's listed at $150 million), he had his work cut out to convince not only his brother, but also the bankers who arranged the financing and were super-skeptical about its chances of succeeding.

In a Boy's Own Simple, Truer-Than-Life Words:

Why I Love Being a Boy On a Farm

From a book by photographer Archie Lieberman

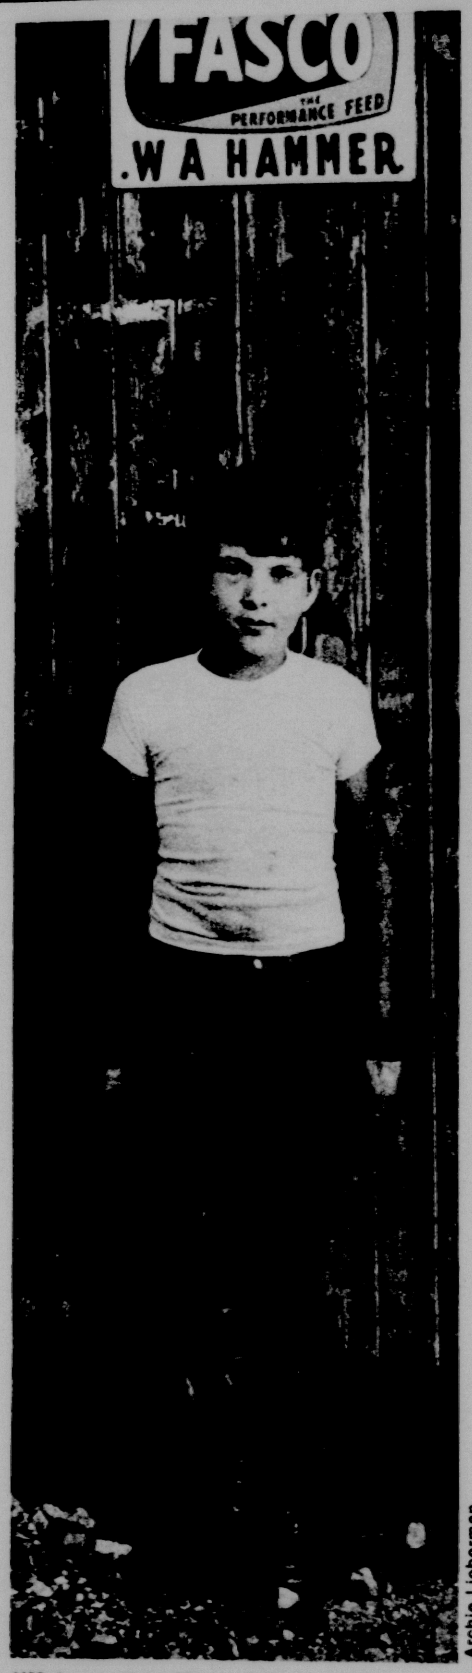
"In the evening the sun goes down over another ridge, and you know you have lived a sensible day."
—The photographer

The Photographer Talking:

I had traveled a great deal, here and abroad, but came back to Jo Daviess County periodically to make pictures. After one of my closest friends was killed photographing a war I went out to the farm to reassure myself that the world, somewhere, still made sense.

In the morning the sun rises over the ridge and you truly know the day has begun. Roosters really crow, cows moo, pigs "oink," church bells toll and streams swish and gurgle. People work, pray and play. They sew doilies, quilt, can food, bake wonderful cakes and eat well. The ground smells the way ground should, the tractor groans power, the manure spreader enriches the earth, the bees fly to clover, a neighbor on a dusty road waves as he passes in a pickup, the hay is sweet, the scent of silage is slightly intoxicating, the farm dog runs barking alongside the sheep or cattle he herds, the crickets sing, the birds go about their business. Everything goes about its business in a natural way. In the evening the sun goes down over another ridge, and you know you have lived a sensible day.

These were the images I was thinking about when I drove out to the Illinois farm on which lived three generations of Hammers – Willis, the grandfather, Willis, Jr., the father, and young Jim, the son. I had been taking pictures of the family for 20 years, and I had taken the road to the Hammer farm many times. I carried with me a tape recorder and a case full of pictures of the years I had photographed the Hammers and their land. There had never been much talk among us—it was as though I had been involved in a motion picture without a sound track—and there are things that can be understood only through words. So with the pictures in front of us, the tape recorder turned on, we reviewed the past. One of the talkers was young Jim, age 13. These are his thoughts.



Archie Lieberman

"I'd want to live close to Mom and Dad. I'd get married, I hope so. What kind of girl? One that won't mind working. We'd have a son first . . . and name him James Alan Hammer, Jr., because I would like him named after me because that's the way Grandpa did to Dad. Then we could all be together. That's a family. Some people to be with. People you like."
—Jim Hammer, age 13

The Boy Talking:

I want to be a farmer, because I like the work. You don't have anybody over you all the time. You judge it by your own sense. You don't have somebody telling you how to do it all the time. Like in other jobs, there's always somebody over your head. I'd like to be my own boss. Oh, doing my chores sometimes gets a little hard, getting the cows and stuff. Dad worked harder when he was a boy. I don't need to work as much, probably because there's a lot more machines. But yesterday I worked pretty hard baling, throwing those bales around . . . haha, throwing myself around. My favorite work is chopping—and, oh, it's just fun sitting there, going asleep in the green chop [freshly cut and chopped hay].

The chores I do, Dad gave them to me: scrape out the barn, get the barn ready, help make hay, get the cows by myself, help feed the calves, and this year the tractor (I got to throttle it and steer it and all) first time. Oh! And I've got to plow. I was proud of myself. I've always wanted to help in the field, but there was nothing for me to do except hook the harrow behind the disk and stuff. I like the work.

Chickens? That's not my job; that's Grandma's job most of the time. That's women's work; they're usually the ones that want them. They do the cooking and stuff like that, and Mom helps in the field, helps us all over, rakes hay when we need help.

I like being a boy. Get to do more stuff. Like my sisters, they can't go with my dad as much as I can. We're alike. We both like living on the farm. We both like to do a lot of things, the same things. He likes to play basketball and I like to do that. He likes building and I like building. Learned a lot from him. I like to help him; just, oh, I guess I figure I might as well hang around as much as I can. He won't be here all the time. So I might as well. I'll try farming with him—when I grow up.

Do you know what I think when you say "the land"? I think I call it "the ground." In a kind of a way I love the ground. Because you've got to have the ground to live. It grows all things, you eat the plants, you've got to have ground to survive. Do you know what I like about the farm? Well, one thing is that you've got a lot of space to do what you want.

I consider two places my home place. One at our place and one at Grandma's place. I suppose I'll be living either at the place where we live now or at my grandma's. I'd want to live close to Mom and Dad. I'd get married, I hope so. What kind of a girl? One that won't mind working. We'd have a son first. . . and name him James Alan Hammer, Jr., because I would like him named after me because that's the way Grandpa did to Dad. Then we could all be together. That's a family. Some people to be with. People you like.

What did Mom teach me? For one thing, she taught me how to mow the lawn. She showed me how to tie my shoes. That's one of the things I'll never forget. I used to sit there all morning tying my shoes. And she tries to teach me to live decent. Like some people don't have a very good life because they don't settle down in one place. They move a lot. Like they move to one place and don't stay very long. They could live in Illinois for a while and then move to California. I like Illinois; it's just my home state. She'd like me not to growl, be a grump. Like with the land: sometimes I feel pretty awful about it when something goes wrong, when the crops won't grow right—there's too much clay; when those animals were dying. It was awful, felt awful.

I like all the cows we have. Can't say the same for the pigs. It depends. If they chase me out, I don't like them too well. Yesterday morning one of them got at me. I jumped over the fence though. That old sow! I had to kick her in the nose, and then she turned around and went away. Those sows, sometimes they'll eat their own babies. They'll smother them, too.

Let's see. Then Mom wants me to be a good Christian—to go to church every Sunday, at least every Sunday that you can. Pray at night. Worship God. Send money to the poor. Love your enemies. Be thankful, like for the farm, and if the crops go well. Well, even if they don't. And I'm thankful for my mom and my dad and my grandma and my grandpas, my cousins, and my sisters, and all my friends.

From "Farm Boy," by Archie Lieberman, published by Harry N. Abrams, Inc., 1974.

When I lost 48 pounds, I started going places and doing things.

By Barbara Truitt — as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

At 160 pounds, I may have smiled about my new outfit, but I wasn't very happy about my way of life.

Have you ever noticed how fat people seem to spend a lot of time watching television? In my case, it's where I did much of my eating and most of my gaining — going up to 160 pounds. It was kind of an escape way of living. I was able to lose myself in other people's doings, and forget that I was sitting home, doing nothing myself. Fact is, it saved me the worry of what I'd wear if I were going out. But it didn't save me the tears I shed when my husband, Bobby, made remarks about my weight. Like the time he and I and the children were watching a jungle show. "Hey, there's Mama," he said, when a hippopotamus walked by. I'll tell you, that remark hurt!

Other times Bobby would just nag at me to take off that "snacking" fat. I guess he was plain sick of seeing me feeding on bags of potato chips, boxes of candies and pints of ice cream. Why, the arguments that scene caused were enough to upset any family.

Besides that, I'd got it in my head that Bobby was looking at other girls, so I became jealous and started crying: "You don't love me any more." I found out later it wasn't true, but my carrying on like that made Bobby so mad, we wound up feuding all the time. Which made me miserable.

It was after one of those teary sessions that I got myself some diet pills. Oh, I lost weight with them, but before I'd even taken half the bottle, I was in such a jittery state that I had to quit them. Then I started eating frantically and gaining weight again. Believe me, my life was absolutely miserable.

I began to think nothing could make me control my appetite, until the day I was reading a magazine and saw an Ayds ad in it. It was the same day I'd been on a shopping trip and discovered that only size 18 slacks would fit. That's when I decided it was time to stop crying and to start losing.

Fortunately, I learned from the ad that Ayds® Reducing Plan Candy contains vitamins and minerals, but no drugs, so I didn't hesitate to buy a box of the chocolate fudge kind at the drug store. Then I started on the Ayds plan the very next day.

I took Ayds like you're supposed to — one or two before each meal with a hot drink (coffee for me) — and they really helped curb my appetite. For breakfast, I found I could pass up hot buttered biscuits and be perfectly happy with just cereal and toast. For lunch, I was content with something like a hamburger. And at supper, I was satisfied with small portions of what the rest of the family ate, because I really wasn't hungry for more. Finally, for a late snack, I'd have a couple of Ayds — while watching television — to see me through the night.

I'll tell you, I wanted that Ayds plan to work more than I ever wanted anything in my life. And it did! In about two weeks, my slacks began to feel looser. When I finally got up the courage to step on the scale, I'd taken off six pounds. Honest, it made me feel so good, I decided to continue on the Ayds plan to the skinny end.

Actually, it took me nearly eight months to lose 48 pounds. And now that I'm down to 112, I've never felt better. Not only have I more energy, but I'm having more fun — swimming and bicycling and going out all the time.

I've never had more flattery either, particularly from friends in my hometown, Savannah, Georgia. Sometimes those who haven't seen me in a while will spread their hands in the air and say: "Just think, you once measured this wide."

As for Bobby and me, our life has changed completely. We've not only stopped arguing, but our love for each other has deepened. Why, thanks to the Ayds plan, my husband is paying me so much attention, I feel like I'm a bride again. And am I having fun buying a second trousseau — a whole new wardrobe of beautiful junior-size clothes — because we're going places and doing all sorts of exciting things now.

BEFORE AND AFTER MEASUREMENTS

	Before	After
Height	5'6"	5'6"
Weight	160 lbs.	112 lbs.
Bust	38"	33"
Waist	31"	23"
Hips	40"	31½"
Dress	18	7

Now that I'm down to 112 pounds, my husband says that my figure is as good as any professional model's.

Since I lost 48 pounds, I'm into all sorts of activities and have a closet full of exciting new clothes.

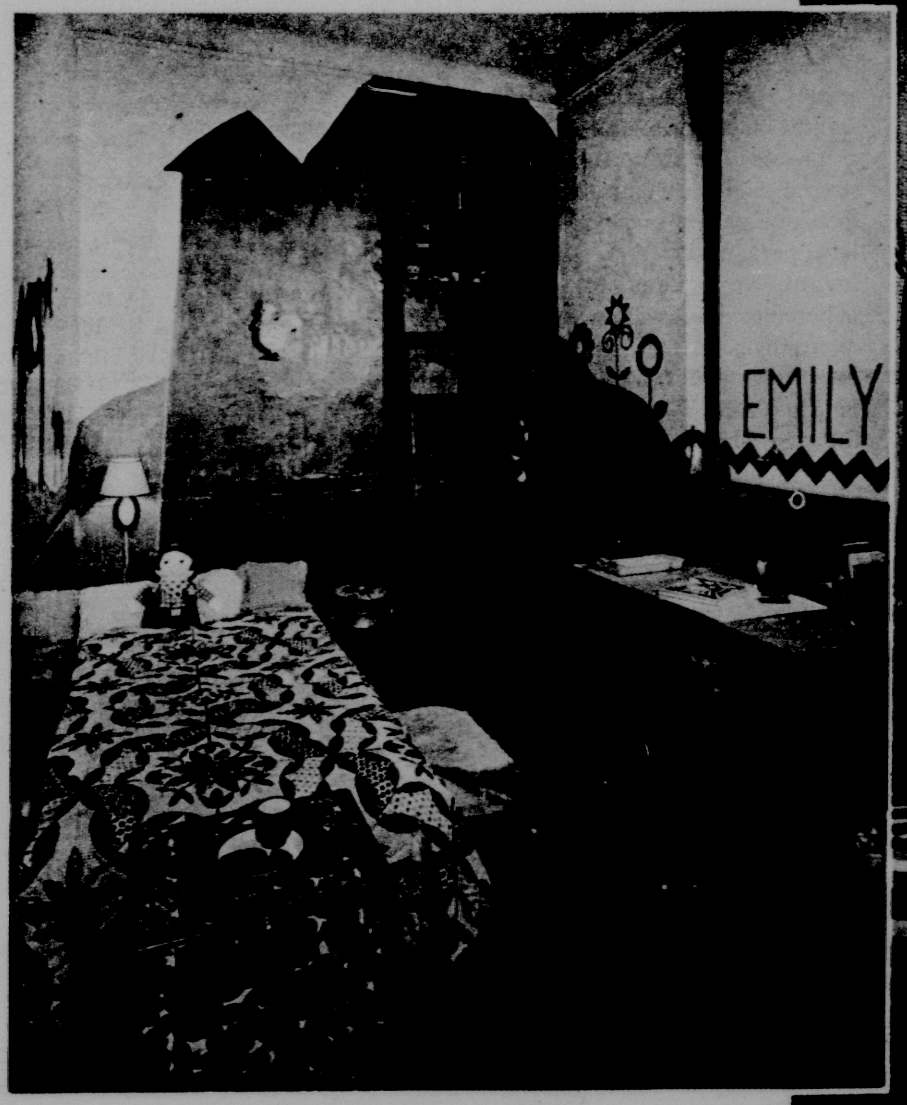
Good Ideas That Won't Throttle Your Gift Budget



What young girl wouldn't love this room, complete with a "barn"? The loft and closet were constructed by breaking through to an adjacent closet. The outlines of barn and hills were first traced in chalk, then filled in with paint. The flowers (right) were made of self-adhesive vinyl and felt. The furnishings (except the desk) all came from the five-and-ten and were selected to "grow" with Emily or be used elsewhere. Approximate prices: red chair, $6; wall light, $5; coverlet, $7.

This carpet-tiled room with built-in platform seating was furnished entirely from the five-and-ten! For added practicality, three easy-care Parsons tables were grouped in a free-form design. Curtains were used at the windows and to cover the walls. The slat blind was threaded with bias binding to enhance color coordination. Paintings and pillows complete the attractive setting. Both rooms designed by Ellen Liman.

commodities like home furnishings. Low prices—$4 for a rug, $3 for a lamp and $5 for a pair of curtains—together with a good selection of well-designed merchandise, permit those of us who have put off making new purchases—as well as everyone who appreciates saving money—to decorate well at an unbelievably modest cost.

While you may not find couches or credenzas, you will find practically everything else: tables and chairs; area rugs and carpet tiles; curtain rods and curtains; bath accessories and bedspreads; linens and light fixtures. And what is not available can, with some ingenuity, be improvised from what is sold.

Service is often limited, but it does exist. Window shades can be cut to order, some stores accept credit cards, and the sales personnel at a large Woolworth's where I recently shopped more than made up in helpfulness what they lacked in numbers. Purchases can sometimes be made on the layaway plan.

Inventory seems to vary from week to week and from store to store within the same chain, and while there are no special orders taken or deliveries made—it's strictly carry-it-home-yourself – the advantages are that you get an instant interior and no delivery delays.

Merchandise should be carefully examined and evaluated for durability, and if it has working parts (as a lamp, for example), tested before being bought. (Inexpensive does not necessarily mean cheaply made. As a matter of fact, products that must withstand the use of thousands of customers are often subjected to more rigorous quality control than items custom-made for a select few.) On the other hand, longevity may not be important. One advantage of an inexpensive purchase is that it can be discarded without breaking the bank—thereby changing the decor at will – a very practical consideration in furnishing the rooms of growing children or people on the move.

An open mind and an experimental attitude will help you make the most of the five-and-ten as a source of home furnishings. Here are some ideas to start you thinking, looking and buying with a discriminating and imaginative eye.

Decorate Accessories. Simple staples such as mirrors, lampshades, wastebaskets, picture frames, bulletin boards, and just about anything that would be improved with embellishment, can become important accessories. Decorate them with paint, fabric trim or remnants, wallpaper or self-adhesive plastic. For example, in colors that coordinate, wind yarn around a solid-color lampshade or spray-paint plastic flowers.

Transform Ready-Mades to Custom-Mades. A curtain that is a little too short to hang properly at your window can be "lengthened" by adding fringe to the bottom and "personalized" by choosing the trim color to go with the room. Economical custom-mades can similarly be created by trimming bedspreads, window shades, rugs and tablecloths. For example, sew pretty ribbons in different colors on a bedspread or trim a window shade with a design of colored adhesive tape.

Place Small Furnishings in Groups. If some furnishings are too small in size for a given space, "magnify" their appearance by using them in multiples. One scatter rug might look insignificant, but several placed or sewn together could be a conversation piece. Install not one but several hanging light fixtures or more than one pair of curtains—three pairs in tiers, perhaps.

Invent New Uses for Furnishings. When the choice is limited, widen it with alternatives. If a store does not have the bedspread you have been looking for but does have a sturdy tablecloth in just the right size and color, try that on the bed! Stepladders are perfect to display plants; stools can double as bedside tables; kitchen cabinets laid sideways can provide seating (add pillows on top) and a storage unit; an upside-down straw basket attached to the ceiling might make an off-beat lighting fixture; and matching bathroom curtains can be created by attaching café clips to an extra set of bathroom towels.

Furnish With Non-Furnishing Items. For the best buys and the most unusual ideas, don't limit your looking to the home-furnishings counters. Aluminum foil, gift-wrapping paper or a fabulous dress fabric (make curtains and cover small chairs to match) can be inexpensive and effective wall coverings. Frame an attractive scarf, or use it as a table cover or to tie back curtains. In a child's room hang a shoe bag as a bedside "organizer" and a kite as a wall hanging.

The Hottest New Gifts for 1974:

A Report From New York's Giant Stores

By Jim Sirmans and Rosalyn Abrevaya

What are the hottest new items in Christmas gift giving for 1974? To find out, FAMILY WEEKLY took an informal survey of New York City department stores – Macy's, Gimbels, Bloomingdale's, etc. – those huge emporiums where each winter hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers – and tourists – come to do their buying.

RAGGEDY ANN DOLLS. While you can still get all sorts of "newfangled" dolls that eat, drink, take baths, fly airplanes and go on camping trips, store buyers are also betting on a trend back to the simple old Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls of yesteryear. This is in line with the increased popularity of wooden toys and toys that are ungimmicky, uncomplicated, less destructible–and less expensive. The runaway best seller in new rag dolls is "Holly Hobbie," shown here.

CAPES. The romantic, swashbuckling cape, in a variety of lengths, promises to be the trend-setting style of the year. If it's to be a surprise gift, here are some buying tips: 1. If the person is short, choose a cape that does not use yards of material. 2. Look for variations on a theme: a flare that falls just from the shoulders, while the front has a shapely wrap belt; or select a three-quarter length.

DIGITAL WATCHES. "Everyone wants one," is the consensus of top retailers. Although the price for a digital watch is above that of a conventional timepiece, digital fever is running high. Often operating on a quartz-crystal base, the better watches are accurate to within three minutes a year, are highly shock absorbent and, in most fine models, you get to press a button for an instant "readout."

POCKET CALCULATORS. You no longer have to be a mathematical genius to work a calculator. In fact the new portable ones–some so compact you can hold them in your hand–are being used to manage household budgets, keep income tax statements accurate and provide students with a great learning tool. For those who care, there are even home calculators that come in decorator colors. The best part is that in the last year, the price has been coming down. You can wish someone a Merry Christmas with one for less than $50.

TERRARIUMS. While more of us are turning to gardening and the "greening" of American homes, there are also folks who just can't seem to get the knack, but who love plants. Thus the popularity of the terrarium. Not only is it a graceful addition to any room in the home, but because the plants are enclosed and in an ideal natural habitat, they require less care than the usual house plant. What to do if the terrarium clouds up? Simple. Water the plants less and the haze will disappear! Terrarium plants should be moist to the touch, not wet, and be slightly dry before rewatering. Pre-planted terrariums can be purchased in all shapes, or you can buy a kit and make one yourself.

Deck the halls with Black & Decker!

If you're looking for a great gift for the man around your house, a shiny new Black & Decker power tool kit might just be the answer. (At a surprisingly low price tag, too.) And each one of these three Black & Decker power tools is guaranteed for one whole year. If there's anything about it he doesn't like – and we mean anything – he can return it to a participating retailer or Black & Decker Service Center. It will be exchanged for a replacement tool, no questions asked. (Proof of purchase and return of original standard equipment required. Guarantee does not include tools used commercially or in rental service.) So this Christmas, give your man something he can work with. At a price you can work with.

A Christmas Quiz on the Psychology of Gift Giving

True or False: A gift from the boss, a high-ranking official or a celebrity means more than the same present from someone in your own status bracket. (See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The most generous of gift givers fall into one personality category.

2. When it comes to gifts, affection or just plain helpfulness, it's better to be a "giver" than a "taker."

3. A gift from the boss, a high-ranking official or a celebrity means more than the same present from someone in your own status bracket.

4. Whether a person gives much or little at Christmas depends to a large extent on what he thinks of himself.

5. The more generous you are at Christmastime, the more your friends will appreciate your gifts – and the spirit that motivated them.

6. How much a person will spend for a present or donate to a cause depends on his mood.

ANSWERS

1. True. Studies at Wesleyan University show that the optimist is the most interested in doing favors for others, has the greatest capacity for warm relationships with people–and is much more likely to go along with the concept that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

2. True. As psychologist Rolland S. Parker sums it up succinctly in his definitive treatise, "Emotional Common Sense": "Takers are selfish and insensitive. If you are a taker, beware. You will be seen through and rejected." He warns givers to learn to recognize takers, who make a career of exploiting the generosity of givers. There is, he points out, a difference between having compassion and being a sucker.

3. True. It has been shrewdly observed that in most cases "the gift derives its value from the giver." This doesn't mean that a necktie from your boss or the president of the company is more esteemed than a handsome watch received from a friend of lesser eminence. But studies show that, other factors being equal, status does add luster to any gift, whether it be large or small.

4. True. Psychological studies at a leading university have shown that, generally speaking, the higher a person's self-esteem, the more highly he regards others. And it follows that this is reflected in his gift giving. It's interesting to note in this connection that investigations have shown that the Scrooge type of person–the most miserly giver–is seldom happy either with himself or the people around him.

5. True. However, there is one important consideration that should be taken into account. Tact and thoughtfulness should be exercised to avoid giving someone a present so rare or expensive that it is beyond his means to reciprocate in kind. Studies have shown that if a person is unable to return a gift or favor of commensurate value, it may damage the relationship, since people do not enjoy the feeling that they are under obligation to another and are unable to discharge that obligation.

6. True–and this applies even to children, as evidenced by Stanford University studies in which boys and girls were divided into groups. One group was asked to think of things that made them happy. The other group was asked to think of things that made them sad. Subjects were then given an opportunity to donate money to other children, in the investigator's absence. Results: The children who were instructed to think of things that made them happy gave significantly more than the group who were told to think of things that made them sad. Other findings: Females gave more than males overall.

Kitchen fun for a wintery afternoon: Make Fruit 'n' Nut Chocolate Patties, Honey Custard and Tomato-Zucchini Cheese Casserole.

SUNSHINE FAMILY MENU
Tomato-Zucchini Cheese Casserole*
Whole Wheat Bread Margarine
Honey Custard*
Fruit 'n' Nut Chocolate Patties*
Apple Cider Milk
*Recipe given

TOMATO-ZUCCHINI CHEESE CASSEROLE

2 lbs. tomatoes, sliced
1 lb. zucchini, thinly sliced
2 cups (8 ozs.) Muenster cheese, shredded or diced
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. In 2-qt. casserole, layer tomatoes, zucchini and cheese. Sprinkle each layer with a little salt and pepper.

2. Finish casserole with tomatoes and cheese. Dot surface with butter. Cover casserole with foil.

3. Bake 45 minutes. Remove foil and continue baking about 10 minutes, or until vegetables are fork-tender.

Makes 4-6 servings

HONEY CUSTARD

Dash salt
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
2½ cups milk
Ground cinnamon

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. In medium bowl, beat together eggs, honey, salt and vanilla. Heat milk until a tiny rim of bubbles forms around edge of pan.

2. Slowly stir hot milk into egg-honey mixture, beating continually with wire whisk as you pour.

3. Pour egg-milk mixture into 6 custard cups. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Place cups in baking pan. Pour very hot water into pan, 1 inch deep.

4. Bake about 40-45 minutes, or until a knife inserted halfway between center and edge of custard comes out clean. Remove cups from water. Serve warm or cold.

Makes 6 servings

FRUIT 'N' NUT CHOCOLATE PATTIES

2 pkgs. (6-oz. size) semisweet chocolate bits
2 teaspoons shortening
¼ cup roasted unsalted peanuts
½ cup walnut pieces
½ cup raisins

1. Melt chocolate bits and shortening over hot, not boiling, water. Stir with spoon just until chocolate melts.

2. Stir in peanuts, walnuts and raisins, reserving a few of each to decorate tops of patties.

3. Spoon tablespoonfuls of mixture onto foil-lined cookie sheet or large platter. Decorate tops with reserved nuts and raisins.

4. Refrigerate about 30 minutes, or until firm. Peel off foil. Patties are best when freshly made. They will soften slightly at room temperature, so store them in refrigerator.

007, in New Orleans on business, in "Live and Let Die."

Roger Moore, alias James Bond III (after Sean Connery and George Lazenby), and I met while he was filming "The Man With the Golden Gun" on location in Hong Kong. We sat by the Olympic-sized swimming pool where, in the film, 007 encounters a lovely Oriental mermaid.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Are you more at home as James Bond in "The Man With the Golden Gun" than you were in "Live and Let Die"?

ROGER: Very much. I was the new boy then. Even my son believed that Sean Connery was James Bond. I remember when he asked me if I was stronger than anybody else and I said, "Yes, of course." And he said, "What if James Bond came through the door?" I said, "I am James Bond." And he replied, "I mean if the real James Bond, Sean Connery, came in." I told him we'd face that situation when the occasion arose! But now I am okay. I no longer feel I have Sean Connery's name on the back of my chair.

FW: How many Bond films have you signed for?

ROGER: Three.

FW: Why only three?

ROGER: I think maybe the producers ran out of zeros when they handed me their contract.

FW: Has the public accepted you as James Bond?

ROGER: My first Bond film did more at the box office than any of the previous Bonds.

FW: What makes you think that with all the attention you're getting now, you can keep your feet on the ground?

ROGER: First of all, I got a lot of attention when I did my television series, which were shown in 96 countries—including Iron Curtain countries—so I wasn't exactly unknown. Secondly, I believe you are what you start out with in life. Nobody suddenly becomes known as a no-good—like an actor I worked with who shall remain nameless. He was such a rotter that the only time I talked to him was on the set. One day I happened to run into the hairdresser, who was crying her heart out because this actor had treated her so badly. So for once I broke my rule and asked him why. He said he was not in this business to win a popularity contest.

FW: What did you tell him?

ROGER: I told him that since he wasn't much of an actor, he might as well try for the popularity poll instead.

FW: Do you ever lose your temper?

ROGER: Never at the studio. The only one who sees it is my wife Luisa. And that is intentional. I don't work well in an atmosphere of tension.

FW: Are there any restrictions as to what parts you can play in between Bond films?

ROGER: I can do anything but play a secret agent.

FW: You've done five TV series: "The Persuaders" with Tony Curtis, "The Saint," "Ivanhoe," "The Alaskans," "Maverick." Did you enjoy them?

ROGER: I enjoyed "The Saint."

FW: Your father was on the police force. What did he do?

ROGER: He was a plan-drawer. If there was an accident or a murder, he would recreate the crime on paper.

FW: What kind of influence did he have on your upbringing?

ROGER: He taught me to believe in discipline and organization. He also taught me a healthy respect for law and order.

FW: Are you strict in disciplin-

IF YOU RETAIN FLUIDS, THEN TRY CARLTON FREDERICK'S "CAVE-WOMAN REDUCING DIET" RIGHT NOW!

To introduce you to nutritionally-sound reducing (and living). For women (and their men) who are NOT cheating, NOT lying, NOT fooling themselves about how HARD it is for them to lose weight! But who are blocked by the bio-chemistry of their bodies from losing weight even on the most agonizing crash diets!

You Know That This Diet Is For You IF—

- You retain fluids, even on ordinary diets!
- The diets you've tried end up putting weight on you, instead of taking it off!
- You need giant portions of food to keep you going every day—even if you want to lose 9 or 10 pounds in 10 to 14 days!

If The Answer To These Questions Is Yes, Then YOU Are A Bio-Chemical Cave-Woman, Or Cave-Man! This Means That your body is an especially efficient fat-producing machine! And if you don't control it correctly, right now, you will inevitably get fatter and fatter—grosser and grosser—as you get older and older!

BUT, if you switch—at last—to a diet that USES that special body chemistry of yours, instead of ABUSES it, then you may actually do all this, faster than you may ever have dreamed:

- Lose over 100 pounds, if you must (or any figure in-between)—without bagging, sagging or pouching!
- Lose more inches than you lose weight—so that your body slims downs even faster than the weight drains off!
- Reshape your body's architecture to your heart's desire—so fat flows out of ugly bulges that you couldn't whittle down an inch before!
- And, perhaps best of all, get rid of excess fluid FAST! So you look marvelous, right from the beginning!

All while you are suddenly "super-charged" with fantastic new energy! With glowing hair and skin! With stronger nails! And with so much less "nervousness" that your family may throw their arms around you with joy!

And This Is Just The Beginning! Only The First Example Of How Carlton Fredericks Uses Foods And Vitamins AS MEDICINES To Treat—Not Only Overweight—But All These Other Ailments As Well—

no more premenstrual tortures, or painful periods . . .

natural-food changes in the face, so remarkable that friends may ask whether there has been plastic surgery . . .

heightened response to medication if you become sick, without the usual overwhelming side effects . . .

increased carbohydrate tolerance for diabetics, permitting a reduction in insulin . . .

new, natural-hormone protection against heart failure . . .

the ability to slow the rate of cellular aging . . .

an inner guard against the complexion drying excessively . . .

rapid healing of canker sores . . .

new help to quiet or even avoid nightmares, and early-morning wakening . . .

remission of ulcerative colitis in as little as ten days . . .

drop in the inter-eye pressure so often associated with glaucoma . . .

stimulation of the pituitary system so dramatically that it increases both the reserve power of the heart and the capacities of the muscles for work—so middle-aged people "turn back the physical clock" ten or even twenty years!

In Other Words, As Carlton Fredericks Himself Says: "There Is Every Reason To Expect That YOU WILL AVOID, MITIGATE, OR DELAY MANY OF

Let the author tell you—in his own words—

THE SCIENTIFIC PHILOSOPHY THAT BUILT THIS BOOK!

(All quotes from the book itself.)

Neither the clock nor the calendar can cause osteo-arthritis, decalcification of the jaw bone and loosening of the teeth, graying hair, wrinkling, or loss of zest for living.

It would seem logical for you to wonder why the physician seems to have a blind spot about the twilight zone of nutritional deficiency. Part of his myopia derives from lack of training in the field of nutrition. 72% of American medical schools do not offer a course in this subject as a part of the medical curriculum. In the 28% of schools that do offer such a course, the longest one given is some five hours of nutritional training, in one thousand hours of medical education.

I have seen the arthritic restored to social and vocational usefulness . . . coronary insufficiency helped . . . patients with congestive heart failure, who were going downhill with orthodox treatment, successfully treated with vitamin and mineral therapy. I have seen severe angina mitigated and mild angina eliminated.

Why not let him prove that he can do the same for you—today . . . without your risking a penny!

5 QUICK CASE HISTORIES—

out of dozens, to let you feel the joy others have had, when a simple shift in eating patterns CHANGED THEIR ENTIRE LIVES! (All quotes from the book itself.)

"Ever since I began menstruating, I had to throw away 8 or 10 days each month—I just couldn't function. Now my menstrual has dropped from 6 days to 3, and the cramps and weight gain are gone. I feel like an idiot, when I realize that simple changes in my food habits could have done this a long time ago."

"I don't have headaches any more . . . My new aspirin bottle is intact—I haven't taken a dose in the last two months."

"As breast cysts diminished in number and size, and in some cases vanished completely, the students expressed their astonishment—startled that this symptom, too, can be an indirect by-product of food-choices that do not satisfy the needs of the body."

"Her symptoms disappeared one by one, until she found herself able to take liquor or leave it, or take one drink and stop."

(From an elderly woman, formerly on the verge of a "nervous breakdown")—"I don't know what you gave me . . . but it descends on me like a blanket of peace."

THE CHANGES THAT ARE REGARDED AS THE INEVITABLE TOLL OF TIME ITSELF"!

And you will break out at last from the fatal error of thinking that there are certain disabilities and sicknesses that not only come with time, but are actually caused by it! So you need never again sit helplessly by while your doctor says, "Of course you have arthritis; you're sixty years old"! Or allow your eye specialist to remark, "The cataract you have is a product of old age"!

"This is simply not true", says Carlton Fredericks! "What you are suffering from is not age, but hidden malnutrition"! The overwhelming fact that as you grow older, your body extracts less power from its food! And that, if you do not make up for that loss of vital nourishment—through the medicinal use of special vitamins and foods—then the organs of your body start to starve a little more each day for that missing power!

What happens is that your body slips into a "Twilight Zone" of borderline deficiencies . . . of minor breakdowns that at first are almost unnoticeable! For years, you can continue in this borderline state, with no other real symptom than the fact that you feel always tired, always irritable, always rotten!

And then one of the organs finally can't keep limping along! Finally breaks down! And you "develop" a nameable physical disease—most often a degenerative disorder such as arthritis, diabetes, or disorders of the heart or blood vessels! And when such a disease comes to the surface—as it does in 36% of those who survive to the age of sixty—it is then misinterpreted as the penalty of living too long!

(Yes, misinterpreted! Because, 45 years ago, the American physician, XX Langstroth, found dietary deficiencies were uniformly present in older people with degenerative diseases—and just as uniformly ABSENT in healthy people the same age!)

But Now See What Happens When Foods And Vitamins Are Used As Medicines To Treat (As Example #1) THOSE WHO ARE BEING "TORN APART" BY THEIR NERVES!

These are the people who have suddenly found themselves gradually and progressively becoming increasingly nervous . . . easily startled or irritated . . . hypersensitive to noise . . . driven to distraction by the shrill voices of children, or the monotone of the radio . . . subject to growing insomnia . . . now easily offended or hurt . . . given to anger or crying with little or no provocation . . . even easily frightened, and plagued remorselessly by worry, without really feeling that worry is truly justified!

Soon they find themselves slipping into deeper and deeper anxieties . . . then days and even weeks of agonizing depression . . . and finally, thoughts of suicide, fears of attack, even the horror of going completely out of control themselves, and falling helplessly into the final, crushing land-of-no-return, called by their friends "a nervous breakdown"!

Tragic? Yes! But even more tragic because all these symptoms may NOT come from emotional disturbances at all! May not be "mental" at all! But may come—instead—from the fact that people who find themselves in deep trouble like this may need certain special foods and vitamins in quantities HUNDREDS OF TIMES the "normal" requirement! And if they do NOT get these proper quantities of these "pennies-a-day" nutrients, then such "unknowing starvation" will subtly but surely "CHOKE OFF" the normal functioning of their brain and nervous system!

And the symptoms that are "destroying" them are exactly as though the emotional-brain were becoming hysterical, because it cannot, for lack of proper nutrients, any longer obtain its necessary fuel supply!

No wonder Carlton Fredericks says bluntly: "I have watched the paranoid lose his delusions . . . the "senile" become functional again . . . the nervous become serene! There have also been the less dramatic, but equally meaningful changes: healthier hair, better nails, skin with better tone, better elimination, more resistance to fatigue, improved sleep—all the little things that are so important in determining one's feeling of well-being"!

And Now See What Happens When Foods And Vitamins Are Used As Medicines To Treat ALL THESE AILMENTS TOO:

Including, as just a few more vital examples:

The common vitamin which, if used the right way, contributes to a therapeutic response to rheumatoid arthritis!

The special food factors that actually act as scavengers of abnormal compounds in the cells!

The "super-vitamin" whose documented results, from Europe, now indicate: "not only a prolongation of the prime of life, but an actual reversal of the aging process"!

The simple switch in diet that caused one husband to write Carlton Fredericks: "Hey, Doc! How do you turn it off?"

How better diet may help protect you against cancer of the breast (a statement which Carlton Fredericks says is "neither reckless nor undocumented), as well as determine how feminine a woman can be!

Why formerly virile men suddenly become impotent, lose their sex drive, and may even watch in horror as their breasts enlarge! (Called by Carlton Fredericks, "nutritional castration", its greatest tragedy lies in the fact that it is so easily preventable—if you take action at once!)

Documented case histories—reported by the Baylor University School of Medicine, and chronicled by the Reader's Digest—of men and women who have avoided operations for slipped disk, simply by taking large doses of a special vitamin!

How to build food-resistance to fungus infections, such as athlete's foot—as well as reduce the deposits of ugly tartar on your teeth!

The "brain-fat"—so powerful it is being used to stimulate brain-function in brain-injured children!

What to do if your cold will NOT respond to Vitamin C!

How to prevent both ordinary headaches, and the type of migraine caused by histamine! With food; and not dangerous drugs!

Why the repetition of strokes may now be blocked with the "sleeping" brain cells, lying next to the areas where destruction has taken place, now being called to take over the "lost" functions of the damaged area!

And Much, Much More! Far More Than We Can Even LIST On This Page! And All Yours To Read From Cover To Cover—Without Risking A Penny!

This book is for people who want to get things done! Imagine HOW MUCH BETTER YOU'LL FEEL AND LOOK—because this book not only takes care of your fat-problem, but your other health problems as well!

Why not get started on the new, beautiful life it offers you—today!

ing your children?

ROGER: About as strict as my father was, and that was pretty strict. He'd spank me about once a month. It took about 28 days for it to wear off, then I got it again. He strongly believed that the relationship between parents and children should be based on respect, and it's pretty difficult to respect a father who lets you get away with everything.

FW: The last time I visited you on location you were barreling down a dusty Jamaican road in a double-decker London bus, pursued by a police car. You had quite a few thrills while making "Live and Let Die." What do you do for excitement in "The Man With the Golden Gun"?

ROGER: We have a fantastic car chase.

FW: 007 has had fantastic car chases before.

ROGER: This one is different. And I can't tell you anything about it because I'd give away the gimmick. But we've tried it out, computered it, and if it works, it will be the most exciting car chase ever filmed.

Moore's first Bond film outsold any of the previous Bonds.

FW: Have you had any close calls playing Bond?

ROGER: The speedboat chase in "Live and Let Die." It nearly cost me my front teeth.

FW: How?

ROGER: I was clipping along at 80 miles per hour, and at that speed you don't steer a boat with the wheel. You steer with the jets that move the boat in different directions. As I was heading for the beach I ran out of gas and there was no way I could control the boat with the wheel. I hit the beach and was thrown out of the boat. Luckily, I didn't get hurt.

FW: Have you had any close calls in your own life?

ROGER (with a big grin): Only when husbands showed up at unforeseen times.

FW: I thought you were happily married to the lovely Italian actress Luisa Mattioli.

ROGER: I am. I am. My third marriage. And this one will last.

FW: Why are you so sure?

ROGER: I can't afford another divorce.

FW: How did you meet?

ROGER: During the filming of "The Rape of the Sabines," one of the many costume epics I've made. I played Romulus.

FW: How does she feel about all of the attention you are getting from other women?

ROGER: She's Italian. Of course she's jealous. When she really gets angry, she throws things at me.

FW: What does she do with herself all day?

ROGER: She looks after our children, Deborah, who is 11, Geoffrey, who is eight, and Christian, who was born last year.

FW: Most actors, no matter how successful, are plagued by a feeling of insecurity. Are you?

ROGER: Maybe the actors you talk about have reasons to feel insecure. I don't.

A Memo to Parents About How Kids See Sisters and Brothers

"A child can't have the foggiest notion what it's going to be like with a sibling. Why should he? Even a parent doesn't know."

Elizabeth Gee

By Helen DeRosis, M.D.

Your husband walks in one evening and announces, "What do you think, dear? We are going to have a new member in our family. A nice new wife is going to come to stay with us in a few weeks, and she'll live right here. We'll fix a lovely room for her, and we're all going to take good care of her and love her. She'll be good company for you, and you can do things together."

If we change only a few words, substituting the words brother or sister for wife, we have what many parents tell their children when a baby is expected in the family.

I wonder, however, how many children fall for this. I wonder how many of them need this kind of preparedness. I wonder even about those who seem to accept it and who go running around telling everyone that a new member of the family is going to come to stay with them and will be loved as they are. It may be that these children are getting the message: "That's the way the cookie crumbles; and whether you like it or not, that's the way it's going to be." Or, the child may be sincere in seeming delighted but is merely imitating the words and attitude of the parents. After all, a child can't have the foggiest notion what it's going to be like with a sibling. Why should he? Even a parent doesn't know what having another baby is like, unless it's a third or fourth.

What can a parent do to prevent sibling rivalry from developing? First, parents need to know that it is not inevitable. I know it may sound contradictory to say, "Don't expect sibling rivalry, but make sure that you make the moves necessary to prevent its occurrence." Yet, in a sense, that's the task confronting the parent. So let us turn our attention to the moves that one might take in order to prevent sibling rivalry.

Briefly, try to avoid making comparisons of any kind between your children of any age. I stress of any kind. That may strike you as unreasonable.

But I have to stress it because you will invariably make comparisons, and if you try not to, you may just make less of them.

I cannot list the thousands of forms in which such comparisons can be made. An obvious one is: "Why can't you pick up in your room the way your brother does? And he's a boy besides!" Clunk! I repeat, you cannot possibly avoid them all.

Please do not think that I'm throwing out the concept of comparison altogether. Surely, one of the ways a child learns is by comparing himself in all regards to others. I am speaking of the method of comparison as used by parents, supposedly to encourage their children to do better. But when used in that way, it often results in feelings of ineptness in the child being admonished. This form of comparison is not going to enhance your child's self-esteem. It will do just the opposite. An insidious feature of making comparisons is that neither parent nor child recognizes the damaging features of this method. The child often feels put down. The parent often is putting down, and no one knows what is going on. When the parent is not putting down but merely remarking, "What a nice sand castle Sue made," sister Carla will be able to pick up the straightforwardness of the remark and not feel belittled.

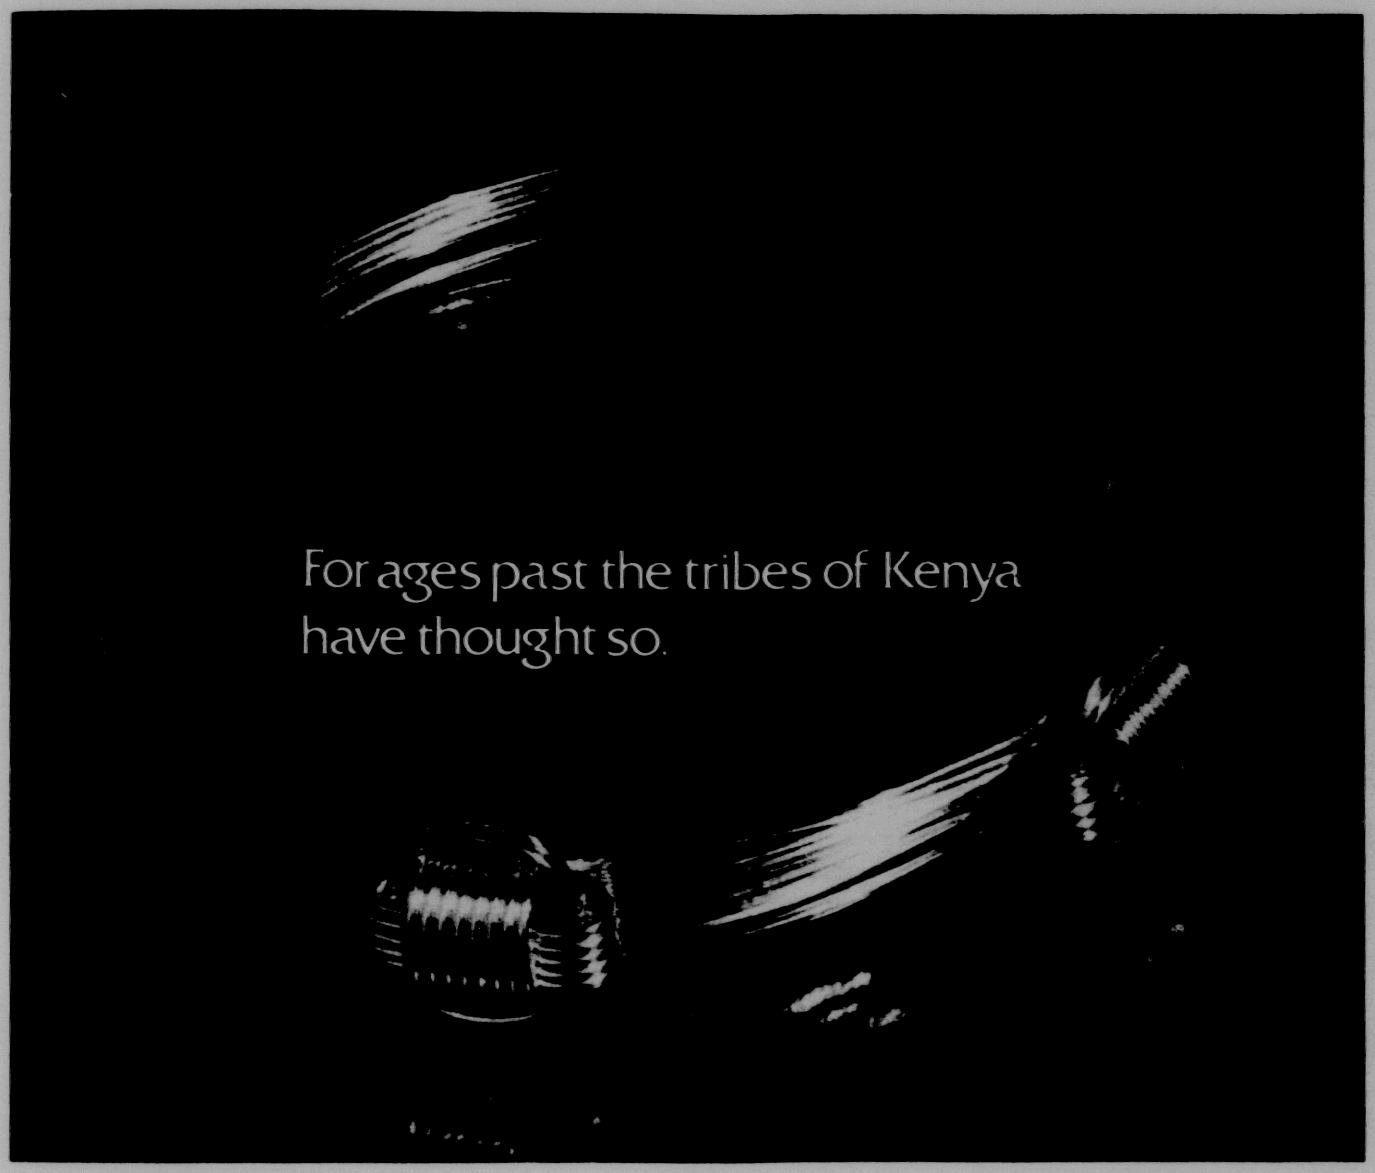
One of the most socially acceptable put-downs is seen in children's athletics. A father's exasperation or outright anger on the Little League ball field is often looked upon with bemused tolerance. Sometimes there is admiration for the father who is so involved in his child's athletic activities that he gives up hours of his time to establish a model of concern that can ofttimes be viewed as nearly hysterical, not to mention discourteous, pessimistic (you'll never be able to throw straight!) and derisive.

Another way that sibling rivalry can be avoided is by not crowding a child with responsibility for a younger sibling. While this cannot be avoided completely, nor need it be, consistent sibling responsibility is not a natural state for a child. He may enjoy being responsible for a younger sibling sometimes and under certain circumstances. But not as an inflexible chore, for which he will be made to feel lesser if he shirks in his performance.

A third trap that parents fall into occurs when a parent repeatedly shares with one child negative or positive feelings about a second child, feelings that are clearly meant to be kept from that other child. I stress "repeatedly" because occasional sharings of such matters are not harmful and are found in the context of most family living.

But repeated sharings may place a child in an awkward position and confuse his sense of loyalties. Parents must face the fact that their relationship with their children is different from that between siblings, and they would do well not to compete with their children for the same position.

WILL THIS TALISMAN BRACELET BRING YOU GOOD LUCK?



ORIGINALLY created with intricately knotted elephant hair, these bracelets were thought to inherently possess good luck and were often given by tribesmen to hunters after a successful elephant hunt.

Later, made in multi-strand gold, silver and copper wire, they became talismans of good fortune for either sex in finding a mate . . . getting and keeping good health . . . and success in any enterprise.

Can you solve the riddle of its ancient design?

The first question people will ask you about this Talisman bracelet is, "How do you take it off?"

When you mysteriously slip it off your wrist, you'll be asked more:

Is it all one piece of wire? Where does it start . . . where does it end? Does it really give you good luck?

And why have elephant hair styled bracelets suddenly become so overwhelmingly desired?

As old as Africa . . . as new as today!

Based on the original ancient design from the tribes of Kenya, these bracelets have been re-created in 5-strand copper, silver-plate and gold-plate wire. These handmade bracelets have an untamed, sophisticated look that is sure to attract attention wherever you go.

One of the most ingenious features of these unusual bracelets is that they're completely adjustable and look as well on men as they do on women.

At last at a price you can afford!

Only wearing these bracelets can show you how superior they are to any elephant hair bracelets you've yet seen.

The handmade feeling . . . the unusual knots . . . the way each bracelet adjusts . . . the mystery of its design can only be experienced by actually wearing one of these bracelets. The good luck is not guaranteed, but complete satisfaction is.

Please compare them with the $40 . . . $50 . . . and $100 elephant hair bracelets you've seen. Unless you feel these Talisman bracelets are superior, return for no cost.

Only $3.98 for the copper, $4.98 for the silver-plate, $5.98 for the gold-plate or $11.95 for the entire collection.

Please rush me the following Talisman Elephant Hair Styled Bracelets on no risk 10-day trial. If not delighted I may return for full refund.

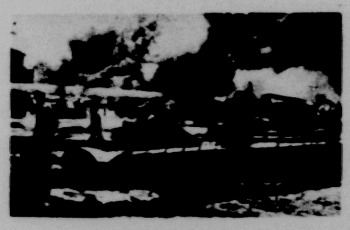
U.S.S. CALIFORNIA SUNK AND RAISED TO FIGHT AGAIN

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ASKS CONGRESS TO DECLARE WAR

This series of major historical importance is limited to 25,000 in .999 fine silver at only $14.95 each.



"Yesterday, December 7, 1941 — a date which will live in infamy — the United States of America was suddenly and deliberately attacked by naval and air forces of the Empire of Japan."...

Franklin Delano Roosevelt

When the raid was over, at 9:45 a.m., on an otherwise serene Sunday morning, 2,341 Army, Navy and Marine Corps personnel were dead.... But in the hearts of all Americans, still destined to live forever.

And, beyond the death and the destruction emerged a greater America—an America, united as never before and determined to defend democracy in its darkest hour of peril.

Now, on the 33rd anniversary of that day of infamy, it is indeed fitting that we still "Remember Pearl Harbor" and the sacrifices made there for all of us.

A Magnificent Medallic Tribute to the Gallant Americans at Pearl Harbor

With this announcement, you now have the opportunity to acquire the First and Only Edition of Pearl Harbor Commemorative Medals authorized and approved by The Arizona Memorial Museum Foundation and struck in .999 fine silver.

You further have a unique opportunity to contribute to...

A Permanent Memorial to American Heroism

The Hamilton Mint is honored to be able to help build a permanent memorial in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. Under the direction of The 46th Branch, Fleet Reserve Association, a portion of the sale of each commemorative set will go to the Foundation for the Development of The Arizona Memorial Museum. By purchasing this commemorative set you join the honor role of those who support this memorial and what it stands for. In addition, you bring into your home a rare and valuable collection in precious pure silver.

The Pearl Harbor Commemorative Collection

This historic collection consists of 28 superbly crafted medals, each medal being 1½" in diameter and struck in .999 Fine Silver. Each will contain 480 grains (a full troy ounce) of the finest silver available. And each is a glorious example of the engravers art with the sculptured bas relief portion in a satin finish against a gleaming mirror finish background. The subject matter of each medal has been carefully selected to tell the whole story of this historic day: from the tragedy of the U.S.S. Arizona and other great ships of the Pacific Fleet to the devastation of Hickam Field, individual acts of bravery and the address of President Roosevelt to Congress asking for a declaration of war. The medals will be issued two per month and in 14 months subscribers will have amassed 2⅓ troy pounds of .999 silver—more silver than the average person accumulates in a lifetime.

Your Personal Serial Number

Your medals will be minted expressly to your order and each will bear your own matching serial number along with The Hamilton Mint Hallmark. You will also receive a certificate certifying the precious metal content and limited edition status of your collection.

Issued in a Strictly Limited Edition at a Guaranteed Price

The Hamilton Mint, official minter of this series, will strike only 25,000 proof sets in .999 fine silver. Only one set will be allowed per subscriber and no more will ever be minted once the edition limits are reached.

Furthermore, while The Hamilton Mint does reserve the right to limit the edition below the published maximum limits, we do guarantee your subscription once your application is accepted. Under the terms of this offer we are officially committed to deliver to you at the low price stated in this offer, a complete set of 28 medals over the next 14 months, regardless of how high the price of silver and gold may rise.

Significant Investment Potential

In addition, this opportunity to acquire medals of artistic and historical significance comes at a time when economists are predicting that silver and gold will continue to become even more valuable in the years ahead. So please act promptly if you wish to be included within the edition limits. Send your application in today!

Special Display Case Included with Subscription

A handsome walnut display case is included at no cost to protect and display your entire 28 medal collection.

Deluxe Version: 24 Kt Gold on Pure Silver

At your option, you may order your proof-quality Pearl Harbor medals in 24 Kt Gold layered over pure silver. The 10,000 sets thus offered will be extravagantly beautiful and quite rare. Each medal will also be individually serially numbered and hallmarked. Each will cost $19.95.

BARBARA DEMPSEY
A fighter, too

When former Heavyweight Boxing Champion Jack Dempsey, 79, was forced to close his 37-year-old bar and restaurant on Broadway because his rent was raised, his daughter Barbara, 25, came out fighting for him. Barbara, who works in London, wrote a letter to Queen Elizabeth asking for facts about the rumors that the Inch Corporation (the British company that forced the restaurant's closing) is a "front for the Royal Family finances." "I hope your Royal Family isn't involved," said Barbara. "The Queen's private investments are just that—private," replied a Buckingham Palace spokesman. The Inch Corporation, in the meantime, has denied that the Queen has any part in it.

AVA AND FRANK
"So much alike"

QUOTE: On Ava Gardner and her former spouse Frank Sinatra: "They were drawn to each other not only because of sexual attraction but because they were so much alike. Both were night people, barely capable of sleeping at all, liking to sit up into the small hours. Both loved Italian food, hard liquor, boxing matches; both were generous, warm, fiercely honest, violent-tempered, afraid of being used, deeply insecure and skeptical of their own talents, neurotic, tension-ridden. Their energies fused, and their relationship was from the outset passionate and yet deeply frustrating, tormenting, because, similar as they were, they had a terrifying ability to seek out each other's weaknesses." UNQUOTE. From "AVA," a new biography by Charles Higham (Delacorte Press, $7.95).

Horrors of imprisonment: Former Air Force Captain John Nasmyth looks back over the gulf of two years since he was released from a North Vietnamese prison camp: "Surprisingly, the main activity of the North Vietnamese was never to pump us for military information. It was more like they were trying to purge themselves of a massive inferiority complex. They're a poor, backward group of people who milk their Communist brothers for all they can. At the same time, they despise America for what it represents. . . . Tortures ran the gamut from beatings to withholding mosquito nets. It's impossible to sleep when you're trying to fight off a jillion bugs."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

SUGGESTION TO DETROIT

Car makers, I suggest that you
Turn out a car for boys,
A special model that goes slow
Yet makes a lot of noise.

Produce an auto that will squeal
Each time a corner's turned,
And one that shoots a stream of smoke,
Though little gas is burned.

This car (bright-colored—red or striped)
Need not go more than twenty,
Just so it roars and squeals and snorts
And scares us old folks plenty.

An Englishman, thrilled at his first visit to America, stepped off the ship in New York and gazed around at the tall buildings. Stopping a passerby, he said, "I can scarcely believe I am in America. Is this really New York City?" The man smiled and nodded. "Sí, señor," he said. —Lane Olinghouse
